FALL COMMITTEE DEMANDS MEXICO SIGN NEW TREATY

Recommends That Recognition Be Withheld Until Constitutional Changes Are Agreed To.

INTERVENTION ALTERNATIVE

Use of the Army and Navy to Set Up a Government Is Urged if Disorders Continue.

FINANCIAL HELP PROPOSED

Also Commissions to Settle Claims—American Losses During Revolutions More Than $500,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The Sub-Committee of the Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs, which, under the Chairmanship of Senator Fall, has carried out an extended inquiry into Mexican affairs, reported today to the full Foreign Affairs Committee a recommendation that a new treaty be entered into between this country and Mexico by which "practices now authorized by the Mexican Constitution" shall be abandoned and the lives and property of Americans in Mexico shall be safeguarded before the United States recognizes the new Government in Mexico.

If such an agreement cannot be reached between the two countries and Americans continue to suffer the committee recommends that we "send a police force consisting of the naval and military forces of our Government into the Republic of Mexico to open and maintain open every line of communication between the City of Mexico and every seaport and border port in Mexico."

Having obtained the assurances and recognized the Government, the Fall Committee favors generous loans to Mexico to meet the public debt and rehabilitate the railroads.

Conditions for Recognition.

Recognition of the new Government, says the sub-committee, should be based on these conditions, which would be expressed in a treaty:

"Article 130 of the Mexican Constitution of 1917 shall not apply to American missionaries, preachers, ministers, teachers or American schools, nor to American periodicals, but that American missionaries, ministers and teachers shall be allowed freely to enter, pass through and reside in Mexico, there to freely reside, preach, teach and write and hold property and conduct schools without interference by the authorities so long as such ministers, teachers or missionaries do not participate in Mexican politics or revolutions.

"That Article 3 shall not apply to any American teaching or conducting primary schools.

"That none of the provisions of Article 27 of said constitution with reference to limitations upon rights of property heretofore acquired by Americans, or which may hereafter be acquired, shall apply to Americans except where the limitation is written in the deed, lease or other instruments of the title, and particularly:

"The provision of said article to the effect that the subsoil products other than of metalliferous minerals shall be the property of the National Government of Mexico, to be disposed of by decree or by law, shall not apply to the property of American citizens purchasing from other individuals or from State, national or municipal authorities of Mexico, unless the limitations or reservations with reference to such subsoil products shall be written in the original deed or other instrument of conveyance transferring the surface of the property to such American purchaser.

"That the prohibition against the ownership of property in lands, waters, or their appurtenances, or against the concessions for the development of mines, waters, or mineral fuels in the Republic to foreigners, shall not apply to American citizens.

"That Subsection 2 of said Article 27 shall not apply to church properties or ecclesiastical residences, rectories, seminaries, orphan asylums or collegiate establishments of religious institutions or schools held or owned by Americans.

"That the subdivisions of Subsection 7 of Article 27 described as A, B, C, D and E shall not apply to the property of any Americans now owned under whatever title or which may hereafter be acquired, except where distinct reservations and limitations covering such provisions are affirmatively set out in the documents or evidences of title or transfer of such property.

"That Article 33 of said Constitution, providing that 'the Executive shall have the exclusive right to expel from the Republic forthwith and without judicial process any foreigner whose presence he may deem inexpedient, shall not apply to American citizens, who shall, when they so demand, have access to their Consulate or Consular agent or diplomatic representative, and have the right to avail themselves of the assistance of such officials, and until after the judicial proceedings upon application of such American.

Settlement of Claims.

"That such agreements should provide for the immediate appointment of a claims commission to pass on all claims for damage to Americans in Mexico or upon its boundaries, the committee to be composed of American citizens

Pope Urges Reconciliation Among All Christian Peoples

ROME, May 31.—Pope Benedict has addressed to the entire world an episcopal letter on Christian reconciliation and peace.

The Pontiff remarks that despite the end of the war ill feeling still exists. He begs that all Christians forget these ill feelings with the view to mutual understanding.

The Pope outlines in his letter the dangers to which the world is exposed if the various peoples continue to live in a state of hostility toward one another.

General Protests Against Actions of Tourists on Hill Where 2,000 Frenchmen Are Buried.

PARIS, May 31.—The behavior of tourists of all nationalities, French as well as others, who are visiting the battlefields is arousing considerable comment and displeasure in France. The memory of those who fought and died there is too recent to permit of picnics and larking among tourists who come to see the crumbling trenches. In Alsace the matter has called forth a formal protest from the French General in command at Mulhouse. It appears that some tourists recently indulged in dancing on the summit of the famous hill, Hartmanns-Wellerkopf, which was through five years the scene of repeated and bloody fighting. Their behavior was brought to the notice of General Taboni, who has issued this protest to the press:

"It has been brought to my notice that certain persons have recently indulged in dancing on the summit of Hartmanns-Wellerkopf. Those who permitted or took part in such an insult to the dead are no doubt ignorant that more than 2,000 Frenchmen were killed there and lie buried, and that besides them more than 3,000 Germans died there—the first, that Alsace might be given back to France; the second, that it should remain German.

"This ground, so drenched with noble blood, is a place where tears should fall and heads be uncovered, and not for thoughtless people. It is a place of pilgrimage, not pleasure."

It is in that spirit of pilgrimage, and not pleasure, that France wishes to see tourists visit the battlefields.

CABINET DISCUSSES IRISH PROBLEMS

Labor Challenge to the Handling of Munitions Is Under Consideration.

LONDON, May 31.—A Cabinet meeting was held today to discuss the Irish situation, at which Premier Lloyd George, Viscount French, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland; A. J. Balfour, Lord President of the Council; Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, and General Sir C. F. Nevil Macready, military commander in Ireland, were present. The latter two came from Dublin especially for the meeting.

It is believed that the Ministers discussed, among other things, the situation arising from the Irish labor challenge regarding the handling of munitions. Dispatches from Dublin state that some of the English labor leaders are urging the Premier and his Cabinet to hold their hands regarding the Irish labor situation.

A meeting today of the "Triple Alliance," made up of the railwaymen, miners and transport workers, passed a resolution which was referred to the Laborite Parliamentary Committee, urgently requesting the convening of a special trades union congress to decide on what the attitude of labor shall be toward the production and handling of munitions for Ireland and Poland.

The Earl of Reading, former Ambassador to the United States, speaking with regard to the Irish question this afternoon at the Aldwych Club, an Anglo-American organization, said:

"No British Ambassador has ever gone to the United States without the intense desire in his heart to announce to the American people that the Irish problem has been solved. But with the fatality which seems to accompany the Irish cup, fulfillment has always been dashed from his lips."

DUBLIN, May 31.—More than 200 workers of Westport forcibly seized fifty-six acres of Lord Sligo's land this morning, drove off his cattle and installed their own milch cows in his pastures. Lord Sligo had refused to relinquish the land for this purpose when appealed to by town workers, who have former an association. Other grazing lands in the neighborhood were cleared later.

A skirmish between police and raiders occurred at Mobill yesterday without casualties. A supply of steel shutters had arrived for the local police barracks and were placed in storage at the railway station under guard pending the removal. In the darkness "men" were seen tampering with the store-room. An alarm was raised and reinforcements of police hurried to the scene, where they were received by shots, to which they replied. The firing was sustained for some minutes, after which the raiders withdrew.

CALL 20 TO TELL OF PRIMARY FUNDS AT INQUIRY TODAY

WANT PLUMB PLAN BACKER

Loeb and Alger Are Summoned to Testify Further About the Wood Fund.

DRY LEAGUE CHIEF SOUGHT

Mrs. Funk Will Be Questioned for Light on the McAdoo Campaign.

WASHINGTON, May 31 (Associated Press).—The Senate investigation of pre-convention financing of campaigns for the Presidential nominations will be continued after the Republican Convention at Chicago in the interval before the Democratic Convention at San Francisco, under present plans of the Committee of Inquiry.

A score of witnesses have been summoned for tomorrow's session. Chairman Kenyon said tonight that it was proposed to drive through with their examination and bring the investigation to a temporary halt Thursday night so that members of the committee and others concerned might go to Chicago for the Republican Convention if they desired.

W. T. Neville, a financial officer of the Plumb Plan League, will be asked tomorrow, the Chairman said, whether that organization which was formed to bring about tripartite control of the railroads, had backed any candidate for the Presidential nomination. This is the only new phase of the investigation now planned.

The Rev. H. A. Baker, of Westerville, Ohio, General Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America had been summoned for examination as to whether his organization had spent any money in behalf of Presidential candidates, but after he had telegraphed that he could not reach Washington before Wednesday, Chairman Kenyon advised him that he need not come. He will be notified, Senator Kenyon said, should the committee decide to hear him later.

Robert F. Wolfe, publisher of The Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch and The Ohio State Journal, has been summoned for examination concerning details of the Ohio primary contest between Major Gen. Leonard Wood and Senator Harding. Fred A. Alger, named as the chief financial backer of the Wood campaign in Michigan, also will be heard, as will W. B. Burt of Chicago, assistant to A. A. Sprague, Treasurer of the Wood campaign.

William Loeb of New York, who, it has been testified, turned in $235,000 to the Wood campaign fund for a New York committee, will be called later, Chairman Kenyon said.

The committee plans to revert to the campaign expenditures made by Governor Lowden in Missouri, and has several witnesses under subpoena in connection with it.

California's primary fight, which has been prolific of allegations concerning the use of money, still bulks large in the committee's future program, with representatives of Herbert Hoover and Senator Hiram Johnson summoned to testify.

Mrs. Antoinette Funk, a Chicago suffragist, is to be questioned tomorrow or Wednesday as to her knowledge, if any, of a campaign for W. G. McAdoo.

ST. LOUIS, May 31.—Nat. Goldstein and Robert E. Moore, delegates respectively from the Eleventh and Twelfth St. Louis Districts to the Republican National Convention, have left for Washington in response to a summons to appear tomorrow before the Senate committee investigating campaign expenditures.

WILL SUGGEST REFORMS.

Butler's Campaign Manager to Offer Remedy for Election Fund Evils.

Justice John R. Davies, campaign manager for Nicholas Murray Butler, who testified last week before the Senate committee investigating the expenditures of Presidential candidates, announced yesterday that he had accepted the invitation of the committee to submit suggestions for the formulation of legislation for the future control of expenditures in Presidential campaigns.

"The investigation has furnished ample proof of the soundness of Dr. Butler's policy of uninstructed delegates," said Justice Davies. "The battle to secure instructed or pledged delegates has developed nothing except bitterness and dissension among the contesting candidates and their immediate followers, and has in no way succeeded in producing an expression of public sentiment for any candidate.

"It is an outstanding fact that the publicity sent out from the Butler headquarters has invariably been constructive discussions on great public problems, with no thought as to whether the ideas and principles given out would find particular favor with the voters of California, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan or any of the States in which primaries were being conducted and where the votes of individual citizens were being sought. The Butler campaign was at all times a national campaign and never a State or even a sectional campaign."

Says Lloyd George Wants Disarmament As Principle of Anglo-Japanese Treaty

LONDON, May 31.—The Pall Mall Gazette says today that the question of renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance has not yet reached the stage in which its consideration by the British Cabinet has become imperative.

The newspaper says it believes Premier Lloyd George favors utilizing the occasion of renewal to help forward the principle of disarmament.

Efforts will be made in the next few weeks to solve the difficulties between the United States and Japan, the Pall Mall Gazette adds, after which the possibility of widening the scope of the treaty to include the United States would be much less remote than appears today.

TOKIO, May 29.—(Associated Press.)—The Cabinet yesterday decided to open negotiations for a renewal and revision of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, which Great Britain is said to be willing to maintain with modifications, according to the Yomi-Uri Shimbun today. Though some of the covenants will be changed to harmonize with the League of Nations, the newspaper says it believes there will be no alteration of the principle with regard to safeguarding the peace of Eastern Asia and India and the integrity of China and the maintenance of the respective rights and special interests of Japan and Great Britain in the Far East.

Marquis Shigenobu Okuma, former Premier, has issued a statement saying that although the downfall of Russia and Germany has removed the original positive reasons for the alliance, the uncertain conditions in China and Siberia and the agitation on the part of the Mohammedans of Southern Asia make a renewal of the pact desirable as a negative instrument of peace.

A Tokio dispatch of May 28 quoted the Asahi as saying Baron Gonsuke Hayashi, the new Japanese Ambassador to Great Britain, would take up negotiations for a renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance immediately upon his arrival in London.

LINKS TUMULTY AND BIG BREWERS

Walker, Close Friend of Bryan, Hints at Disclosures, Naming Ruppert and Others.

DISCLOSES TEXT OF LETTER

Explains Subpoena by Senate Committee as Also Touching $23,000,000 "Dry" Fund.

Colonel Harry W. Walker of 67 East Fifty-ninth Street, a close friend of Colonel William J. Bryan and formerly his Eastern manager, told a reporter for THE NEW YORK TIMES late last night that he had been subpoenaed to appear before a Senate Committee in Washington at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

"I cannot imagine what I am wanted for," he said, "unless it is in connection with a letter that was written to me by Joseph P. Tumulty, Secretary to the President, in Washington, July 3, 1919, and which caused a great stir at the famous Jackson Day dinner in Washington, Jan. 9, last. The letter, a copy of which is in the possession of Charles W. Bryan, brother of the Colonel, I will certainly produce, if I am requested to produce it. This is the letter:

White House, Washington,
July 9, 1919.

My Dear Mr. Walker: Mr. Michelson, of the New York World, has just told me that you have been circulating a story that Mr. Palmer, the Attorney General, is investigating Mr. James B. Regan, of the Knickerbocker Hotel, New York City, and asks me what was the basis for such an investigation. I happen to know that this is a base slander and my authority for it is the Attorney General himself.

For your information I wish to say that I have known Mr. Regan for many years. He is a most intimate friend of mine and is one of the most upright men I have ever met.

I have no objection to your showing this letter to any newspaper man that you know or to any Republican friends you may have. Yours very truly,

J. P. TUMULTY.

Names Jacob Ruppert.

"I certainly have the record of James B. Regan of the Knickerbocker and I am ready to produce that, if I am asked for it," said Colonel Walker. "I suppose that I also will be asked to tell a rather remarkable story that involves not only Mr. Regan and Mr. Tumulty, but also Attorney General Palmer, Mr. Bryan and Jacob Ruppert, the New York brewer, and Christian Feigenspan of Newark, President of the United States Brewers' Association.

"And I wouldn't be surprised if the matter on which I am called should involve an inquiry into what I know of the National Anti-Saloon League's so-called $33,000,000 fund.

"So far as the letter is concerned, many persons came to me at the Jackson Day dinner and told me that they understood that I had a letter on White House stationery written by Mr. Tumulty that Mr. Tumulty was very anxious to get back. Mutual newspaper friends of Mr. Tumulty's and mine, I believe, chiefly acted as intermediaries. Governor Folk, I remember, asked me about it.

"Colonel Bryan came to me and said that the White House was charging that he was responsible for the trouble. It was known that we were warm friends. And apparently they were blaming him for something that he had nothing to do with.

"I would have given back the letter to Mr. Tumulty at the dinner if he had spoken to me himself, but he looked the other way. He paid no attention at all to me. And after that many prominent men stopped me on the street and asked me if it was true that Mr. Tumulty was trying to run me out of Washington. I remember that William F. McCombs told me that Mr. Tumulty had boasted to him that he would drive me out of Washington.

Sees Tumulty's Hand.

"Maybe the Hon. Joseph P. Tumulty is taking a hand in the investigation before the Senate Committee. We formerly were friends, but since he said last year that my brother, the Rev. Ralph Walker, rector of St. Simeon's Protestant Episcopal Church, at 166th Street and Sheridan Avenue, the Bronx, was an editor of the bitterly anti-Catholic newspaper The Menace, I have not been on cordial terms with him, for the re-

URGES $33,000,000 RISE IN POSTAL PAY

UP TO $250 FOR CARRIERS

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Increased salaries for postal employes amounting to approximately $33,000,000 for the first year, effective July 1, were recommended in a report to Congress today by a joint Congressional Commission.

Estimates by the commission place the increase of the postal payroll at about $36,000,000 for the second year and $40,000,000 for the third and fourth years.

Increases of from $150 to $200 annually for postal clerks and letter carriers, with $400 for supervisory officers, were recommended. No increases for first-class postmasters receiving above $5,000 a year were proposed.

For rural delivery carriers, the commission recommended $1,800 for a twenty-four mile route and an additional $30 for each mile in excess of that distance. Motor route carriers covering fifty miles or more would receive not in excess of $2,600. The pay of village delivery carriers would be from $1,000 to $1,200.

Pay of Post Office Clerks.

Should the recommendations of the commission be adopted, clerks in first and second class Post Offices, as well as city carriers, would be divided into five classes, with those in the first class receiving $1,400 annually and $100 added for each class. Substitutes and temporary clerks would receive 60 cents an hour, while special clerks would be paid from $1,000 to $2,000 annually. Watchmen, messengers and laborers would be divided into two grades, the first receiving $1,350 and the second $1,450.

Clerks in the postal mail service would be divided into six classes, those in the first class receiving $1,600, those in the sixth class $2,300 and the others graduated between.

Service for all clerks, the commission's report recommended, would be on an average of eight hours a day, 300 days a year. Division Superintendents in the postal mail service would receive $4,200 annually, Assistant Superintendents $3,200, chief clerks $3,000 and assistant chief clerks $2,300.

Pay of the Post Office inspectors would range from $2,300 to $4,200, with an allowance of not more than $5 a day for expenses while traveling. Clerks at division headquarters of the Post Office Inspection Service would receive from $1,400 to $2,000.

Increase for Postmasters.

A graduated increase was proposed by the commission for first-class postmasters receiving less than $5,000 annually, ranging from $200 to $400 for those now receiving $3,000 to $5,700 annually; $400 to $500 for those now getting between $3,700 and $3,800, and $500 and $600 for those whose pay now is between $3,900 and $4,000.

Second-class postmasters whose present salary ranges from $2,300 to $3,000 would receive an increase from $100 to $200. Assistant postmasters would receive $50 for each grade up to $2,100. Third-class postmasters would be increased $300 from basic salaries each; the salaries ranging from $1,000 to $2,200.

The commission recommended that fourth-class postmasters be allowed 1.50 per cent. on cancellations of $75 per quarter and less; 115 per cent. from $75 to $100 of cancellations per quarter, and in excess of $100 per quarter; 100 per cent. on the first $100; 75 per cent. on the next $100; and 60 per cent. on the remainder.

The commission recommended a graduated scale of pay based on office receipts for supervisory officers in first-class Post Offices. The scale ranges from $2,100 for Assistant Postmasters and $2,100 for Superintendents of Mail in offices with receipts between $40,000 and $75,000 to $4,600 for the former and $4,400 for the latter when receipts are above $20,000,000 annually. Provision also is made for pay increases for other supervisors.

Fifteen days' vacation annually, with pay, for all employes and sick leave of not more than thirty days a year, with pay, also were recommended.

Bills providing for carrying out the commission's recommendations will be introduced by Senator Sterling, Republican, South Dakota, Acting Chairman of the commission, and Representative Moon, Democrat, Tennessee. Action on the proposed increases before the National Conventions is considered unlikely. Congress, however, if granted later, would be reluctant to adjourn.

Members of the commission, appointed more than a year ago, are Senators Sterling, Moses and Phipps, Republicans, and McKellar and Gay, Democrats, and Representatives Madden and Stiesenroser, Republicans, and Moon, Fell and Rouse, Democrats.

WILSON CONFERS WITH CUMMINGS ON PARTY FIGHT

Full Discussion Held on Eve of Chairman's Departure for San Francisco.

KEYNOTE SPEECH INDORSED

SEES BLOW TO CANDIDATES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—President Wilson thoroughly discussed men and issues in reference to the coming Presidential campaign during a two hours' conference this afternoon with Homer S. Cummings, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

The assets and liabilities of the candidates in each of the two great parties, the course of the Democrats in the next six months, the platform of that party, the campaign funds investigation and Mr. Cummings's keynote speech at the San Francisco Convention were all talked over at length. That the President intends to keep in close touch with the national convention was apparent from the conference.

While Mr. Cummings would say little about it, it is understood that the President has mapped out a very decisive line of action in regard to the Peace Treaty. Mr. Cummings felt that it would be discourteous for him to give any inkling of the President's plans. It appeared, however, that he had been taken into the President's confidence in this regard.

"It is a false assumption that any set of politicians can manufacture an artificial issue," said Mr. Cummings, as he was leaving the White House. "There must be a genuine public sentiment. That is why the treaty and the league are now a clean-cut issue, a fact that will be altogether pleasing to the real friends of the league.

"The Virginia platform, as set forth in the correspondence between the President and Senator Glass, reflects the attitude of the Administration and is the expression of the overwhelming sentiment of the Democratic Party."

Sees Boomerang in Fund Disclosures.

Mr. Cummings said that the President was "in excellent humor" while the two chatted over the recent investigation of campaign funds used in behalf of Republican candidates and the resulting dilemma in which they believe some of these candidates now find themselves. The President, it was said, was of the opinion that these disclosures would prove boomerangs for some of the candidates, basing this opinion on the belief that the Presidency of the United States "cannot be bought."

Absolute confidence in a Democratic victory next November was expressed by Mr. Cummings. He declared that the President shared this view with the same positiveness.

"The Democratic nominees will be the next President of the United States," said Mr. Cummings, "so you can be sure that care will be taken in selecting the candidate. All doubt that may have existed as to the certainty of the prediction that the Democrats will win has been swept away by the acts, and also the inaction, of the Republicans."

Mr. Cummings explained the object of his visit to the White House in this fashion:

"I leave for San Francisco tomorrow afternoon and I wished to have the President's advice about several matters in order to avoid any misunderstanding. President Wilson and I are wholly in accord on questions of moment, and I now have his views regarding some necessary details."

Keynote Speech Approved.

One of the subjects discussed particularly was Mr. Cummings's keynote speech in opening the convention at San Francisco. A short time ago he sent a rough draft of this speech to Joseph P. Tumulty, Secretary to the President, and it is understood that the President has gone over the speech.

"The President was very kind in his comment on the rough draft; he seemed gratified with it," said Mr. Cummings after leaving the White House.

The speech opening the convention will be an unqualified endorsement of the President and his policies. Mr. Cummings believes that the convention will approve the President's course. He does not expect serious opposition. Although he is not looking forward to a perfect "love feast" in the opening stages, he holds that harmony will come, especially as he believes that there is dissension between the conservative and radical wings of the Republican Party over the Presidential nomination.

Mr. Cummings considers that this disaffection in the Republican ranks may result in a bolt and the formation of a third party, if certain radical elements among the Republicans become more bitter than ever, due to some disappointment at the Chicago convention. The Democratic Chairman does not take much stock in the assertions that a breach in the Republican Party will not come about. He thinks that the forces of radicalism and conservatism have

No Chance for the Bonus Bill at This Session, Say Senators

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Republican leaders of the Senate stated today that soldier bonus legislation would not be considered by that body during the present session.

The bill, as adopted by the House, will not be reported from the Senate committee this or next session, the leaders predicted. Radical changes in the revenue-raising features will be made, they added, before any soldier aid legislation is agreed to.

Republican and Democratic leaders pointed to the expression of Secretary Houston in opposition to any bonus for uninjured service men. They feel that if such legislation were passed it would be vetoed by the President.

LOWDEN MEN GAIN IN FIRST CONTESTS

HEARINGS OPEN TO PUBLIC

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 31.—For the first time in its history the Republican Party today heard in public contests for seats by delegates from the South. There were no developments that approached the sensational because the contests decided (seats from the Fourth District of Alabama and from Arkansas) were probably decided on their merits. A bitter fight was expected as a result of the contests from the District of Columbia and Florida, but in each case decision was postponed.

As a general proposition Governor F. O. Lowden came off best in the early skirmishes before the committee. The regular delegates from Alabama and Arkansas, who were seated, are ranked as Lowden men, or at least men who would stand by Lowden if they were convinced he could win the election.

The contests in Florida, where three sets of delegates are fighting for seats in the convention, present a more complicated situation. The committee is having a hard time convincing even itself that there is a Republican Party in Florida, or that any delegates from that State ought to be seated.

It was shown, for instance, that the vote in Florida had shrunk to almost nothing in 1918 (a mere 4,400 votes) and that the Supreme Court of Florida had expressed doubt whether the Republican Party was in existence there. It is probable that some of the delegates will be seated from Florida, but in the face of the evidence given the committee apparently did not think it good policy to put the steam roller into operation.

As a result it was decided to let the Florida contests go over until tomorrow, and in the meantime a special committee, composed of Charles B. Warren, of Michigan, Herbert Parsons, of New York, and General Coleman du Pont will examine briefs and attempt to report on the merits of the least ludicrous contention.

Result of Open Session.

The open session of the committee to hear contests had a double-barrelled outcome. It made it impossible for anyone to assert that a steam roller was being operated for any candidate without the public being acquainted with the facts, and it also supplied evidence as to the methods employed by factions to obtain delegates from Southern States which cannot be counted upon to register in the Republican column in the national election.

The contests from Florida were the most interesting of the day, because they developed especially the remarkable situation in some Southern States which are fighting for full representation in the convention, although they have never yet played a positive part in the election of a Republican President.

Chairman Hays presided at the meeting and Herbert Parsons and Charles B. Warren of Michigan acted as special counsel for the committee. A good showing of committeemen was present, with Keating of Indiana, Hert of Kentucky and other "old timers" occupying seats well at the front.

Frank H. Hitchcock, who is still counted with the Wood forces, was on the outskirts watching developments, but taking no prominent part in the activities. The contests from Florida were brought before Hitchcock, who had charge of that part of the Wood campaign, just as were the Mississippi contests, which Hitchcock repudiated. The real Hitchcock contests will come later on.

Cassell Holds Penrose's Proxy.

Another prominent figure at the contest hearings was John T. King, National Committeeman from Connecticut, once with the Wood contingent as its leader, but now looked upon his follower of the Penrose idea in politics. King, as stated THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning, came to Chicago carrying the Penrose proxy. This morning when the roll of the meeting was called he took the proxy out of his pocket and handed it to Abel E. Cassell, an old Pennsylvania friend of Penrose, who got here today. There was a lot of gossip about this and wonder was expressed as Advocates Point Out That Johnson Will Appear as a Substitute Delegate.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 31.—Major Gen. Leonard Wood has been urged by some of his friends today to go into the Republican National Convention and make his final stand against the Old Guard bosses who are working with might and main to prevent his nomination in that most representative forum of his party.

General Wood has not yet yielded to the importunities of those among his counselors who have advised him to enter upon this spectacular and somewhat venturesome undertaking. It was said tonight that a decision probably would be reached some time after the General has had further opportunity to discuss plans for the fight which is to be made for him in the convention with the strategists of his campaign.

The report, which became known to a few persons soon after General Wood had been in conference for an hour this afternoon at the Congress Hotel with his campaign manager, Colonel William Cosgrave, soon reached the headquarters of his rivals for the Presidential nomination, which are strung out along the corridors on the mezzanine floor of the hotel, where it caused intense excitement among the campaign managers. One of the latter characterized the proposal as one of "out-Roosevelting Roosevelt."

That the leaders who are determined to put every obstacle in the way of General Wood's winning the nomination may offer difficulties should the General seek a seat and a vote in the convention, even though one of his rivals for the nomination — Senator Hiram W. Johnson—will be present as a substitute delegate, was asserted by a functionary who is in a position to know the plans of the elder statesmen.

This Republican pointed out that General Wood, in order to get into the convention, except as a spectator, would have to seek unanimous consent from the delegates under established rules and precedents. Senator Johnson, on the other hand, it was pointed out, had contrived to have his name substituted on the temporary roll of the convention for that of one of the alternate at large from his home State, for the avowed purpose of making a fight if the platform pronouncement on the Peace Treaty and the League of Nations Covenant should run counter to his own "bitter end" views in opposition to the league.

"There is no such thing as a person sitting in a Republican National Convention with the right to vote or even speak on a proxy," said this functionary. "The party rules are unequivocal, and, besides, the question has been thoroughly settled through numerous precedents. If a delegate fails to answer when his name is called, the name of the first alternate is called, and should he fail to answer the name of the second alternate from the district. Should the delegate and both alternates fail to answer, the established practice is to declare the seat vacant. I have no doubt the convention next week will adhere strictly to that rule."

Strict adherence to the rule, it was pointed out, would shut out even Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas, who has been selected by General Wood to present his name to the convention and has consented to act as his sponsor. Governor Allen, himself mentioned as a Presidential possibility, is neither a delegate nor an alternate.

"I am quite sure," said the Republican with whom THE TIMES correspondent discussed the matter, "that the convention would make no difficulty about Governor Allen acting as the sponsor for General Wood in the convention."

The reply carried the distinct implication that there might be difficulties about granting the privilege of sitting in the convention to General Wood under similar circumstances.

Leaders Feel Need of Caution.

Some of the Old Guard leaders, however, realize that they have to proceed cautiously in the matter so as not to add to the prestige of countrywide support which, it is believed, General Wood already possesses, that of martyrdom, which might readily, in the public concept, be granted as unfair discrimination. That protests would arise from some quarter, most likely from some of the rabid supporters of Senator Johnson, is regarded as most likely.

A friend of General Wood said tonight that to admit the General would merely place him on an equal footing with his most bitter opponent, whom the Old Guard leaders were not any more anxious to see nominated than they were to see General Wood carry off the grand prize of the convention.

"Every one knows that but for the fact that General Wood is in the army he would have had no difficulty in getting this same substituted in the regular way, as Senator Johnson did, for some delegate or alternate from the State he claims as his home," said the friend of General Wood. "General Wood, too, is vitally interested in the platform treatment of the League of Nations question and, in the opinion of some of his friends, should have an opportunity to be present in the convention and make his fight for the sort of a plank to which he is committed through his public utterances."

It was learned tonight that unless the convention's Committee on Rules should narrow down the number of nominating speeches more than has been the practice in past years the nomination of General Wood will be seconded by ex-Secretary Henry L. Stimson for New York, by State Senator Frank Knox of Manchester, N. H., editor of the Manchester Union, and by O. J. Moynahan of Montrose, Col., one of the "big four" from that State. Mr. Knox was one of the first to urge the nomination of General Wood in his newspaper.

There has been a revival today of the rumors that marked differences existed between Colonel William Cooper Procter, generalissimo of the Wood forces, and Frank H. Hitchcock, the Wood field strategist. Both are here, but they have not met. Colonel Procter and General Wood both denied that there was friction at a time when it was stated by friends of Mr. Hitchcock that he was ready to quit the Wood campaign unless he was left in sole control of its conduct.

Mr. Hitchcock was busy at the Coliseum, where the Republican National Committee was having contests, and where the fate of some of the Southern delegates who are supposed to have been won to the support of Wood through the efforts of Mr. Hitchcock was hanging in the balance. He remarked that he had not been invited to the general conference of the Wood leaders which had been scheduled for this afternoon.

This general conference narrowed down to a talk between General Wood and Colonel Procter. Both the Colonel and the General denied that any general council for a discussion of convention plans had been contemplated for today.

"Nothing to It," Says Wood.

"How about the report that there is decided friction between Colonel Procter and Mr. Hitchcock?" General Wood was asked as he left the Congress Hotel to return to Fort Sheridan. "That is the old rumor and there is nothing to it," he replied. "Colonel Procter and Mr. Hitchcock are working together as well as two men could."

The General said he had talked with Colonel Procter and expected to have a talk with Mr. Hitchcock at the Congress Hotel tomorrow forenoon.

"Everything is harmonious, as far as I know," said Colonel Procter. "These reports about discord are all news to me."

There is no doubt that the leaders believe the cards have been so stacked against General Wood that he cannot get the nomination.

There was talk today of Lowden's friends preparing for a drive to land the nomination for him on the first ballot. It is not doubted they cherish such a desire, but few believe a move of that character will succeed. From all appearances, however, Lowden stock has been on the rise for the last forty-eight hours.

At Work for Coolidge.

In the meantime, James B. Reynolds, ex-Secretary of the Republican National Committee and manager of the Coolidge pre-convention campaign, is working here among the leaders, the ears of most of whom he has as a result of his long years of service on the National Committee, with a view of getting first place on the ticket for his candidate when the convention reaches the "dark horse" stage.

Members of the Republican National Committee and other Republican leaders here for the convention preliminaries are canny and cautious when asked to shed any light on "dark horses." They seem to be in accord generally on the proposition that the first move of the convention must be one of elimination—a cruel and cold-blooded process of freezing out the candidates who, while they will show more strength than any others on the first ballot, must be convinced that they can never draw to themselves a winning hand from the 500 delegates who are either uninstructed or pledged to candidates whose booms were foredoomed to failure.

General Wood and Senator Johnson are the principals against which this strategy is chiefly directed, and both, it may be put in the same category if the country should give evidence of an unfavorable reaction as a result of the testimony given before the Senate committee with regard to the large amount of money he has personally invested in his pre-convention campaign.

The Republicans want to win this year and are not prepared to nominate any candidate who would endanger their chance of carrying off the victory.

Penrose to Attend.

Word came tonight that Senator Penrose, though a very ill man, would come to Chicago. He will be preceded by Governor William Sproul of Pennsylvania and Mayor J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia. The two, it is understood, will be the eyes and ears of the powerful Pennsylvania leader. From the fact that Governor Sproul is mentioned in that connection it is inferred that any differences that existed between them prior to the Pennsylvania primaries have been ironed out.

While Senator Penrose will not be the active and aggressive figure he has been in recent national conventions of his party, as leader of the largest delegation from any State except New York his word will carry weight. Senator Penrose, it was stated tonight by a Republican who has talked with him recently, strongly favors the nomination of Senator Philander C. Knox for President.

Captain J. F. Lucey, campaign manager for Herbert Hoover, set at rest tonight all doubts as to whether the name of the former United States Food Administrator would go before the convention before the elimination process incidental to the early ballots had been completed. It is declared that Hoover so far has been depending on a deadlock of long duration as his only hope of victory.

Will Present Hoover's Name.

"Rest assured," said Captain Lucey, "Mr. Hoover's name will be placed before the convention by a distinguished Republican, and his nomination will be seconded by another distinguished Republican. In this respect there has been an embarrassment of riches, so many States having felt that they have special claims in this case, and the final selection has been postponed from time to time until all could agree upon a man.

"Hoover's campaign," continued Captain Lucey, "has been peculiar in having two different groups of supporters—the first made of volunteer clubs, a popular rather than a political growth, and the second made up of political leaders thinking more of a sound man who can carry the country than of factions within the party. This group is gradually coming to feel that the spontaneous backing of so large a body of the voters as is indicated by the Hoover-for-President clubs and by the sure support of the 'silent voter' cannot be ignored if the party is to carry not only its Presidential candidate, but also the Senate and the House, which is quite as important, if the Republicans are to have full control of the Government during the next four years."

Of the booms domiciled in the convention city that of Senator Johnson is the showiest. His headquarters in the Auditorium is larger than that of any of his rivals. It has a larger staff of workers and is fitted up and decorated in the most pretentious fashion. The entire mezzanine floor which it occupies has been heavily festooned with American flags, until the blaze of color that meets the visitor from the moment he begins to ascend the broad marble stairway that leads to it is overpowering.

There are other decorative features elaborate and costly enough to have caused comment among Senator Johnson's opponents, inasmuch as it has been claimed all along by his campaign managers that although there are several millionaires on the California delegation who will come here to support Senator Johnson, the Californian has been compelled to conduct his campaign on a shoestring.

A big demonstration is being planned for Senator Johnson when he arrives here on Thursday to remain until after the convention. He will be met at the La Salle Street Station by a large escort and conducted to his headquarters in the Auditorium. One feature of the demonstration will be the attendance as a guard of honor of members of the Siberian Expedition Auxiliary which, according to announcement made at Johnson headquarters tonight, is composed of hundreds of former service men who have called upon all ex-service men who favor Johnson for President to take part in the demonstration.

PENROSE PROXY MYSTERY.

Philadelphia Is at Sea as to Who Will Represent Him at Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—The question asked in political circles here tonight is whom did Senator Penrose authorize to represent him by proxy in the Republican National Committee meetings in Chicago. It is further asked how Abel K. Cassell, custodian of the headquarters of the Republican State Committee in this city, got the Senator's proxy. A dispatch from Chicago said Mr. Cassell arose at a meeting at the committee today and presented the proxy. At his side sat John T. King of Connecticut, who, it was earlier reported, had the proxy himself.

Last week it was said Governor Sproul would take the proxy to Chicago and sit in the committee meetings. The next phase in the mystery was a denial at the Senator's home that Mr. King had the proxy. Then came dispatches from Chicago saying Mr. Cassell held the proxy.

Politicians attempted to explain the matter by saying that the committee probably had ruled that no one not a resident of the State of the absent member could represent that member by proxy.

It is expected that Governor Sproul will have the proxy when he gets to Chicago and will hold fast to it until it is revoked by the Senator.

JOHNSON ANSWERS CRITICS.

Denies by Indirection the Charges That He Is Radical.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—Senator Hiram Johnson of California spoke here tonight on Americanism. He touched on the League of Nations, the high cost of living, radicalism and other subjects.

Referring to statements that he was a radical, Senator Johnson said that if it be radical to demand 100 per cent. service from public officials, to preach that humanity have equal consideration with property, to insist that great corporations pay the same taxes as small merchants, to oppose the suppression of legitimate free speech and peaceable, lawful assembly and to resist the impairment of the republic's sovereignty, then he admitted the charge.

With regard to the high cost of living, Senator Johnson said that the difficulty in meeting the situation was not with the laws but with the administration of the laws.

In opening his speech, Senator Johnson said that eight years ago he preached in Philadelphia a philosophy of government which was still his philosophy.

MEAT AND MILK PUT IN G. O. P. PLATFORM

WOULD RAISE FARM WAGES

Short Time Personal Credits and Co-ordination of Transport Also Urged as Bid for Votes.

Prices for livestock and dairy products have not kept pace with the increase in prices of other commodities and must sell higher with relation to the price of grains, if the production of meat and milk is to be maintained, according to the report of the Sub-Committee on Agricultural Policies of the Republican National Committee, made public yesterday. The wholesale prices for all other farm products are stated to have equalled or exceeded the increase in the price of all commodities.

Because wages of farm employes have not increased at the same rate as the pay of factory workers, farming communities are stated to be short of competent labor, and the increasing number of tenant farmers, estimated at 38 per cent. in 1910, is said to constitute a menace to agricultural production. Aside from the wage and price increases, the sub-committee recommends that stress be placed upon the following in framing the agricultural plank of the Republican platform:

"Long-time credit with real estate as security is apparently available to farmers. There is special need for short-time personal credit. The replies to the questionnaires thus far received emphasize this need.

Agricultural Training Discussed.

"Recent national legislation has provided comprehensive plans for vocational and agricultural training. Whether our National Government should further aid rural education through taxation is a serious question for the consideration of the committee. The tendency toward increasing appropriations by the States for these purposes will no doubt continue.

"The fertility of the soil is our great national asset. It is being depleted very rapidly. Therefore the Government should do everything possible to encourage the importation of fertilising material at prices which will encourage farmers to use it.

"Farmers need the united efforts of all at this time to open up exports, particularly on meat, milk products and wheat.

"Marketing facilities will become of increasing importance as wages and other costs and investments go up and as railway rates increase.

"While the National Bureau of Markets performs a good service it has not made a survey of marketing facilities by rail and water and of the wholesale and retail facilities in our cities. The committee can well urge that a national commission be appointed to report on the co-ordination of rail, water and motor transport with adequate facilities for receiving, handling and transporting foods within the cities. Such a commission could render a great national service at this time."

The report states that there is a widespread demand among farmers for legislation which will permit them to bargain collectively.

Trade and Credits Report.

Although the United States has become a creditor instead of a debtor nation, which must ultimately result in an excess of imports over exports, our balance of trade will continue to show an excess of exports over imports until 1923, the report of the Sub-Committee on International Trade and Credits states. In discussing the future of Government service in promoting foreign trade the report recommends the centralization of all such functions in the Department of Commerce, and says:

"There is plenty of evidence that our foreign trade will never return to its pre-war level. Its rapid growth in the last twenty years before the war, the rapidly increasing exports of manufactures and imports of food and raw materials in that period, the opening up and extension of new markets during the war period, the development of our international banking and foreign trade financing—all make it clear beyond peradventure that our foreign trade has taken a new and more important place in our national economic life than ever before. There is therefore need of the most effective co-operation at home and abroad by our Federal Government.

Inefficiency in Compiling Data.

"At present trade statistics are collected incidentally to the collection of customs, under the Treasury. The invoices in which import values are stated are in charge of the consular service, under the State Department. The trade data are actually compiled, however, and trade information distributed to the business community by the Commerce Department. This overlapping and lack of co-ordination among the Government departments charged with the foreign trade service is not only uneconomical from a fiscal standpoint, but confusing and conducive to inefficiency and inter-departmental controversy. It has been responsible, among other things, for the deplorable inconsistencies which occurred in the past year in import valuation at the Custom Houses. It is responsible for the present competition of the departments of State and Commerce for rival foreign trade service appropriations."

The report urges payment of higher salaries to obtain experienced, high-grade men to make the Government foreign trade service as efficient as that of Great Britain.

T. C. DU PONT FOR PRESIDENT

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—General T. Coleman du Pont will be placed before the Republican National Convention, as a candidate for President in case there is a deadlock, it was positively asserted this evening.

General du Pont, it is said, has promises of the support not only of the delegates from Delaware, but also of a majority of the delegates from New York, as well as practically all those from Maryland, Kentucky and a number of Southern States.

The decision to place General du Pont's name before the convention was made last week at a secret conference of Republican leaders of Delaware.

ALLEN VISIT STIRS TALK IN WASHINGTON

DENIES HE IS 'DARK HORSE'

But It Is Hinted Wood's Friends, in Event of a Deadlock, May Swing to Him.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The presence here today of Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas to testify before a Senate committee about his efforts to control the coal strike, revived the talk about his availability as a compromise candidate for the Republican nomination for President. His friends said that he represented real Progressive thought, had been close to Colonel Roosevelt, and in many respects would not only satisfy the Progressive West but also the Conservative East.

Washington has been seriously discussing Governor Allen ever since his debate with Samuel Gompers in New York City. This debate, which followed his courageous stand against organized labor when he took over and operated the coal mines in his State, has made men of affairs study the life and character of Governor Allen in view of the mention of his name as a national figure.

While Governor Allen himself has no false ideas about the developments at Chicago, still those who have followed his career expect him to make such a ringing speech in nominating General Wood as must immediately attract attention to himself and place him strongly in the compromise list should the convention fail to nominate any of the leading contenders—Wood, Johnson or Lowden.

Friends of General Wood, who are quietly considering the possibility of a deadlock and his elimination, look upon Governor Allen as the man who will inherit many of the Progressive votes. They say that there is no question about Allen's Progressive tendencies "tempered with saneness."

He was one of the intimate advisers of Colonel Roosevelt at Chicago in 1912 and was the man who worked out the plan quietly to withdraw from the convention after the report of the Credentials Committee, which refused to purge the lists. It was he, and not Senator Johnson, who outlined the position of Colonel Roosevelt to the Republican convention, and in doing so, succeeded Governor Hadley, who declined to bolt the convention along with Senator Borah.

The Progressive leaders who are not aligned with Senator Johnson look upon Governor Allen as representing their views much more thoroughly than does Johnson, who, they say, is radical rather than truly Progressive.

Governor Allen said today that, in his opinion, the great questions before the country were domestic. As vital problems he classed taxation reforms, the enactment of legislation to furnish loans so as to give the man who desires to buy farm lands an opportunity to do so with Federal support, and the adjustment of the relations between capital and labor.

While the settlement of the treaty dispute is to be desired, Governor Allen holds that it is not so pressing as the domestic problems. These, he said, did not appear so important today, but would become so in the next few months.

Republican leaders here, who look for the nomination of a dark horse at Chicago, place Knox first in this group of compromise possibilities, Allen second and Coolidge of Massachusetts third. Allen will be the only one in this group who will have an opportunity to make a real speech before the convention.

Governor Allen arrived here too late to see General Wood, who came to the city unannounced that night, conferred with Senator Lodge for an hour and departed for Chicago.

After his appearance before the Senate Committee, Governor Allen informally talked politics with several visitors and denied that he was a "dark horse" candidate for the Presidency. He said flatly that he would not accept the Vice Presidential nomination.

"The twenty Kansas delegates will vote for General Wood," said Governor Allen.

"William Allen White said he would vote for you," suggested a correspondent.

"Oh, Bill is a friend of mine. He thinks he will, but he won't," responded the Kansas Governor.

"In your opinion has the disclosures before the Senate Investigating Committee of large campaign expenditures adversely affected the situation?" Governor Allen was asked.

"I think the public is concerned more with the purpose for which money is expended than with the amount," he declared.

Governor Allen said he was in no sense a candidate for the Presidency, and directed attention to the program at Chicago providing that he shall make the speech nominating General Wood.

Gov. Gardner a Senate Candidate.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 30.—Friends of Governor Frederick D. Gardner of Missouri have forwarded a formal declaration of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator to succeed Senator Selden P. Spencer, Republican.

Deschanel to Rest in Normandy.

PARIS, May 31.—President Deschanel, who was injured by a fall from a train near Montargis a week ago, will leave by automobile on Thursday for Château de la Montellerie, at Lisieux, in Normandy, where he will rest several weeks.

LOWDEN MEN GAIN IN FIRST CONTESTS

to the reason for transferring the proxy of the Pennsylvania Senator at the last minute. Mr. King and Mr. Cassell had adjoining seats during the committee hearing and King frequently whispered suggestions to his associate. Neither indicated just where their affections lay, and both followed a neutral course where the contests were concerned.

Steam Roller Charges Discredited.

While some of the Chicago newspapers raised the cry tonight that the old steam roller methods were being put into effect at the contest hearings, and that the only difference was that such methods were being employed in public instead of behind closed doors, observers here say this hardly represents the true situation.

It is true that the regular delegates were seated with an apparently cold and calculated formality, where contests were involved in Alabama and Arkansas, but the consensus of opinion seemed to be that they had the best claim to seats, if anyone was entitled to sit in the convention from these States.

Where there was some tangible element of doubt the decision was deferred. There are angles to the contests from the District of Columbia and Florida which create a real doubt.

Chairman Hays did everything he could to make the scene imposing and give it some standing in the eyes of the reporters, where the question of the right of the Southern delegates to have a voice in the convention deliberations was concerned. He stuck manfully by the position he had taken that even where executive sessions were concerned the newspaper men would not be tied to secrecy whenever they had a legitimate right to give publicity to what was going on.

In fact, Mr. Hays did not ask that any development be withheld. Even when contesting delegations raised the question as to whether there was any Republican Party in Florida he did not ask that the public remain uninformed. He permitted negro orators to have their say in the full limelight.

Question of Southern Representation.

There are not a few Republican leaders who believe there should be a reform in the matter of Southern representation in the Republican National Conventions, and these men had their day in court. They sat by and heard publicly proclaimed the facts which in the past they have argued were pressing reasons for reform. They heard negroes proclaim that while delegations were trying to shut them out of the convention and assert that they were as good Republicans as any, despite the fact that accusation was brought against them that they were in the fight for personal motives.

The Alabama contest, where J. B. Atkinson, said to be an anti-Wood man, was recorded as the "regular" in the Fourth District and seated, was first called. The contestant was W. H. Nixon, who has been mounted with the Wood forces. Atkinson is claimed by the Lowden men. He is listed only as anti-Wood, prepared to vote for any candidate who he believes can be elected.

The decision of the committee, adopted unanimously, was brief and to the point. It read:

"In the case of the Alabama contest as stated by Mr. Keating, the National Committee made a rule in accordance with which certain briefs were to be filed. The contestants in this case did not follow up their contest by filing anything, and therefore the committee took the position that Mr. Atkinson as delegate, who was the choice of the regular organization, should be seated."

The Arkansas case involved much debate, but in the end the committee, by unanimous vote, seated H. L. Remmell and three other delegates at large, said to be anti-Wood, and the rest of the regular delegates. These include one in the First District and two in the Fifth District, said to be favorable to Lowden, making a total gain of seven in all for Lowden if the delegates at large stand for him.

The white delegations won a victory in the first skirmishes also. The contests have not yet reached a stage when it can be said whether the decisions will show much advantage for any candidate. The trend today was toward Lowden, which caused some to raise the cry that the steam roller was in operation again, but the contests to come may change this feeling.

There is a report around that the favorable decisions in the contests will be so split up that no candidate will have any vigorous ground for complaint.

Chairman Hays said today it probably would take until the end of the week to decide all of the contests.

Solves Extra Delegates Problem.

CHICAGO, May 31 (Associated Press).—Chairman Hays announced late today a solution of the problem of seating the fifty-six extra delegates who have been chosen from ten States. It was found that forty additional chairs could be placed in the space arranged for delegates on the floor of the Coliseum and the other sixteen will be accommodated by occupying the spaces of delegates who happened to be absent from sessions.

In announcing the plan to the National Committee, Chairman Hays said:

"In almost every case the election of these extra delegates in various States irons out bad factional differences and made for harmony within the party. I do not want to recommend establishing troublesome precedents, but I am suggesting a way to seat these delegates and preserve the good that was accomplished in the States by their election."

The Chairman appointed Committeemen Estabrook of New Hampshire, and Bursum of New Mexico, with A. M. Cassel of Philadelphia, who is holding the proxy of Senator Penrose, to assist in working out the plan.

son that neither my brother nor myself has had anything to do with The Menace.

"I do, however, know considerable about the relations of the Hon. Joseph P. Tumulty, Mr. Regan, Mr. Ruppert, Mr. Feigenspan and others, and if the Senate committee wants to know all about those relations I shall be at their service.

"I might add that I have nothing to fear from an investigation by the Senate Committee. I think that without exaggeration I can say that I have started one or two Congressional investigations myself, and I know about what is expected. I shall be on hand in Washington on Wednesday afternoon to assist the committee to my fullest. Meanwhile, it will be in accord with the spirit of Joseph P. Tumulty's advice to me to make public the letter he sent me by the hand of the chief of the United States Secret Service the day it was written and dated.

"The genesis of the letter is that I went to Washington to have a specialist there operate on my ear that was giving me a lot of trouble. Chief Michelson asked me to lunch with him. During the meal I told him that I had had the funniest experience of my life in New York on July 4 — a few days before.

"I told him that the Washington correspondent of a Western newspaper sent word to me that former Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson wanted to see me on business. I took a walk with him in the park. He said he was stopping at Mr. Regan's hotel, the Knickerbocker, with Joseph P. Tumulty. He said that he was working in the interest of Jacob Ruppert and Christian Feigenspan, the prominent brewers.

"He said that the brewers were becoming afraid of Attorney General Palmer, because they feared he had gone over to the Anti-Saloon League. He said that the brewers had high hopes of inducing the President to lift the ban against beers and the brewing industry, as Vance McCormack, former Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, was with the President on the George Washington, and would see to it that the subject was properly presented to the President.

"The Washington correspondent wanted me to take charge of certain publicity work desired by the brewers. I refused to entertain the suggestion. Two hours after I talked with Mr. Michelson the Chief of the Secret Service handed me the letter I have just referred to.

"Immediately prior to my reception of the letter, I learned afterward, Mr. Tumulty and Mr. Palmer had been in earnest conference at the Department. Following that incident Mr. Tumulty has sponsored a story that my brother, the Rev. Ralph Walker of this city, was identified with the paper The Menace.

"I then made it my business to look up the record of James H. Regan in Boston and elsewhere. I reported the whole transaction to Charlie Bryan, whom I have known for many years. While I am an enrolled Republican, my personal relations with Colonel Bryan continue. Since writing that letter Mr. Tumulty has tried to recover possession of it. I shall submit it, if it is desired, to the Senate committee."

Colonel Walker said that he had taken the precaution to have the physician who treated him in Washington give him a letter to the effect that the only reason for his presence in Washington was for medical treatment.

"I had two telegrams from the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate today," Colonel Walker said, "summoning me to go to Washington and testify. But I replied that I would not testify except under subpoena on any matter, as I did not wish to put myself in the position of initiating any inquiry. If subpoenaed, however, I will tell everything I know. I was notified by telegraph tonight that I would be under subpoena. It had come as a great surprise to me."

been too widely separated and too sharply aligned against each other for them to come together without tense feeling.

The revelations of Republican campaign expenditures running up into the million clubs would be good material for Democratic campaign purposes, Mr. Cummings said. He added that he believed that some of the candidates had been practically eliminated from the race as a result of the investigation by the Senate committee.

Cummings Laughs at Dark Horse Talk.

Nothing was said by Mr. Cummings as to President Wilson's views upon the various Democratic candidates, but it seemed apparent that they had all been discussed. The Chairman dismissed with a laugh the suggestion that he might enter the field as a dark horse. "Let's talk sense," he said.

For many weeks Washington has been speculating over the question as to the part, if any, that President Wilson would take in impressing his views on the Democratic National Convention. Up to this time he had not given any indication of his attitude with respect to candidates for the Presidential nomination, but had recently shown that he looked upon the League of Nations issue as the most important one before the country and expected a cordial indorsement of his course at San Francisco.

Today's conference, following the President's indorsement of the Virginia League plank, seems to give assurance that the President intends to have a very intimate if long-distance participation in the San Francisco convention. William J. Bryan, who will attempt to assume a leading part at San Francisco, has come out openly in opposition to the President's position toward the League and his advocacy of an American mandate for Armenia, and it is believed that the President has made up his mind to fight it out with Mr. Bryan by proxy on the convention floor.

There has apparently been a marked improvement in the President's health, and he is credited with a desire to become more active in public affairs. The plans for taking him away from Washington are held in abeyance, and while no authoritative explanation is given Washington is pretty well convinced that the President prefers to remain here until after the San Francisco convention, as he will have a better opportunity from the White House to keep in close touch with convention developments.

After his conference today, Mr. Cummings took luncheon with Mr. and Mrs. Wilson. Later the three saw a "movie" in the East Room of the White House. The President is a great motion picture enthusiast, and it was said that he enjoyed the film extremely this afternoon.

General Manager Desires Broader Field

A young man who is a trained and experienced engineer and manager is seeking the general managership of a growing manufacturing or distributing concern that is progressive and has a clean-cut leader. The position sought is one which requires initiative, demonstrated abilities in engineering, organizing and executive work, and where growth with the business is possible and expected.

This man has had broad experience as an executive and is now seeking an opportunity larger than what he has at present. T 2069 Times Annex.

POLES BEFORE KIEV FIGHT STRANGE WAR

ALL CONFUSION AT NIGHT

Peasants Go About Their Work in Beautiful Countryside and Amid Ruined Villages.

ON THE POLISH FRONT (via Kiev and Warsaw), May 28.—Soviet forces made strenuous effort during all of yesterday to batter in the bridgehead lying across the Dnieper. Heavy artillery fire began about 3 o'clock in the morning directed against the extreme eastern sector of the bridgehead and in the gray dawn of a perfect Summer day strong Red forces weer thrown forword in the direction of the Brovary station and village. By 6 o'clock the effort had failed completely and the Polish front lines were pushed a few kilometers further forward than they were the day before.

At 8 o'clock the northeast sector of the bridgehead was attacked after a good deal of useless artillery fire. There the Bolsheviki managed to obtain possession of the village of Puchowka, out of which they were thrown again shortly after midday, but not before they had set the place on fire.

In the afternoon a sort of general offensive against the whole bridgehead front began, but by nightfall it too had come to nothing. The Red troops which re-entered Kiev, 200 or 300 of them, did so as prisoners of war.

The Kiev bridgehead extend on the other side of the river in a rough semi-circle of about twenty miles from the city. It runs from the swamps between the Rivers Desna and Dnieper, where only an occasional cavalry action is possible, and curves around a few miles beyond the Brovary station and then straggles away again into the Dnieper syamps on the other side. Only in the centre section, or on less than half of the front, is infantry and artillery action possible.

I have spent the day on this front in company with Colonel Rybak, a brilliant young officer commanding the troops within the bridgehead. We crossed while the offensive against the Puchowka sector was in progress. Away on the left rose a great column of smoke from that village which was then on fire. We proceeded past rows of deserted and battered houses and hovels in which peasants still contrive to live and soon reached Brovary station, a little distance beyond the village of the same name. The Bolsheviki had left it only five hours previously and several houses near the devastated station building were still in flames.

The Polish front line is hardly a mile farther on. That yielded, as it was intended to do, before the attack and the Bolsheviki took possession of the little cluster of ruined buildings. From there they pushed through the cornfields and woods toward Brovary village, the main force coming round the corner of a thick clump of firs near by were caught in a heavy rifle fire from the village and driven back, leaving their dead and wounded behind.

When I visited the spot there were four dead still lying there, clad in very ragged, filthy uniforms. They looked poor specimens, indeed, and the prisoners taken presented an equally woebegone and haggard appearance.

Reds Use Wooden Cartridges.

Lying about were rifle cartridges, the bodies of which were made of wood, painted red. The Soviet arsenals must be suffering from a lack of brass. The dents in the caps of these cartridges showed that they had failed to explode. Unburst shells from both sides were lying about.

Around Brovary the countryside is particularly beautiful, and it was an extraordinary sight to see peasant women calmly working in the fields a few score yards away from the spot where the dead Bolsheviki lay everywhere. In fact, the work of looking after the ripening crops goes on in spite of the curious warfare being waged all around—a sort of grim hide and seek with Bolshevism.

Near the station is a most gruesome sight. Not many days ago a Polish officer, Lieutenant Robaczklewicz, found himself cornered in a signal box between two Bolshevist armored trains. He had half a dozen hand grenades, and, rushing out, placed them under the railway lines. He had just got them in position and was gathering the strings into his hand when some Red soldiers ran out from one train and called on him to surrender. He shouted out that he refused to give himself up and pulled the strings, blowing up both sets of rails. The wall above the door of the signal box is still thickly bespattered with this hero's blood and his head was found later on the roof of the little building.

Colonel Rybak then took me to see the chief of the battery of the sector in the wood some distance away. It had spent an anxious night. The Bolsheviki advanced during the night along the road a few hundred yards away to the left and got behind the guns. The battery was preparing to put up a last fight when the Red force, in consequence of the check received before Brovary, retired after a half-hearted attack.

It is almost impossible to exaggerate the eerie nature of the warfare in this smiling land of waving corn and gorgeous green woods. The front is held by small detached posts only. During the day the work is done mainly by artillery and cavalry. In the darkness little posts lie with their rifles at hand, never knowing from which direction an attack will come. The Bolshevist intelligence service is practically non-existent and the Red troops stalk their foes much as did the Red Indians. On one side Polish detachments will penetrate far into the Red lines, while the Soviet troops will in turn carry on desultory offside operations behind the Polish positions. With dawn this blind man's buff ceases and the two enemies again assume positions facing one another.

Most Eastern Polish Position.

We then went to the most eastern position of the Polish forces. It was a post of about 20 men cunningly dug in under the shade and shelter of a corner of the wood. A couple of score of yards ran—a jarring note—through the fertile in front a line of rusty barbed wire meadowland. Less and a mile away were the Bolshevist lines and in between was a No Man's land of ripening corn and green pastures. The lovely scene was scarcely disfigured by a single scar of war. As I watched this scene and chatted peacefully with the men, the general offensive which I have mentioned began. Shells came screaming over head, one in three bursting in the wood, a hundred yards or so from the position. Away on the right the Polish new armored train ran into action and joined in pounding away at the Bolshevist position. The Polish artillery boomed from both sides and the machine guns began to rattle savagely.

At this particular point, however, no infantry action was indulged in by the Red Army. It was only at Houchowka that the Bolsheviki got far beyond their own lines.

As I returned to Kiev the noise of battle continued, but before I left the bridgehead area Colonel Rybant was able to give me the news that the offensive which was to result in the recapture of Kiev had definitely failed. I passed another armored train going into action, together with half a dozen French whippet tanks, while here and there cavalry were being moved north and south.

My day with the Polish Army was exceedingly interesting. There can be no doubt the Polish forces are splendidly equipped, enthusiastic and in earnest. Every one to whom I have spoken is certain that the union of Poland and the Ukraine, "The Entente Cordiale of the East" as it is called, is the instrument to bring Bolshevism to its end.

In the region where the Red Government until recently held sway it really is astounding what wanton damage they wrought. They seem to have taken delight in destroying everything which could be destroyed. Scarcely a house in Kiev has any furniture left, and there is not a decent room to be found in any of the city's numerous hotels. The filth in the city as they left it is indescribable.

POLES ADVANCE IN NORTH.

Warsaw Reports Rout of Reds After Attack.

WARSAW, May 31.—The following official communication was issued by the War Office today:

"On the northern front the enemy renewed his violent attack, notably south of the Recsyca bridgehead, against which the Bolsheviki twice launched imposing forces. Our troops, supported by armored trains, artillery and airplanes, not only held off the attacks but routed the enemy, taking prisoners and machine guns.

"In the region of Borisov one of our aviators brought down an enemy plane.

"Between the Dvina and the Upper Beresina our troops are advancing victoriously in several sections.

"In the Ukraine the enemy is renewing his attacks, but the fighting is favorable to us. One of our airplanes damaged an armored train near Popeluchy station. This was the third train put out of commission in two days."

$2,000,000 Fire in Galveston.

MEXICAN ASPIRANTS TO GET GUARANTEES

NEW PRESIDENT IS ILL

Will Probably Undergo an Operation for Appendicitis Within a Few Days.

MEXICO CITY, May 31.—(Associated Press.)—Guarantees to all political candidates, efforts to improve the conditions of the workers and to aid capitalists in developing the national resources, and an intention to strengthen Mexico's relations with "all the free peoples of the earth," were pledged today by Adolfo de la Huerta, the Provisional President, in a statement given The Associated Press.

Señor de La Huerta made his statement while lying on a sick bed. He said that Ygnacio Bonillas, former Ambassador to the United States, who is now under arrest, would be liberated, but if an investigation showed him to be a foreigner, he would be expelled from the country for having mixed in Mexican politics.

The Provisional President said he would name a commission to investigate the death of President Carranza. On this commission he would invite members of the Diplomatic Corps and members of the press to aid.

Señor de la Huerta declared that he had members for the Cabinet in mind, but that he had made no appointments. He added that a Secretary of the Interior would not be named for some weeks.

Persons close to Señor de la Huerta said today that he was suffering from appendicitis and that an operation probably would be performed in a few days.

It is expected that the Provisional President will take the oath of office tomorrow afternoon.

General de la Huerta arrived here Sunday night, accompanied by General Salvador Alvarado, Provisional Secretary of the Treasury. De la Huerta was escorted to his hotel by General Obregon and high military officials, who went to the station to meet him. In spite of a heavy rain falling, thousands thronged the streets to greet the revolutionary Executive. Many stood on the tops of street cars to catch a glimpse of him, and there were loud cheers as he drove from the station.

Soldiers guarded the entrance of the hotel for several minutes after the Provisional President had arrived, but soon gave up the effort to bar the crowd from the lobby. Provisional President de la Huerta went immediately to his room, sending word to newspaper correspondents that he was too fatigued to talk.

All traffic by rail or steamship with Vera Cruz, with the exception of that over the railway to Jalapa, has been ordered suspended by the Health Department of Vera Cruz because of the presence of bubonic plague, according to dispatches to Mexico City newspapers. The reports give the number of new cases discovered as from three to five.

A Mexico City dispatch on May 30 quoted a newspaper dispatch from Vera Cruz to the effect that several cases of what was believed to be bubonic plague had been discovered there.

BELGIAN ACE AND BRIDE ASCEND MONT BLANC

GENEVA, May 31. — Captain de Groeve, a Belgian ace, who during the war brought down a number of German airplanes, made another altitude record yesterday, this time on foot, from Chamonix, where he was spending his honeymoon with his bride of seventeen. The couple, accompanied by a guide, made the first ascent of Mont Blanc in 1920. When on the summit de Groeve lifted his bride on his shoulders in order that she might be the first of her sex to reach the highest altitude on Europe's roof.

The allied officers gave the couple an ovation on their return to Chamonix, especially as it had been whispered that this was a runaway love match.

CAR ROWDIES ARE FINED.

Six Pay $25 Each for Misconduct on Clason Point Line.

Six young men charged with disorderly conduct on two inbound Clason Point cars yesterday morning were fined $25 each by Magistrate Robert C. Ten Eyck in Morrisania Court yesterday. Three of them pleaded guilty. They were William Husband, 21, of 1,138 St. Lawrence Avenue; Henry Gerlach, 20, of 539 East 149th Street, and Jack Biers, 25, of 412 East 147th Street. They were arrested by Patrolmen Lenihan and Lynch of Inspector Walsh's staff, who alleged they were pulling the bell rope and jostling passengers on the car.

The other three fined were Louis Bornbaum, 22, of 830 Hewitt Place; Harry Greenberg, 28, of 3,719 Third Avenue, and Morris Carlin 17, of 1,217 Simpson Street who were charged by Detectives Carlin and Maher, also of Inspector Walsh's staff, with having used profane and boisterous language on the car.

DEMANDS MEXICO SIGN NEW TREATY

appointed by the President of the United States, and a like number of Mexican citizens to be appointed as that Government may in said agreement provide, and that the decision of this commission shall be binding upon the respective Governments and shall be immediately carried out by the payment of the damages adjudged.

"That a like commission should be in such agreement provided for the settlement of disputes concerning the international boundary and waters of the Rio Grande River and of the Colorado River, and particularly the Chamisal dispute and the Colorado River irrigation complication, with power to such commissions to render a decision for the payment of money and transfer of property, if any, necessary in the final settlement of such dispute."

The help to be extended to Mexico after recognition of the Government, the report says, should be "not only moral support but financial aid without stint in so far as same is necessary for the refunding of all Mexican bonds, including external as well as the internal debt, with additional funds in sufficient amounts to rehabilitate all Mexican railroads and to maintain same, and also sufficient amounts to enable the recognized Government to re-establish, organize and thoroughly equip a purely national army not belonging to any particular chief, chieftain or General, but operating solely under the National Government, which shall immediately proceed where necessary to disarm all other armed forces or individuals in the republic, together with sufficient funds to enable the Mexican Government to buy and pay for all arms and equipment which may be brought in and surrendered by individuals or armed bands or so-called armies.

"Preferably this aid should be extended by the people of the United States as a national loan from them to the people of Mexico, upon long time and with moderate rates of interest, so that Mexico may not be compelled to refund her debt and finance her necessity through appeal to individuals and granting special privileges or concessions to such individuals."

In taking any military action against Mexico, the report suggests this statement to the Mexican people:

"In the giving notice that we are not warring upon the Mexican people, we should request their assistance, or at least that they refrain from joining any armed bands in any attacks upon our troops or forces, whose purpose would simply be the restoration of peace and order, protection of our own citizens, protection of Mexican citizens, restoration of American citizens to their properties, the affording of opportunity for the opening of mines, fields and factories, and last, to afford the opportunity for the Mexican people themselves, in whatever manner they desire, to constitute a Mexican Government of serious, competent, honest and honorable men who will meet the civilized world upon a friendly ground and bind themselves to deal with other people as they themselves would be dealt with."

American Losses Estimated.

Deaths	$14,673,000
Personal injuries	2,346,301
Property, individual	80,481,133
Railroad, American (estimated)	112,000,000
Mining (estimated)	125,000,000
Oil, stock ranches, coffee, sugar and other plantations, factories, banks, city residences, power plants, irrigation systems, &c.	200,000,000
Total	$505,002,434

The total number Americans killed on the border or in Mexico in ten years is placed at 784 by the report.

Activities of Americans in the Mexican business were curtailed during the Carranza regime to the point where but 1,500 American citizens were working there last September, against 75,000 in 1910-11, at the end of the Diaz administration.

"The Carranza Government, as shown by the testimony of Admiral Caperton, received material for a munitions factory from Japan, and, as is well known, has for years been seeking a more or less close alliance with that country," the report declares. "The committee, of course, do not credit the suggestion that Japan itself contemplates any further alliance with Mexico at this time, other than close trade relations to secure, which she may be willing to listen to the suggestions from some enthusiastic hot-blooded Mexicans.

"Information has been received that there are more than 3,000 Japanese families established on the Limon ranch, the million-acre property in the Xloontecad district of Tamaulipas, reported some months ago as having been bought with a view to Japanese colonization. Much corn and sugar cane are raised on this land, and traces of oil are apparent.

"It is reliably reported that Japanese liners arrive at the port of Salina Cruz, Oaxaca, every ten days; that the Japanese enter Mexico through that port in increasing numbers every year; that they practically control commerce on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. It is further intimated that much of the anti-Chinese propaganda so widely disseminated along the west coast may be traced to Japanese sources; that they are largely responsible for the deportation of Chinese from Oaxaca to Chiapas and into Guatemala.

"Mexico has granted a concession to a Japanese concern known as the Matsumato Trading Company of Japan for the exploitation of all oil land on either side of the Tamesi River. Two representatives of this company," the report declares, "have been in the region for some time inspecting the territory between Tampico and Tuxpam. They were also provided with safe conducts to go under cover into the Pelaez district with a view to purchasing some oil wells controlled by a Spanish company there. It is further reported that this Japanese concern is to finance the construction of a railroad between Tampico and Tuxpam."

Report Goes to Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 31 (Associated Press).—The report of the sub-committee on Mexican affairs prepared by the chairman, Senator Fall, was concurred in by the other committee members, Senators Brandegee, Connecticut, Republican, and Smith, Arizona, Democrat, and ordered presented to the Senate, which without discussion directed that it be printed. It will probably be called up later. Any action by the Senate in approving the committee's recommendations, it was said, would be in the form of recommendations to the President.

The report contains more than 2,228,000 words, and its summary contains a sharp arraignment of those who have directed Mexican affairs since the overthrow of Porfirio Diaz in 1911. For the Mexican people, however, it sounds a note of sympathy, declaring that "the people of Mexico, that is, that great, voiceless, submerged, inarticulate mass, the '80 per cent.' whom President Wilson saw from the platform at Indianapolis several years since, are inarticulate except when they reach civilization on this side of the line and seek work from supposedly despised Americans, that they may live and hope to send back a few dollars with which to rescue their families from starvation. Their condition has grown worse from day to day, month to month and year to year, and for ten years the United States of America, that great Christian civilized nation of the world, has stood by 'fiddling' while Mexico burned."

The report was based on the testimony obtained from 257 witnesses heard here in New York and on the border, and a mass of documentary evidence, much of it coming from Government archives.

According to the investigations of the committee the population of Mexico had decreased nearly one-third since 1910 as a direct result of the disturbed condition. Much of this is due to disease attributable in a large measure, it was asserted, to starvation.

Throughout the period, it was claimed, the Mexican authorities have displayed a hostile attitude toward the United States and as an indication of the manner in which the Carranza Administration regarded the United States and its President, there was published in the report the following copy of a letter written by Candido Aguilar, son-in-law of Carranza, to Eliso Arredondo, Mexican Minister at Madrid, three weeks after Aguilar had placed a wreath on Washington's tomb:

"Your note dated the 4th of the past month received. In view of the internal crisis which the United States is experiencing Wilson's policy is provoking indignation among the parties and the press is attacking the President severely. He goes from one blunder to another and shows each day more clearly that he is a perfectly incompetent person.

"If the failure in Europe were not sufficient, it would be corroborated by the impertinence those Yankees merit. (erased from Washington and which President Carranza has answered with the imwpertinence those Yankees merit. I see in all this a criminal intention to intervene in our country. Time will show me to be right."

SENATE WILL VOTE ON ARMENIA TODAY

FEW SENATORS TO SPEAK

Reed Calls Mandate Proposal Madness and Declares Our Troops Would Be Sent to Slaughter.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The resolution declining to authorize a mandate over Armenia will be brought to a vote in the Senate tomorrow with adoption by a substantial majority apparently assured.

Agreement to act not later than 4 P. M., tomorrow and to curtail debate by limiting each Senator to forty-five minutes, was reached today by unanimous consent. It also was agreed to meet two hours earlier than usual, in order to allow ample discussion, though all the indications were that few Senators desired to speak.

Most of the discussion promises to centre about the amendment proposed by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, senior Democrat on the Foreign Relations Committee, providing for a joint commission to work out an economic rehabilitation program for Armenia. On this proposal both sides expect a close vote.

Although today had ben set aside by the leaders for discussion of the mandate, the only extended speech on the subject was made by Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, who characterized the mandate proposal as "this new madness."

"To send 60,000 men there, as has been recommended by the Harbord Military Commission," said Senator Reed, "would mean to send them to their slaughter.

"This mandate would obligate us to send troops to protect a small section of the earth's surface. But the League of Nations would obligate us to send troops everywhere and to defend the integrity of nations all over the world.

"Yet some of those who were willing to accept the larger responsibility in future and on paper now gag when asked to take a small morsel of actual performance. The situation illustrates again the differences between theory and fact."

The assumption that a mandate would require use of military power was denied by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, who pointed out that the words "administrative advice" were used in the League covenant in describing the nature of a mandate. He suggested that a mandate might properly be accepted on condition that the mandatory power would not be required to use its military forces. Senator Reed replied that such a mandate would be wholly unpracticable and ineffective.

LONDON, May 31.—Two Russian cavalry regiments crossed the Armenian frontier at Usuncala on May 21 and are advancing into Armenia, according to a delayed official dispatch from Tiflis.

Armenia has protested to the Soviet Government at Moscow and has sent troops to the scene, the dispatch adds.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 30.—Resht, an important city in Persia, sixteen miles southeast of Enzeli, the most important Caspian Sea port of that country and about 150 miles northwest of Teheran, has been occupied by Russian Bolshevist troops, according to advices received by the Persian legation here.

GEORGIANS DEFY ALLIES

Turkey's Request for Delay in Replying to Peace Terms Likely to be Granted.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 31.—The Turkish pot is boiling. The French War Office received word today that General Gouraud's troops had had a battle with the Turks in which "the enemy" left 1,200 dead upon the field. The troops formed the column which relieved Aintab. Finding themselves confronted by entrenched forces they attacked with artillery and infantry and carried the Turk positions. The report says that flags and booty were captured. No estimate is given of the French losses. The War Office classes the engagement as a victory of importance.

From Armenia there came to the French Foreign Office today an appeal for immediate aid against threatened attacks by Azerbaidjan forces on the one side and Mustapha Kemal's Turk Nationalists on the other. The Armenian authorities said that unless they received ammunition and supplies at once they would be unable to prevent themselves being crushed by the attack, and that the Kurds were also threatening them on the south. No information is forthcoming here as to what the French may do.

A telegram from Constantinople says that the Georgians are massing to attack Batum, which they claim in their treaty with the Moscow Soviet. Batum, which the allied Premiers made a free port for the joint use of Georgia, Azerbaidjan and Armenia, is held by French troops under command of General Milne, of the British Army, who is allied chief at Constantinople.

It appears that the Georgians established an armored train and some artillery near Batum. General Milne sent an ultimatum three days ago, calling on them to remove their artillery and agree not to send any more troops to the region. The answer of Georgia has been to continue to bring up troops and to affirm their declaration of putting the Allies out of Batoum.

On the other hand, Azerbaidjan Nationalist troops are getting ready to attack the Russian Bolsheviki holding Baku. It appears that the Russian leaders have not pleased the Azerbaidjan leaders, and that these prefer to run their own country.

A Greek communiqué reaching Paris this afternoon avers that the occupation of Thrace is taking place without incident. However, a message from Constantinople says 7,000 Nationalists are entrenched in front of Adrianople to prevent the Greeks from occupying that city.

A despatch from Erivan says that a Bolshevist movement was started at Alexandropol and that a local Soviet is installing itself there and has cut communications with the capital. The Armenian Government is said to be taking measures to oust the Soviet authorities.

As for the request of the Turkish Government for delay in preparing a reply to the Peace Treaty, it appears likely that the poseponement will be granted. Several French papers observe that it may afford the opportunity for a revision of the treaty in a manner to give France more and England less than the treaty draft assigns to them in Asia Minor.

VILLAFRANCA, who "practised physic" in Rome was the first to make public the fact that by the aid of salt, water could be quickly frozen.

He immersed a bottle of water in a pail of snow, into which he threw unrefined salt, turning the bottle constantly until the water was frozen.

At Knickerbocker Ice plants, galvanized containers are sunk in the floor and tightly covered. They are surrounded by brine to hasten the freezing, but the water inside is as carefully protected as that in Villafranca's bottle.

PLAN TO ADJOURN CONGRESS FRIDAY

Mondell Will Offer a Sine Die Resolution in the House Today.

BUSINESS CLEARING UP

But It Is Not Yet Certain That the Senate Can Get Through Saturday.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—A tentative agreement to adjourn Congress sine die on Friday was reached today by the Republican leaders of the Senate and House.

Because of the uncertain situation in the Senate, however, the adjournment date might later be changed to Saturday, leaders said. Many members of both Senate and House are known to favor a recess for the political conventions to a final adjournment, and it, too, it was said, may force a change in plans.

Representative Mondell of Wyoming, Republican leader of the House, is expected under the present arrangement to bring up for passage tomorrow a resolution providing for adjournment at 4 P. M. Friday.

Final decision as between a recess or an adjournment, it was said today, might hang fire until the last moment. In a conference with the Senate leaders today, however, Representative Mondell is understood to have been advised to go ahead with his adjournment resolution, under the assumption that it probably would be found satisfactory also to the Senate majority.

Only the Armenian mandate resolution and conference reports are on the list of important measures slated for passage before Congress quits, and it is likely that after the Senate has voted on Armenia tomorrow, it will spend its time on various bills of a minor or special character while the House considers the Armenian resolution. This process can be hastened at the will of House leaders under the suspension of rules plan limiting debate and amendments adopted last week.

In order to speed up its procedure, the Senate today agreed to begin its session tomorrow at 10 o'clock, two hours earlier than the usual meeting time, and various committee Chairmen were told to hasten their work in order to clean up loose ends of legislation.

B.R.T. SERVICE UNHAMPERED

Holiday Crowds Handled Without Difficulty—Strikers Meet Today.

Service on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit lines continued unhampered yesterday, in spite of the strike of members of the United Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, which started on Friday afternoon. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company took care of tremendous holiday crowds, adding many cars and trains to its schedule.

At the Brooklyn Rapid Transit powerhouses it was stated yesterday that no difficulties had yet been experienced in running the plants, in spite of the shortage of electricians. More than half of the electricians have remained at work, according to the company, whose officials contend that they can operate normal service indefinitely under present conditions. The strikers, who predicted that service would begin to deteriorate on Saturday, will meet today at Tammany Hall in Brooklyn.

KATE O'HARE ASSAILS PRISON DISCIPLINE

MAILS AND MEALS CUT OFF

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 31.—Mrs. Kate Richards O'Hare, who was released from the penitentiary at Jefferson City yesterday, her hands calloused from work she has been doing, spent today in her home, receiving many visitors. She told of prison conditions imposed on woman prisoners at Jefferson City and said she would devote her time to prison reform. "Socialism doesn't need men," she said.

Blind cell solitary confinement on bread and water is frequently imposed on woman prisoners, Mrs. O'Hare said. Other punishments, which were read out each evening at dinner, she continued, were depriving girls of their mail and their letter writing privileges, being put on bread and water and being deprived of meals.

"We were always locked in our cells except for the nine and a quarter hours spent daily in the overall factory," she said, "and one hour for recreation in a small walled enclosure."

Addie Brown, she said, is in charge of the destiny of ninety negro and white women. Only a person who has been in the prison can conceive how utterly the women are dependent on her whims, she said. No move can be made without her consent, she declared, one of her whims being to keep the temperature about 90 in the Winter and then turn it off and raise the windows.

"Addie smuggles tobacco in to the women," she said, "which she sells at $2 for a 10-cent sack. 50 cents for cigarette papers, and three matches for a dime. I complained of this to William R. Painter, Chairman of the Prison Board, but they did not remedy the condition. I do not say that girls should be permitted to smoke, however.

"The girls must make 1,500 overalls a month, for which they are paid $1. The dye in the goods is faulty and the women come from the shop with face and hands streaked and go direct to the table to eat, not being permitted to wash."

TELLS OF "THIRD DEGREE."

Beaten by Detectives and Wife Insulted After Boarder Was Shot, Says Driver.

Samuel Levinowitz, a coal truck driver of 101 Monroe Street, who accused detectives through a newspaper yesterday morning, of having beaten him and insulted his wife, in a "third degree" aimed at making him admit that he had shot John Ryan, a boarder in the same house, repeated his story to a reporter for THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday.

He said that three detectives came to his flat about 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning, called his wife "bad names," slapped her face and made her nose bleed. Then, he asserted, they pulled him from bed where he was sleeping when Ryan was shot and when the detectives called, and beat him with blackjacks, fists and clubs, dragged him downstairs, knocked him down, put him in an auto, took him to the Madison Street police station, hit him on the head with revolver butts, knocked him down again and kicked him, and told him to go home.

In the morning he went to a newspaper office where he told his story and where his photograph, showing the cuts and bruises, was taken. Then he went to the Volunteer Hospital, where several stitches were taken in his scalp. He was in bed when interviewed and presented a badly bruised and battered appearance.

The police said last night they knew "nothing about it." Capt. Matthew Robinson, in charge of the station, was quoted as saying that he did "not believe detectives would go so far as to strike a man, especially when he is not under arrest," but that he would order an investigation, as, if what Levinowitz said "is true, it is a very bad thing. Detectives are not justified in treating any man like that and I will not stand for it."

Detective Roy was quoted as saying that he went to 101 Monroe Street alone and took Levinowitz to the station alone, and did not beat him. Levinowitz bore marks of violence already, Roy asserted.

REPORTS SEEING BERGDOLL.

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 31.—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, convicted draft dodger and escaped army prisoner, is in Kentucky, according to reports that have been received here. Officers are combing the State for him.

Bergdoll crossed into Kentucky from Indiana several days ago, according to the Town Marshal of Vevay, Ind., who reported to the authorities a man answering Bergdoll's description had inquired of him the way to Louisville. He was in company with two other men and was driving a high-powered automobile, the Marshal said.

At the time the Marshal suspected the man was Bergdoll, but he was not certain. He went home immediately and looked up the description sent out by the Government at the time Bergdoll was being sought for evasion of the draft. He said the description tallied with the man he saw.

If Bergdoll is making for the mountains of Eastern Kentucky and reaches there he is safe. Sixty draft dodgers are alleged to have a strongly entrenched hiding place there and it is said that officials have never attempted to dislodge them. The dodgers are heavily armed and food is obtained by robbery and sent in by sympathizers, it is asserted. The Police Department here today received a request to look for Bergdoll.

BARBERS' STRIKE SPREADING

Brooklyn Journeymen to Walk Out —Co-operative Shops to Open.

The strike of journeymen barbers will spread this morning to the Eastern District and Ridgewood section of Brooklyn, it was announced yesterday by Leon Worthall, organizer of the International Journeymen Barbers' Union. Mr. Worthall addressed a mass meeting of the Independent Journeymen Barbers Union in the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum, at Willoughby and Myrtle Avenues, Sunday night, following which a strike vote was taken. Three hundred members of the union were present. The union, Mr. Worthall said, has decided to affiliate with the International.

The grievance of the Brooklyn barbers, according to John Jarpanelis, organizer of the union, is that the boss barbers have failed to comply with all of the demands formulated on April 3.

Settlements are being made with many shops in Manhattan and the Bronx, Mr. Worthall said. The strikers will meet at Bryant Hall tonight.

The first co-operative barber shop, owned and operated by the journeymen barbers, will open next week, according to Mr. Worthall, in the theatrical district. It is planned to restore the pre-war prices in these new shops, shaves being 15 cents and haircuts 35 cents.

CIVILIZATION SHAKY, GEDDES DECLARES

THE WAY HE SEES OUT

Three Essentials Which, If Observed, May Avert the Disaster That Is Threatened.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, speaking tonight at the annual commencement of George Washington University warned America against enmeshment in "disentanglements of Europe," adding:

"So far only the swell of the storm centred in Europe laps your coasts, yet your daily press is already filled with news of strikes and what is vaguely called industrial unrest.

"We all know that it was your tradition to keep clear of European entanglements. Here is a European disentanglement that is already piling the waters on your social beaches, a disentanglement of the complicated interweaving of man and man in the social fabric."

Sir Auckland, who received the degree of LL. D. today, told the graduates that he doubted if ever before "was the future for so many nations, as many individuals, so closely shrouded in dark clouds pregnant with storm.

"In Europe we know that an age is dying," he continued. "Here it would be easy to miss the signs of coming change, but I have little doubt that it will come. A realization of the aimlessness of life lived to labor and to die, having achieved nothing but avoidance of starvation, and the birth of children also doomed to the weary treadmill, has seized the minds of millions."

Ambassador Geddes asserted that the next fifty or sixty years "are going to be the most glorious or the most disastrous in the history of the world." The present generation "cannot hope to see a successful end to the world revolution now in progress," he said, and turning to the recipients of degrees added, "Yours may."

The way out of the seeming world turmoil, the Ambassador declared, must be found by those who keep in view three essentials, which he named as beauty, service and truth.

"Keeping these three in view," he added, "civilization will sail safely. Let one be occulted and civilization is in danger. Let two be occulted, and peril is high. Let three be occulted and civilization falls. Thus Babylon fell, thus Egypt, thus Rome, and I doubt not fell all the civilizations of the past. So today civilization tottters."

84 CATTLE BRING $77,580.

Special to The New York Times.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., May 31.—T. E. Cooper and son at their Linden Grove farm at Coopersburg, today sold 84 head of Jersey cattle for $77,580, or an average of $923. This broke last year's record, when the cattle brought an average of $901.

The forty-six cows alone brought $53,860. The twelve heifers brought $9,825; fifteen heifer calves, $9,895; four bulls, $1,985, and six bull calves, $3,895.

The queen of the herd was Rowe's fawn beauty, bought by Ayer & McKinney of Philadelphia for their farm at Meredith, N. Y., for the fancy price of $5,700. This noble animal, 5 years old, was bred by John Duval of St. Peters, Isle of Jersey, and with a record of 603 pounds of butter in 488 days last year won first prize at the Channel Islands show.

Former Mayor R. J. Fleming of Toronto, Canada, manager of the Toronto Railway Company, paid $4,500 for the cow Raleigh's Beside Bell and Ayer & McKinney $4,300 for the cow imported Lady Gilbert, both of which are also prize Channel Island cows.

The largest buyers besides Ayer and McKinney were M. J. George, of Handley, Texas; George W. Sisson, Jr., of Poteskin, N. Y.; C. I. Hudson, of East Norwich, N. Y.; S. C. Appleby, of Pulaski, Tenn.; Harry Snyder, vice president of the Bethlehem Steel Company; John Pringle, president of the Bank of Toronto and Edward G. Lassiter, owner of the vast Pullfurrias range of 440,000 acres on the Mexican border.

68 BBLS. OF WHISKY STOLEN IN ALBANY

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 31.—Sixty-eight barrels of whisky, a carload sent from New York City to Albany in the name of George H. Adams, of 291 North Pearl Street, have been stolen.

Federal officials tonight refused to confirm or deny the report, but railroad officials said the whisky reached here with all the proper permits a few days ago and that the reputed owner was notified of its arrival in the usual course of business. He presented bills of lading and showed his permit and took away 15 barrels, leaving the rest in the car.

Later the rest of the whisky was removed and then it developed that the stuff had been stolen. In looking up Adams it was found that the address he gave is a vacant lot.

ROCKEFELLER ON U. P. TRIP.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., May 31.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., will tomorrow start from Omaha on a trip of inspection of the entire Union Pacific system, accompanied by President Carl Gray and others of the railroad officials. Mr. Rockefeller is using a special car from New York to Omaha but, from this point West he will travel by special train.

This is the first time a Rockefeller has ever inspected the system. In Union Pacific headquarters, the report has been going around that the Harriman interest has sold most of its holding in Union Pacific and gone in for steamships.

Mr. Rockefeller's inspection of Union Pacific property may be significant in the light of this report. It was said here today.

Today We Step Into June

And as we are going right along with our present plans

We continue the offering of our entire retail stock

(with the exception of a few price-restricted articles and our separate catalog stocks)

at twenty per cent. deduction

(to be made at time of purchase)

Was ever June so greeted? When before did the rose-month come over the hills of time, to see all the merchandise the world wants in June available to the public at one-fifth below its regular, rightful price? Not the merchandise that should have gone out with May—not just odd lots at seasonable reductions—but the WHOLE of a great store's goods in two great cities (with the unimportant exceptions above noted).

We have kept the faith

May has gone during which the campaign that we set a-going on that memorable Monday, May third, to the astonishment of the people that read the morning papers, giving away one-fifth of our property to purchasers of it has swept all over the United States to the benefit of the buying public.

We have the proofs of that in many records. The large turn-over of money and the purchase of supplies to take the place of articles sold, the relief to makers of goods, who were holding them for higher prices, when they found they could turn them into ready money, has affected the money market, and interest rates have fallen in some of the money centers.

A Notable Incident

is that the pressure to sell Liberty and Victory Bonds has lessened, and the prices for them have risen.

Food prices in many instances followed the lower rates for wearing apparel and manufactures.

People see that some influence has been brought to bear to do this, and many people who write us attribute it to the example that we set of a willingness to serve our patrons for a time with little or no profit to ourselves.

It was this that led us to say that it was a patriotic movement, just as it was when we sent 1490 of our boys into the war from New York and Philadelphia, and helped to take care of their parents in many instances while their lads were at the front with the Flag.

One of our family turned over his residence on the Champs Elysees, Paris, at the beginning of the war as a hospital, so did we also in arranging to use the Rue Royale workrooms where some of our fashionable millinery was made to be the headquarters of the Emergency Aid for the Pennsylvania soldiers.

The Country that has been saved was worth saving and to help the people to save on their Liberty Bonds and to erect a breakwater against the surging of high prices which were beginning to loom in sight, we made the plunge in spite of the risks of misunderstanding, criticisms, or our own personal losses.

We have not only parted with immense quantities of our goods without urging people who buy them, but we have used the money that came into our hands during the four weeks of the past month and brought into our stocks new goods amounting to a total of at usual selling prices.

We are not hurrying people to buy. We are simply going on as we started, for a short time, allowing our goods to go at one-fifth off their usual prices.

Of course there will be isolated cases where some one is marking down articles left over from what was brought in a year or more ago, when we bought low and sold low.

It is easy for a storekeeper to pick out an article here and there and reduce the price as though that were an evidence of a cheaper store, but we do things differently. We stand for the qualities of our goods and the certainties of the just values of them.

And so we are keeping the faith day by day

Wedding clothes? Yes.

June is the month of brides, and we are prepared with clothes for the bride and groom, and the bridesmaids, the flower girls, and the best man.

Where in the world is there so fascinating a choice of wedding gifts? All the things you ever thought of giving, and any number you haven't thought of, are here, in the Jewelry Shop, the Silver Courts, the Oriental Shop, Au Quatrieme, and the Home-furnishing shops.

Motoring comforts? Plenty of them. Robes of every good sort, including some fine woolen robes from Ireland, light enough for still evenings, yet warm enough for the cool evening air in the mountains and by the sea. Charmingly colorful.

And topcoats. And raincoats. And caps for men. And motor hats and veils for women.

In the London Shop for men and the English Shop for women are the sort of things one goes abroad to get, and brings back with a great deal of satisfaction.

Golf and walking suits, and skirts, and topcoats, and sweaters for women. Colors that express the spirit on a June morning in the hills far from town.

Some of the finest linen handkerchiefs for men are in the London Shop; and Spitalsfield silks to be made into mufflers or cravats; and umbrellas such as you seldom see this side of Bond street, London; and walking sticks, and spats—all personally selected and imported direct.

British golf suits for men—golf stockings from Scotland—the golf and tennis shoes that bear Tom Logan's name—lounge suits made to measure—shirts cut to measure and made up in the better shirtings (some boxes of imported shirtings are being opened today)—

—at twenty per cent. less.

Exquisite summer frocks for every age and taste of walking femininity (if you have a little girl, not yet six, don't miss the organdie and net frocks in the Infants' Shop)—light summer scarfs of stonemarten and Hudson Bay Sable, and squirrel and fox—hats fresh from the workrooms every day—

—at twenty per cent. less.

Fine French trunks, most famous trunks in the world—Oriental rugs, wonders of patient weaving and combining of colors—a veranda suite of reed painted by hand, with softest of cushions, silk-covered, on chairs—garden furniture—the latest books—fine water colors and oils.

The list is a long one. It would take a page or two to do it justice. It includes the finer grades of merchandise that New York wants. Not extravagances, or passing novelties, but useful, needed, lasting things of character, which bring an uplifting environment into our lives.

These are things rarely—if ever—purchasable under-price; and are not to be had in every shop.

The fact that they are included in the great stocks open to the public today at one-fifth deduction from rightful, regular prices, is the warranty of the thoroughness and sincerity of this unparalleled merchandise movement.

And so we are keeping the faith

CHANGE LIQUOR RULE TO BAFFLE FORGERS

O'CONNOR SIGNATURE FAKED

Wholesale Swindle Is Revealed After He Changes It — Warehouses Now Held Accountable.

The discovery of many forgeries among the 11,000 permits issued here under the Volstead Act permitting the removal of liquor from bonded warehouses for non-beverage purposes has led Charles R. O'Connor, State Director of Prohibition, to devise a system holding the vendor as well as the vendee accountable in event the liquor is used for illegitimate purposes. This became known yesterday when it was disclosed that millions had been garnered in the last two months by means of such forgeries.

In the fake liquor permits the forgers have not only used the signatures of prospective purchasers whose applications are on file at the office of Mr. O'Connor, but they have forged O'Connor's own signature. The blank permits are easily obtainable at the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue, 28 West Twenty-third Street. The forgers' next step was to ascertain the names of those who had legally obtained permits. Their signatures were affixed to the permits and finally the forgers procured a copy of the signature of Mr. O'Connor.

Suspicion was aroused several weeks ago when the Director changed his signature from "Chas R. O'Connor," stamped in red ink, to "Charles R. O'Connor," bearing a red ink mark. Two days later some permits were discovered with the changed signature, but lacking the red ink identification. Upon investigation it was found that the names and addresses of the vendees were fictitious, as were the names of the notaries public.

2,600 Cases on One Permit.

One of the fictitious permits, among the first discovered, was apparently issued to Salvatore Clienti, 300 West Broadway. The fake permit provided for the purchase of 2,000 cases of liquor from A. Guckenheimer & Bros. Co., of Freeport, Pa. Investigation showed that both the signature of Clienti and the Prohibition Director had been forged, as had that of the notary.

Another difficulty with the permit system lies in the possibility of profiteering by persons who apply for them without intending to buy a drop of liquor. They then sell the permits for exorbitant prices, and one such applicant is said to have made $200,000 in two weeks.

The applications have been so numerous that it has been impossible for Mr. O'Connor's office to investigate every individual seeking a permit, but it is believed that this trouble will be partly eliminated when the bonded warehouses are required to certify as to the character of the purchasers. The Volstead Act makes it possible for an individual to obtain a permit to buy liquor for non-beverage purposes upon furnishing bond of from $1,000 to $100,000. When bonded in the latter amount there is no limit to the quantity he can buy for legitimate use, such as the production of perfumes or articles requiring alcohol as a dissolvent.

At his home in Delhi Mr. O'Connor explained that the reported number of forgeries was exaggerated at 3,200. The actual number, he said, was less than half that many. They were committed early in his administration, since when every effort had been made to stop them. The use of carbon for the five copies of withdrawal permits was discontinued. Likewise the applications now were being filled out and signed with indelible inks and more care was being exercised generally than when he first took charge of the office.

Rules to be Made More Stringent.

His staff had at last caught up with business, according to Mr. O'Conner, and the criminal misuse of liquor permits was becoming increasingly less. He said the rules governing withdrawals of whisky from bonded warehouses would be made still more stringent and that manufacturers were no longer to be allowed to withdraw whisky for their uses, but must purchase raw alcohol instead. Likewise the regulations under which druggists were permitted to procure 100 gallons of whisky every three months were subject to modification at any time.

Several forgeries, according to Mr. O'Connor, are under investigation now by the Federal Grand Jury, and there are likely to be arrests in this district at any time.

It is possible, by means of a permit issued in this jurisdiction, to purchase liquor for a bonded warehouse in any other part of the country, and the exact extent of the forgers' operations may not be known until all of their fictitious permits have been returned to the office of issuance.

It is reported from Baltimore that similar illegal practices have been discovered in Maryland. As yet no forged signatures to whisky permits have been uncovered, but there have been found permits in which the figures have been raised. Prohibition Director Dodson of Baltimore has announced that all permits must be returned to his department before any of the purchased whisky can be delivered. He is also endeavoring to devise a way by which he can trace consignments of whisky after they have left the warehouses. This has proved difficult heretofore.

Baltimore Liquor for New York.

For instance, the Prohibition Director at Philadelphia will issue a permit for the removal of liquor to Baltimore, but when the shipment arrives in the latter city the authorities there are not advised of it.

If it develops that it was not used for medicinal purposes the Government exacts from the bondsman the regular tax or the difference between the medicinal tax and that assessed when the liquor is otherwise used. No objection is made to the increased tax charges because of the fancy prices obtained for the liquor. Daily withdrawals of 200 to 400 barrels are reported in Baltimore. Most of it is said to be coming to New York or places in Pennsylvania. Only liquor bottled in bond is being kept in Baltimore, according to reports.

One consignment sent out from Baltimore attracted the attention of the prohibition officials because it was addressed to the "Wise Burg Drug Company," at Scranton, Pa. The appellation was well merited, according to one of the enforcement officers. Scranton is said to be one of the wettest places in the country.

PERSHING GAVE ORDER TO RELEASE MINOR

Gensral, Before Senate Committee, Denies Influence Was Exerted for Newspaper Man.

WASHINGTON, May 31. — General Pershing told the Senate Judiciary Committee today that he had ordered the release of Robert Minor, an American newspaper man arrested in the occupied area of Germany on a charge of circulating radical propaganda among American troops there. The General said he had acted on the recommendation of General Bethel, Judge Advocate General for the A. E. F., who had been ordered to make an investigation, and denied that American influences had been in any way responsible.

General Bethel had reported, General Pershing testified, that while he believed Minor guilty, an officer of the Army Intelligence Service was the only witness against him who was available and for that reason he thought the prisoner should be liberated.

Senator King, Democrat, Utah, author of the resolution ordering the Senate investigation of Minor's case, announced today that Major General Harbord, former Chief of Staff of the A. E. F., had filed with the committee an affidavit saying that after Minor's arrest he received a number of telephone messages from the Hotel Crillon in Paris, ostensibly from Colonel Auchincloss, son-in-law of Colonel House, asking about Minor's case.

Carpenter Finds Mrs. Simpson's Jewels and Looks Up Owner.

CHICAGO, May 31—Jewels valued at approximately $100,000 lost from a motor car in Evanston, a suburb, today had been returned to Mrs. James Simpson, wife of the Vice President of a large department store, and Thor Alfredson, carpenter, was $100 richer and Justice of the Peace Nazareth Barsumian, also had $100 toward his fund for a circulating library.

Alfredson found the jewels, described by the owner as heirlooms, and called in Judge Barsumian in an effort to find the person who had lost them.

JEWISH CONGRESS ELECTS STRAUS

AIM AT WORLD TRIBUNAL

British Government to be Asked to Release 30 Jewish Legionaires Held in Palestine.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31. — Nathan Straus of New York was elected Chairman of the permanent organization of the American Jewish Congress just before that body concluded a two days' session in the gold room of the Bellevue-Stratford tonight.

Dr. Louis S. Roubinsohn of this city was elected as one of the six Vice Chairmen of this, the most important Jewish organization in the whole world. The other Vice Chairmen are Colonel Harry Cutler of Providence, Judge Leon Sanders of New York, Rabbi M. S. Margolies of New York, head of all the Orthodox Rabbis in America; Gedalia Bublick and Solomon Bloomgarten of New York. Bernard G. Richards was elected executive secretary.

The Executive Committe of seventy-one members includes Jacob H. Schiff, Abram I. Elkus, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Judge Julian Mack and Louis Marshall, of New York.

Just before Louis Lipsky, the temporary Chairman, declared the meeting adjourned, a resolution was adopted instructing the Executive Committee to ask the British Ambassador to this country for the release of Vladimir Jabolinsky and nineteen other members of the Jewish Legion, arrested at the time of the recent anti-Semitic outbreak in Jerusalem. Because the Legionaries formed an armed body in defense of the Jews there instead of notifying the British military authorities they were sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment. The sentence was later reduced to one year, and the members of the American Jewish Congress now seek a full pardon for the prisoners.

This congress, which was attended by commissioners from Jewish communities in various parts of Europe, is expected to result in a Jewish world tribunal, after other countries form bodies similar to the American Jewish Congress.

Several Socialists, who are delegates to this congress representing all Jews in America, tried to disrupt the temporary congress when it opened on Sunday, when they were frustrated. Several other attempts were made, and finally two left the permanent body today on the ground that one of their number was kept off committees in punishment for criticising the delegates to the Peace Conference and President Wilson.

They were finally brought back to the congress and harmony was restored. The leaders of the Indian were B. Zuckerman and Meyer Brown, of New York.

Dr. Joseph Bloch of Vienna, a Commissioner to the Congress, said that the Jews of the entire world looked to the Jews of this country to end the persecutions and hardships which they had suffered in the past. He asked that an American Consul be sent either to Lemberg or Cracow, so that persons desiring to emigrate to this country need not go many miles, as they now do, to have their passports vised.

When Rabbi Wise asked for money to cover the operating expense of the next year $12,000 was collected by the delegates and $57,000 additional pledged.

The congress adjourned at 7 o'clock tonight with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Ha Tickvoh," the national Palestine anthem.

ROOT WILL SAIL TODAY.

Goes to Help Organize League of Nations Court.

Elihu Root, who is to represent the United States in the organizing of a permanent Court of Justice of the League of Nations, is scheduled to sail today on the Nieuw Amsterdam for London, to attend the first meeting of the committee on June 15. Accompanying Mr. Root will be his wife and James Brown Scott, legal adviser to the American Peace Commission at Paris, with two technical experts on international law.

The committee which will draft plans for organizing the court is made up of M. Adatci, Japan; M. Altamira, Spain; M. Bevilaqua, Brazil; M. Deschamps, Belgium; M. Fadda, Italy; M. Fromageot, France; M. Loder, Holland; Lord Phillimore, Great Britain; M. Vesnitch, Jugoslavia, and Mr. Root. Argentina and Norway were to have been represented, but their two delegates were withdrawn because of personal indisposition, it was said.

The organization of a Court of Justice was one of the points which brought about a split in the Hague tribunals of 1899 and 1907.

LARGE CROWDS AT BEACHES

A record crowd visited Coney Island yesterday, and an unusually large number of pleasure seekers gathered at Far Rockaway and Rockaway Beach. Every available car on the transit lines was used and all were jammed to capacity from early in the morning until late at night. It was estimated that there were 200,000 persons at Coney Island.

The large crowds were very orderly. Policewomen patrolled the beaches, on the watch for feminine bathers violating the official laws of propriety by too scanty attire. Half a dozen women at Coney Island wearing abbreviated skirts and socks were warned to change their costumes and a dozen at Rockaway Beach.

At Coney Island ten summonses were issued to men who violated the regulation against ball playing on the beach by tossing about regulation league baseballs. Those with soft rubber balls were not molested. Anthony Petrezzo, 19 years old, of 118 Hudson Avenue, Brooklyn, was taken into custody by the police on a charge of having partaken too freely of a beverage prohibited by the Volstead act.

There was one case of assault reported. Harry Jackson of 2,114 Merrmaid Avenue reported to the police that he had been attacked by four men, struck on the head with a blackjack and robbed of $35.

The Five Million Dollar Closing-Out Shoe Sale at Retail, Direct to the Consumer at the Grand Central Palace, on Lexington Avenue Between 46th and 47th Streets, will not be checked in its headlong rush until this great stock of shoes for Men, Women and Children has been passed on into the hands of the prudent people of New York.

. . . . . .

Mr. Alfred I. du Pont, the President, and Mr. Charles W. Mills, the Vice-President and General Manager of the Nemours Trading Corporation, who own this huge stock of shoes, unquestionably the largest quantity of shoes personally possessed by any man or corporation, are back of me in my efforts to the utmost limit.

. . . . . .

Note this statement—they do not ask me to organize and conduct this closing-out sale on a profitable basis; in fact they do not expect one cent of net profit when this big task has at last been finished. These men of big business affairs in the world are doing their utmost to help me, not hinder me. They own the Grand Central Palace building in which I am holding this sale, and they do not charge one dollar of rent against this shoe sale for the use of the building.

In preparing this great profitless sale of shoes for the good people in New York and this part of the United States I appreciate the native quickness of perception that is a mark of distinction in the New York people. They are also noted for measuring their ideals by practical standards; therefore I believe the New York people are not unmindful of the value of some of the startling truths as expressed by sages of old: "If duty fails to function in your life, want and despair will certainly enthrall you." When you feel your personal estimate of duty is slipping from you feed it on love of humanity; do it for your own sake.

Twenty thousand pairs of Men's, Women's and Children's Shoes is commercially considered a big stock for a large retail store. I am here to close out, in the shortest time possible, over 900,000 pairs, enough shoes to stock forty immense retail stores. Let the evening twilight or your sweetest thought try to grasp and circle about the sight that will greet your eyes when you enter the Grand Central Palace today.

I could never have been induced to come to New York to organize this mighty closing-out sale of shoes had I not known the sterling qualities and big calibres of Mr. Alfred I. du Pont and Mr. Charles W. Mills. They do not ask or expect me to practice deceptive phantoms on the buying public; they own the shoes; they are retiring from the domestic shoe business, and want this stock turned into cash. I can accomplish their purpose and, at the same time, fill a shoe void for the people here that I know will be appreciated. If you will listen to the whisperings of common sense in your own souls you'll be chased into the Grand Central Palace today.

I want all eager, hopeful, trustful hearts to rush to my closing-out shoe sale at the Grand Central Palace, for I am making it the very goal that will adorn all mercantile shoe events in this country. Detailed accounts are simply impossible on account of the vastness of the quantities on exhibition.

ONE HOUR OF YOUR VALUABLE TIME, SPENT IN THE GRAND CENTRAL PALACE TODAY, will convince you that I have conquered and crushed shoe prices for everybody most unmercifully. The ladies will revel in the almost endless profusion of styles in high and low cut, all widths, all sizes, and I might almost add all kinds. The mothers—the most blessed name on earth is "mother"—will not waver when their eyes behold this enormous exhibition and sale of children's shoes—in all sizes and for every occasion for the dear ones. The sturdy men of New York will certainly surrender their prejudices against all shoe sales and fly into the Grand Central Palace by the thousands, or they will forfeit the best opportunity to lay in a supply of shoes and save on every pair of men's dress and work shoes—it's the money you save that counts.

This closing-out sale will continue uninterrupted from nine o'clock in the morning until ten o'clock every night for some time. During my stay here, I shall frequently publish some news concerning this sale that will give you an insight into the big event. I sincerely trust your prudence and wisdom will approve of my methods.

SIX KILLED IN AUTOS ON HOLIDAY TRIPS

Two Accidents Near Camden to Parties Returning from Seashore.

FOUR IN CAR HIT BY TRAIN

Grandfather and Granddaughter Die in Trying to Avoid a Collision.

CAMDEN, N. J., May 31.—Six persons, returning from holiday trips to the seashore, were killed and four were seriously injured in two automobile accidents today.

The first accident, in which John P. Bowen and his infant granddaughter were killed, occurred near Sea Isle City. In trying to avoid a collision with another car their machine crashed into a telegraph pole. David J. Bowen, his wife and six-months-old son were badly hurt. All lived in Camden.

Four Philadelphians were killed in the other accident, which occurred at a grade crossing near Clayton. Their car was hit by a train. The victims were William Eggers, Edith McCandliss, Bessie Ernstlich and Bessie Cragmile. The fifth member of the party, Ida Eggers, a sister of one of the victims, leaped from the car in time to save her life, but was badly injured.

CHILD KILLED BY AUTO.

Parents of 5-Year-Old Girl Were Only a Few Feet Away.

Mary Cunningham, 5 years old, of 231 Willis Avenue, the Bronx, was killed last night when she was struck in front of 339 East 135th Street by a taxicab owned by Michael Behan, 517 West Fiftieth Street, and driven by Thomas F. Woods, 119 West Fifteenth Street. Woods drove to Lincoln Hospital, where the child was pronounced dead. Woods was arrested on a charge of homicide. The parents of the child were standing on the sidewalk when it was struck when she was struck by the automobile.

John Reid, fifty-two years old, of 670 East 137th Street, the Bronx, suffered contusions of the body when he was struck at Brook Avenue and 138th Street, the Bronx, last night by an automobile owned and operated by Dr. George Calvelli of 303 East 112th Street. He was saved from more serious injury by clinging to the radiator of the automobile. Reid was treated by Dr. Calvelli and removed to Lincoln Hospital.

7 DIE IN RAIL COLLISIONS.

Trains Wrecked in Head-On Crashes in Oklahoma and New York.

TUSLA, Okla., May 31.—At least five persons were killed and a score injured in a head-on collision of St. Louis and San Francisco passenger trains early today near White Oak, a village about fifty miles northeast of here. The wreck occurred on a sharp curve when both trains were running about forty miles an hour.

Both engineers died at their posts. A mail clerk, a news agent and a negro passenger were killed. The dead and injured were all from Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

ELMIRA, N. Y., May 31.—The engineer and fireman of Lehigh Valley train No. 6 were killed and three passengers were slightly injured when that train met head-on with a train drawn by two engines near Van Etten, N. Y., early this morning.

The dead were Joseph Law, engineer, and Fred Douglas, fireman, of Sayre, Pa. The injured are Mrs. H. Sebin, Harrison, N. J.; Mrs. Augusta Riegel, Easton, Pa.; Mrs. Mary Nolen, Waverly, N. Y., and Mayano Poiskzosi, Durfyea, Pa.

TEACHER DIES BY GAS.

Physician's Brother Ends Life After Fits of Despondency.

Returning home from a motor trip late Sunday night, Dr. Charles S. Hunt, of 322 West Fifty-first Street, found the body of his brother, John W. Hunt, a school teacher, 62 years old, in a gas filled room on the third floor of the house. The doors and windows were locked. Dr. Hunt entered the room by breaking down the door, and found a gas jet fully open. Dr. Charles Norris, medical examiner, pronounced it a case of suicide.

Dr. Hunt said his brother suffered a nervous breakdown two years ago and had been despondent at times since then.

CROWD OF 38,688 SEES YANKS WIN

TAKE MORNING GAME, 7-6

Hugmen Come Through with Deciding Run After Score Is Tied In Ninth.

RUTH HITS ANOTHER HOMER

Walter Johnson, Who Yields Circuit Blow, Is Pounded Hard by New York Sluggers.

The flood-tide of baseball popularity swept over the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon, when 38,688 spectators went into ecstacies of excitement as the Yankees went on a batting rampage and downed Washington by a score of 10 to 7. It was the Yanks' second victory of the holiday, for in the morning game a crowd of over 11,500 saw the Yanks triumph by a score of 7 to 6 in a nip-and-tuck clash which whetted the public's appetite for the great sports spectacle in the afternoon, when the local attendance record was broken.

This outpouring of 50,000 spectators in one day is a new mark in baseball attendance, and, if such things can be estimated, a new record in public demonstration, for there was something happening all the time at both games to magnetize the vertebrae of the assembled multitudes and find expression in as violent an outburst of vocal extravagance as ever rattled the windows of Harlem.

To mark the end of a perfect day, the emotions of the great afternoon crowd climbed to the peak of hysterical joy when Babe Ruth made the Yankees' victory a certainty by crashing out a home run off the peerless Walter Johnson, Meusel was on third base at the time, and Ruth caught one of Johnson's fastest flings on the end of his bat and shot the ball against the facade of the upper right-field stand and almost tore away part of the roof. It was Babe's twelfth home run of the season.

Meal Setting for Homer.

Big moments like this do not come often in sport. The setting yesterday was ideal for the mighty batting deed. Completely encircling the field, all the stands were jammed. The background of thousands upon thousands of faces gave the impression of a great embroidered tapestry. At times it was a sea of waving straw hats, so many straw hats that it would have been a feast for the eyes of a hat manufacturer. It didn't seem as if there were as many straw hooters in the whole world.

After all, it was to see the home run drive while the ball that the huge gathering came. There was a silent moment of intense anticipation as Ruth came to bat. He had gone through the morning and afternoon games up to this point without making a hit. As the mighty Johnson unloosed his arm and shot the ball over, the low rumbling of the crowd began to creep over the fields. It grew louder and louder as Ruth swung his bat. When the titanic smash drove the ball up to the top of the stand the outbreak of cheers was as spontaneous as a thunderclap.

For a human being over whom the public is throwing such a conniption fit as it is over the batting Babe, Ruth is a modest hero. He doffed his cap and smiled in deep appreciation and satisfaction as the glad cheering music rolled over the diamond in deafening waves.

Sitting on a bench in the press stand, it was there was no other place in the jammed pandemonium for her to sit, a pretty girl whose eyes sparkled as Ruth bowed his bared head of black, tousled hair to the tumultuous reception. She was the happiest girl on earth. It was Mrs. Babe Ruth. Why wouldn't a wife be happy whose husband's name is on every man's lips and whose fame has trolled over the country and has made the names of Presidential candidates a secondary matter in the public chatter? Happy is no name for it.

The police handled yesterday afternoon's great crush well. They kept the crowd orderly on Eighth Avenue and the Speedway and before the game had started and the grounds were jammed to overflowing they turned away the disappointed thousands outside without any trouble of any kind.

Pitchers Fare Poorly.

The afternoon tilt was a wild, fantastic ball game. Harry Courtney, the tall young left-hander from New Haven, faced the slugging Yanks. In the second inning, with Thormahlen pitching, the Senators started the scoring. With one down, Ellerbe singled, and he went to second on Shannon's single. Gharrity drove Ellerbe home with a single to left. Courtney fanned and Peck threw Judge out at first and Thormahlen fanned.

The Yanks fell on Courtney in their portion of the second and drove him out of the game. Pratt walked and went to third on Bodie's double. A two-bagger to left centre by Lewis shoved Pratt and Bodie home. Hannah went out at first and Thormahlen fanned. Peck soaked a double to left, scoring Lewis. Snyder then succeeded Courtney. Hard-hitting Washington came back in the third, drove Thormahlen into oblivion and jumped into the lead. Milan singled and Rice sided to Ruth. Roth's single sent Milan to third, and Rice went to second on the throw-in. Harris spanked a single to left and Milan and Roth scored, Harris making the circuit when the ball got through Lewis and rolled to the fence.

Manager Huggins yanked Thormahlen out of the box and sent in Ernie Shore. Ellerbe walked; Shannon rolled to Meusel, who made a bad toss for a force play at second and both hands were safe. Shore settled down and Gharrity and Snyder were easy outs at first.

In the first of the fourth Washington hammered Shore out of the box. It was a tough day for pitchers. Judge singled and Milan and Rice were easy outs. Roth's single scored Judge. Roth stole second and then stole third when Harris walked. A double steal was started and Shore unraveled a balk, Roth scoring and Harris going to second. Ellerbe's double pushed Harris home and Washington was leading by a score of 7 to 3.

Collins Makes Home Debut.

That was all of Shore and into the game Huggins sent the two-gun man from the Texas ranges, Rip Collins. It was Rip's first start at home. Here was a lad with a world of confidence who isn't afraid of Washington or anybody else. The first ball he pitched was a strike and the crowd was with him on the jump. The inning ended when Shannon rolled out to first.

There were plenty of kicks in the Yanks' bats and they drove Snyder out of the game in their half of the same inning. Lewis singled, Hannah walked and Rip sent them along with a sacrifice. Peck walked and jammed the corners. Meusel singled to left and scored Lewis and Hannah. Goodby Snyder, welcome Walter Johnson.

The mighty Walter stopped them for the moment, but the Yanks tied the score in the sixth. Hannah singled and Collins fanned. Then Peck, Meusel and Pipp rocked Johnson for singles in a row and Hannah and Peck counted, deadlocking the count.

The eighth saw the fall and decline of Johnson. With one gone, Peck unpeeled a triple to left centre and he scored when Meusel cracked another triple to centre. Pipp filed out Harris. Ruth unearthed his home run and everybody was happy.

Mogridge and Shaw opposed each other at the start of the morning game. With two out in the third, singles by Peck, Meusel and Pipp gave the Yanks their first run. Washington got three in the sixth. Shaw was hit and Judge singled. Milan rolled to Pratt, who missed a force play at second. Shaw scoring. Judge scored on Rice's sacrifice fly. Roth singled to left, scoring Milan.

Scho Heavy Hitting.

Huggins's lads gathered five runs in a lump in their half of the sixth. Ruth fanned and Pratt singled, being forced by Bodie. Duf Lewis slapped a home run into the left field bleachers. It went over the front left field of bleachers fair and then curved foul. Hannah followed with another home run into the left field bleachers. Mogridge tripled and scored on Peck's single. Meusel then contributed a triple, after which Carlson came to the mound and stopped the slaughter.

There were two gone in the ninth when Mogridge weakened and a pass to Ellerbe, a single by Shannon and a home run into the bleachers by Picinich tied the score. Schacht was pitching for Washington in the ninth when Meusel singled to right and Pipp bunted safely. Ellerbe made a mild throw over Snyder's roof and Meusel raced home with the victory.

Curves and Bingles

The Yanks have won eight straight and have taken thirteen out of the last fifteen games. They are on their way.

The only way to stop Ruth is to have Ban Johnson give him a season pass to first base.

The pantomiming of Nick Altrock is the most entertaining stunt in baseball. Nick can make Manager Huggins smile and that's something to do.

Ruth's homer yesterday was the first home run belt made off Johnson since 1919. Walter permitted no circuit smashes last season.

Washington had won six straight up to the morning game. Boston had won six straight before the Yanks took up their last week. Smashing winning streaks is one of the easiest things the Yanks do.

Fred Clarke, who used to boss the Pirates, saw the game. Fred is in the oil business, but when he looked at yesterday's record crowd he said he would give up a lot of oil wells for the Yanks.

Two Sundays ago the Yanks broke the local attendance record with 38,600 at the Cleveland game. Yesterday's population beat that by just 88.

The Yanks play a double header with Washington tomorrow. On Saturday there is to be a double header with the Athletics.

Colonel Ruppert of the Yanks and President Stoneham of the Giants will have a conference on Thursday about the new Yankee lease on the Polo Grounds.

The members of the University of California team, which played Fordham yesterday afternoon, were at the morning game.

The fans revel in games in which there is a lot of hitting and run-getting, especially if the home club is doing these little things.

DODGERS MOVE UP AT GIANTS' EXPENSE

Capture Both Ends of Holiday Bill and Climb to Tie for First Place in Race.

SCORES ARE 5-2 AND 5-1

McGrawites Offer Feeble Resistance to Victorious March of Robbie's Men—30,000 See Games.

The Giants don't like to play baseball on a holiday, so they didn't play any baseball at Ebbets Field yesterday. They played at something or other, but it wasn't baseball. All the baseball that was played was exhibited by the well known Brooklyns. The scores tell a lot about what happened. In the morning the Dodgers breakfasted on the curves of Shuffling Phil Douglas and Jess Winters, winning, 5 to 2. Wilbert Hubbell also took a turn at flinging the leather for the Giants, but the Robins had run out of base hits by the time he was paged. In the afternoon the Robins, alias the Dodgers, alias the Superbas and alias a lot of other things, feasted on Jess Barnes and won, 5 to 1. Phil Douglas subbed for Barnes late in the pastime, but all the damage had been done by the time he climbed atop the hurling hill.

Taken by and large it was truly Decoration Day for the Brooklyn players. They decorated their batting averages to good purpose; to such good purpose, in fact, that the Robins climbed into a tie for first place in the National League jamboree and today are resting comfortably in the shade of their own rubber plants. They are right on the spiked heels of the Chicago Cubs. The race is like milady's shoe, it's so tight. Incidentally, the Giants toppled back into seventh place in the parade.

According to the expert accountants, quite a few of whom attended the festivities, upward of 30,000 folks spent their day of rest in Charley Ebbet's backyard. The rapid calculators figured that some 7,000 had set their alarm clocks to be present in the forenoon, while about 23,000 shoe-horned their way into the enclosure via the regular ticket offices of the speculators in the afternoon. Speaking of speculators recalls the fact that the Brooklyn club is finally being troubled by these pests. Such is the bane of prominence and social distinction. And the club has launched a crusade against them. Officials of the club announced during the afternoon that three men had been arrested for alleged speculating in cards of entree to the lawn fête. But this didn't bother the Giants.

Getting the Skidding Habit.

The Dodgers may now be said to have accumulated a winning streak. They have won their last five games, taking three from the Boston Braves and two from the Giants. And, what is more, the Robins are getting so they can win their games in the regulation nine innings. They seem to have overcome their overtime habits.

The Giants, chaperoned by John McGraw, Johnny Evers and Christy Mathewson, slipped quietly into Brooklyn soon after their coffee and rolls yesterday morning, and continued to slip all day. When they weren't flat-wheeling, they were skidding and when they weren't skidding they were the victims of hoodoo outs, or both. It is difficult to diagnose just what ailed them chiefly.

There wasn't much to the morning game except the Dodgers. They began macing the ball in the second inning, when they accumulated three runs. Burleigh Grimes was doing the hurling for Uncle Wilbert and his pupils, and, while the Giants tickled his curves for a total of eleven hits, they were wasted most of the time. Incidentally, Burleigh was feeling so good that he figured rather prominently as an offensive as well as a defensive asset, for he made three singles in as many times at bat. There is nothing in the constitution and by-laws of the Honorable Order of Friendly Pitchers which requires a pitcher to do any batting; in fact, a pitcher isn't paid for it, but Burleigh is likely to get himself hailed before the committee for straightening out crooked curves if he isn't careful.

More Than Enough.

Three runs would have been enough to win the game, but, of course, the Dodgers didn't know that in the second inning. So they grabbed themselves two more in the fifth. Since the Giants got only one in the third and one in the ninth, the five that Brooklyn got was a-plenty.

Possibly because there was a larger crowd present, the afternoon rumpus seemed to have more life. There were times when a spectator might have gotten a thrill if he had tried real hard. The Brooklyns had enough ambition left from the morning to grab a run before the afternoon game was fairly under way. After Olson had skied to Burns in the first inning, Neis singled to centre and scampered to second on Johnson's one-timer to right. Wheat forced Johnston, but Neis burrowed his way to third. This put the runners in position to try the double steal, and it worked, Neis scoring and Wheat taking second.

In the fifth inning, the Giants tied up the game. Up to the fifth Al Mamaux had held New York hitless. There hadn't been the semblance of a hit and the Giants seemed so puny and tame that it looked as if Mamaux's stars were wasting time throwing the ball in their direction. But, in the fifth, something happened. Benny Kauff started the near riot that led to a Giant run. He singled to right, and skipped all the way to third when Mamaux wild pitched to the grand stand. Sicking drove a long fly out to Myers in centre, and Myers's great throw to the plate held Kauff on third. Kelly singled to left and Kauff scored. Elmer Smith filed to Myers and Barnes forced Kelly at second.

Dodgers Break the Tie.

The Dodgers broke the tie in the sixth round. Wheat was the first man up. The time before Zach had made a hit and he should have been credited with another in the sixth, but the official scorer ruled it an error for Doyle instead. Wheat bounced one at Barnes. The pitcher deflected the ball with his gloved hand and it trickled over second base. Doyle made a stab at it and missed it up, but even had he fielded it cleanly he would not have been able to throw Wheat out at first. He was slowed up by rolling to Doyle. Larry fumbled again and both men were safe. Mitchell hit to Barnes, who threw to Sicking, forcing Wheat at third; the batter was safe at first and Myers took second on the play. Kilduff fanned and Smith tried to trap Myers off second with a quick throw to the midway. The peg was low, however, and wandered into centre field. Myers dashed to third and continued to the plate. Barnes intercepted Kauff's throw home and then relayed the ball to Smith at the dish. The play on Myers was close, but Umpire Klem ruled the runner safe. While Smith was holding the ball and arguing with the umpire, Mitchell went all the way from first to third. Barnes avoided further controversy by striking out Otto Miller.

The game was sewed up in the seventh inning. Mamaux made his second hit of the game, a single over second. He scored when Olson hit the fence in right centre for three bases. Neis walked. Olson scored on Johnston's sacrifice fly to Kauff. Wheat bringing through Doyle. Neis taking third. Myers bounced to Fletcher, whose throw to head off Neis at the plate hit the runner in the back and bounded into the Brooklyn dugout. Wheat romped to third and Myers to second. Mitchell rolled to Kelly, whose throw to Smith trapped Wheat between home and third and he was run down, Sicking making the putout. The other runners each advanced a base on the play, but Kilduff ended the scrimmage by flying out to Burns. By that time however, three runs had been scored and Brooklyn was content to call it a day so far as scoring was concerned. The scores:

POLICE IN EBBETS FIELD.

Work Without Pay While Off Duty to Help Pension Fund.

For the last two days uniformed members of the New York Police Department have been patrolling inside Ebbets Field while the baseball games have been in progress. This is generally regarded as being the opening wedge whereby regular policemen will be on hand to preserve order not only at the local baseball parks but in Madison Square Garden and other big places where sporting events are staged. It is the first time in many years that city police have been in attendance at baseball games prepared to enforce order.

For several years the owners of the local baseball clubs have made determined efforts to have the rule prohibiting city policemen from doing duty inside the parks rescinded, but their efforts were in vain until Sunday, when Charley Ebbets, President of the Brooklyn club, made arrangements whereby policemen could volunteer for the duty. The men do the work during their off time and are not paid by Ebbets. In exchange for their services, however, Ebbets will contribute to the Police Department pension fund.

Charley Ebbets, Jr., explained that the arrangement had been made through Police Headquarters and that many policemen had volunteered to patrol Ebbets Field during their off time. Yesterday they were stationed not only on the field but in the lower and upper stands as well. The result was that, in spite of the capacity crowd that packed the field there was very little disorder.

In sporting circles it is averred that if Ebbets can succeed in getting regular policemen to preserve order in Ebbets Field there is no reason why it should not be done by the owners of the Giants and the Yankees and by the boxing clubs when they begin to blossom under the new law legalizing the sport in this State.

Mr. Ebbets, Jr., further explained that there was no law against their being in the grounds, but that there had been a department rule prohibiting them from doing duty in places where events were staged for private gain.

SPECULATORS ARRESTED.

Detectives Get Five Men with Baseball Tickets for Sale.

Following a tip that counterfeit tickets had been printed with the idea of selling them to fans outside the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon, a squad of Harlem detectives mingled with the crowd which jammed the gates before the game between the Yankees and Senators. No bogus pasteboards were discovered, but the detectives did not have an idle time. They arrested five speculators who were endeavoring to sell box seat reservations. The prisoners will be tried this morning in the Washington Heights Court.

ORIOLES TAKE TWO FROM JERSEY CITY

Skeeters Drop Both Ends of Double Bill to Baltimore by Same Score, 5 to 2.

Baltimore made it a clean sweep in the windup of their series against Jersey City by grabbing both ends of the bill, which featured the holiday in the home of the Skeeters yesterday, giving the Birds the long end of the string by three victories to two. The count in each mixup was the same, Baltimore pulling the morning and afternoon sessions out by the same scores, 5 to 2.

The early seance proved a gift enterprise for the Birds, Jersey City presenting them with the victory in the first two rounds through the inability of pitchers Gill and Carlson to find the rubber. Three runs were forced over to the credit of Baltimore in these rounds without the aid of a single hit.

Gill started the merry-go-round at the get-away by sending four men to first on passes following Maisel's hit, the latter being nailed at the plate on Bentley's hit to McCann. Two runs were tacked on the Baltimore slate in the second. Gill walked the first pair to face him and then retired in favor of Carlson. The latter got along well to the start, but with two out and the bases jammed, Carlson handed a free trip to Holden, forcing Lewry home with the third tally, which proved just enough to cop the money.

Carlson settled down after this period and pitched good ball in seven of the eight rounds. In the fifth, however, the Birds pounded his twisters for three safe raps and two extra tallies.

Ogden was on deck for the visitors and worked smoothly, keeping the Skeeters' ten hits foo scattered to be effective, and they were forced to retire with a run each in the fourth and fifth periods.

In the concluding part of the series Ferguson, for Jersey City, and Knelsch, for Baltimore, fought through a spirited argument on the mound. With honors resting with the Baltimorean, who held the home batsmen to seven bingles, four of these being strung together in the third for the Skeeters' two tallies, while Baltimore solved the local runner's mystery for a collection of seven drives.

With the game deadlocked in the lucky seventh, two out and Lefler on first base, Kneisch won his own victory by hammering the ball to deep right centre for three bases.

Not content with a one-run lead, however, the Birds made success doubly sure in the curtain act by hanging up two more counts on Holden, scratch hits by Boley and Lefler and a fielder's choice by Kneisch.

PIRATES GET EVEN BREAK.

Lose Morning Game to Cards, 5 to 4, but Turn Tables in Afternoon, 7 to 4.

PITTSBURGH, May 31.—St Louis and Pittsburgh divided honors today, the visitors winning the morning game by a score of 5 to 4 and losing the afternoon contest 7 to 4. Ponder was hit hard in the morning game, and, when Pittsburgh rallied in the latter part, Jacobs relieved Sherdel and stopped the scoring four runs.

In the afternoon contest, Hamilton was replaced by Cooper in the fourth inning, with the score a tie. In the eighth, Doak became unsteady, passing a man and hitting a batter. This was followed by three singles and a double, scoring four runs.

35,000 RACEGOERS JAM BELMONT PARK

Attendance Records Smashed by Throng Which Overflows Stands and Fills Lawn.

LION D'OR WINS TOBOGGAN

TRYSTER LEADS JUVENILES

Touch Me Not's Erratic Running Gives Whitney's Two-Year-Old Victory in $7,000 Event.

Favored by the ideal weather and an excellent program of racing which had been provided for the holiday, a crowd of 35,000 persons stormed Belmont Park yesterday and smashed all records for attendance at that immense Long Island course. Jammed into every bit of available space from the edge of the lawn to the roof of the long steel stands, this vast throng saw Harry Payne Whitney's two-year-old colt Tryster capture the $7,000 Juvenile at five furlongs over the straight course, and a few moments later saw T. J. Healy's Lion d'Or slip through to a victory in the Toboggan, a six furlong dash through the straight course for more mature horses.

It just so happened that both of these features on the card provided thrilling contests in which the finishes were so close that not half of those who looked on could tell the winner until the numbers were posted. Aside from these the racing was generally up to the standard for a holiday bill, and the bright, warm day made it a great outing for the gathering.

The size of the crowd not only set a record, but is was a testimonial to the increased popularity of racing. It had been anticipated that the attendance would be large, even record breaking, and preparations were made in advance to handle the crowd, but the plans did not anticipate quite so many spectators as finally found their way into the inclosure.

The Lawn a Sea of Straw Hats.

The very size of the crowd made it inconvenient for one to get to another part of the stands or the clubhouse. A dozen rows of extra seats had been placed on the lawn in front of the clubhouse, but so dense did the crowd become there that it swarmed over in front of the seats and seat holders were obliged to stand up to see the races. In the grand stand the crowd extended without a break from top to bottom, and out on the lawn there appeared to be just a waving sea of straw hats against a black background, so closely packed that it seemed there was not room for one more. With the usual good nature of holiday crowds, there was no jamming and every one accepted the situation as it was.

It took an hour to empty Belmont Park after the last race. Automobiles were lined up for a mile or two outside the gates and the jam of traffic extended from the railroad crossing a mile away to the very entrance to the course. Trains were likewise crowded.

While the Juvenile was the richer stake, the Toboggan provided the more thrilling finish inasmuch as it was a matter of a head among three horses at the wire. Lion d'Or just got his nose over in front of J. K. L. Ross's Motor Cop, while J. E. Widener's Naturalist was third, so close to the winner that one had to be directly at the finish to determine which had won. There have been some good finishes in the big classic, but the one yesterday, in the opinion of some veterans of the sport, was the closest and best in the history of the race. The three horses in front in the field of seven fought it out all the way through the final sixteenth of a mile, with the winner gradually gaining until he got the verdict.

Lion d'Or Pays 10 to 1.

The victory of Lion d'Or was a surprise for he had gone to the post a 10 to 1 shot. But he was only one of the two longs shots to go over during the day, this number being the usual fare at Belmont Park during the present meeting. As for the favorites, they fared badly, only two of them living up to expectations and both of those at odds on.

Lion d'Or ran a very much improved race over his last effort to beat such a field of high-class sprinters as opposed him yesterday, and was aided considerably by his light impost of 107 pounds against the 122 carried by Motor Cop and the 126 which was added to Naturalist. The disappointment of the race was the failure of P. A. Clark's Dunboyne, winner of the Paumonok Handicap, and the favorite for the Toboggan, to finish among the first three. He was fifth in the finish and badly beaten.

The Toboggan was a very open race. Though Dunboyne was made the favorite, 9 to 5, there was Motor Cop, with a world of speed and ability to carry weight and known to be in fine shape. There was also an element of uncertainty in the presence of Naturalist, a gelded son of Rabelais, which, if he was ready, was certain to be dangerous. Naturalist is so unruly in training that even his trainer, Thomas Welsh, had no idea what he would do. As it turned out Naturalist ran an excellent race for his initial effort and is no doubt ready for another brilliant campaign.

Motor Cop Has Early Lead.

Despite his impost Motor Cop had all the early speed of the race. He rushed away from a good start into a lead of a length, with Dunboyne second and Audacious third. He held the lead right to the head of the stretch, but by this time Naturalist had got under way and, moving up gradually, he came up to the leader's withers. For a sixteenth of a mile it appeared to be a contest between these two topweighted sprinters. But Lion d'Or, which had been kept in quick to leave the barrier, had been moving up through the field, partly obscured by the dust, and suddenly he was seen to come alongside of the leaders.

Sande, on Motor Cop, let his mount do his best under a hand ride until he saw that it was a real battle and that Lion d'Or was going to hang on to the finish. Then he applied his lash. Motor Cop responded gamely and did all he could, but the lighter weighted racer had one good effort left and it sent him to the front in the last few jumps of the race. Meantime Naturalist had been fighting it out, with a chance that he might get his nose over to win the race at any second, but Motor Cop outlasted him right to the end, though the heads of the three horses were almost aligned as they went over the line.

Dunboyne showed fine speed for half the distance, but when the pace got hot he began to drop back and ceased to be a contender. He showed none of the speed which made him such an easy winner of the Paumonok, though he certainly was in fine fettle and looked more like a real speedy horse than on that occasion. Audacious, another which had been expected to show fine speed, found the company too fast for him and, tiring badly in the stretch, dropped out of the race and was last, four lengths back of Old Rosebud, which found that his aged legs were no match for the speed he encountered.

Touch Me Not Is Clumsy.

The Juvenile, which was won last year by Bonnie Mary, had only five starters, and from the first appeared to be a race between Tryster and the Greentree Stable's Touch Me Not, if the latter would show improvement in his manners at the barrier. It was probably fortunate for Tryster that Touch Me Not had not thoroughly learned how to race and consequently undertook to run wild in the early part of the race, for had he run true and straight he would undoubtedly have been an easy winner. As it was Tryster won by a length and a half after Touch Me Not had made a wide swerve which cost him at least three lengths.

Tryster appeared to be a fine colt and one which will rank high among the juveniles this season. He ran with fine courage and never swerved, though he had to be ridden out to stall off his challenger. At the break Tryster started straight down the track and Touch Me Not also broke quickly to go at once to the front. But Touch Me Not had not gone a sixteenth of a mile when suddenly he turned almost at right angles, dashed for the outside rail and nearly threw Jockey Kummer out of the saddle. Once on the rail he was satisfied to run straight and do his best and Kummer moved up with him. From last he got up to overtake all but the winner at the sixteenth pole and from there to the finish he was gaining steadily. Tryster had had too great an advantage for the other one to overcome. Sedgefield was third, while Wireless and Bloomington were badly outrun.

GENERAL HAIG WINS.

Drastic Is Only Other Starter in Louisville's Closing Feature.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 31.—The most successful meeting ever held at Churchill Downs came to a close here this afternoon with the Decoration Day Handicap the feature of the card. Unfortunately the day had been marred by a heavy downpour and the track was heavy with mud, so the feature event drew only two starters. General Haig, which was very much at home in the going, led all the way over the mile and a furlong and defeated Drastic by six lengths pulled up. The summaries:

FIRST RACE—For three-year-olds and upward; selling; furlongs. Maresmus 112 (Mooney), $30.20, $11.40, $6.10, first; Mellon 108 (Carmody), $4.20, $2.80, second; Byrne 112 (Wilds), $7.20, third. Time—1:39. Twinkwis, Gold Stone, Mugwan, Harvey Baker, Pearl of Hoffaldik, Thorn Bloom, Madras Gingham, Free State, Squester and Pizzaro also ran.

SECOND RACE—For two-year-old maidens; five and a half furlongs. Enard 116 (Black), $11.40, $4.80, $6.30, first; Westside 116 (Lamaford), $6.30, $5.60, second; Sir Thomas Kean 116 (Milk), $5.80, third. Time—1:04 3-5. Jetsam, Harold R. and Scotty also ran.

THIRD RACE—Handicap; for three-year-olds and upward; six furlongs. J. Pennybaker 108 (Robinson), $10.40, $4.70, $3.20, first; Mile. Dazie 99 (Wilson), $5.20, $3.80, second; Lucky Up 105 (Black), $3.50, third. Time—1:14.

FOURTH RACE—For two-year-old maidens; four and a half furlongs. Pegas Pair 116 (Lyke), $3.60, $3.20, $2.40, first; Patpaste 116 (Wright), $6.70, $4.30, second; Miss Baker 116 (O'Brien), $2.60, third. Time—0:56. The Virginian, H. E. Colemans, Pinecrest and Pleto also ran.

FIFTH RACE—Decoration Day Handicap; for three-year-olds and upward; one mile and an eighth. General Haig 115 (Mink), $2.80, first; Drastic 111 (Robinson), second. Only (Wright), $26.70, $4.30, second; Miss maker 116 (O'Brien), $2.60, third. Time—0:56. The Virginian, H. E. Colemans, Pinecrest and Pleto also ran.

FIFTH RACE—Decoration Day Handicap; for three-year-olds and upward; one mile and an eighth. General Haig 115 (Mink), $2.80, first; Drastic 111 (Robinson), second. Only (Wright), $26.70, $4.30, second; Miss maker 116 (O'Brien), $2.60, third. Time—1:53 4-5. Moscovad, Quite Test and Rena Beller also ran.

SEVENTH RACE—For three-year-olds and upward; one mile and a sixteenth. Frank W. 94 (Wilson), $16.50, $7.20, $5.20, first; St. Benedict (Wilson), $4.40, $3.60, second; Inquiry 92 (McCoy), $3.90, third. Time—1:49 1-5. Ebedrina, Spectator and Lazy Lee also ran.

VISITING OARSMEN CARRY OFF HONORS

Potomacs Win Two and Maltas Three Races in Annual Regatta on Harlem.

COLUMBIA JUNIORS FIRST

The rowing season in New York waters got off to a belated but successful start on the Harlem River yesterday afternoon, when the New York Rowing Association held its annual Memorial Day regatta. Perfect weather, satisfactory water conditions and a holiday brought out a throng of several thousand spectators who lined the course from bridge to bridge and filled the neighboring hothouses. A fairly heavy breeze ruffled the stream, but was more of an aid than a hindrance to the oarsmen in the twelve events that were conducted.

Two mishaps marred the progress of the regatta, but these were not serious enough to interfere greatly with the rowing. One accident spoiled the senior singles event, in which Tom Rooney of the New York A. C. matched his skill and strength against three other rivals for first honors. The Mercury Foot oarsman, however, surprised the crowd by trailing the entire field and fell behind rapidly. In the meantime L. Zoha of the Bohemian Boat Club and H. Heller of the Atlanta Boat Club were fighting it out for first place in a spirited struggle. As the two single scullers drew near the finish line Heller diverged widely from his course and began to force Zoha against the Manhattan bank. The latter, pressed nearer and nearer the Speedway shore, finally ran afoul of a reef near the finish line and wrecked his craft on the rocks. He was thrown into the water, Heller riding ahead to the finish. The judges, however, threw the race out and decided that Zoha and Heller should meet again at their convenience.

The other accident was in the junior single sculls, in which John A. Herber of the Metropolitan Rowing Club slipped his oar as at the start was passing into the water. He was picked up by the referee's boat and the race was resumed later, Harry McClay of the Malta Boat Club of Philadelphia winning by a comfortable margin.

Collegians Race Nip and Tuck.

The feature of the program, the senior eight-oared event, developed into a heart-breaking struggle between the junior Varsity and freshman crews of Columbia University for most of the mile race.

In the last hundred yards the junior Varsity, rowing like a steady, powerful stroke, slowly lengthened its lead, while the freshmen made frantic efforts to close up the open water. Franklin Brodhl, the former Union Boat Club oarsman, who was stroking the cubs, called for a spurt when the finish line was looming into sight, but even the eleventh-hour effort was not great enough to carry the freshman shell abreast. The juniors swept across the line a half length in the van, with the freshmen second and the Vikings more than eight boat lengths further down the course.

In most of the other races the New York enthusiasts had little to cheer about. There were only two visiting groups present—the Malta Boat Club of Philadelphia and the Potomac Boat Club of Washington, D. C.—but they had more than a prominent share of the victories. The Capital City representatives entered only two races, but won both of them, and the Maltas, who were more ambitious, enlisted in four events, three of which were triumphs. It was the first time in many years that outside crews have rowed in the Memorial Day regatta.

Broken Oar Mars Race.

The Malta Club's only downfall came in the senior four-oared barge race, which had only one other entry, the Woodcliff Boat Club of New York. When not more than 200 or 300 feet from the starting line, No. 2 of the Philadelphia crew broke his oar. Despite strenuous efforts by Referee Richard Sturcke to halt the flying Woodcliff oarsmen, the latter swept on up the river while their only opponent drifted helplessly several hundred yards further down. The race was declared a victory for the New Yorkers, no time, however, being taken.

Perhaps the most impressive race of the afternoon was the event for high school eights. It brought together the New Rochelle High School and the Central High School of Philadelphia, two schoolboy crews which have been cutting a swath in their respective regions for several years. The New Yorkers won by three lengths and crossed the finish line with the smoothness and ease of a veteran college combination. The time of the schoolboy oarsmen was 6:23 1-5, only one full second below the mark set by the Columbia junior Varsity in the preceding event.

The summaries:

Junior Double Sculls—Won by Potomac B. C., Washington, D. C. (R. G. Bonesteel and A. J. Hutterly); Active B. C. (Joseph Glendenning and William Wilson) second. Union Boat Club of New York finished second, but was disqualified for rowing out of course. Time—5:31 2-5.

Junior Single Sculls—Won by Harry McClay, Jr., Malta B. C., Philadelphia; W. L. Schwab, Lone Star B. C., second; Thomas Malloy, Nassau B. C., third. Time—6:17 3-5.

Senior Single Sculls (quarter-mile dash)—Won by Thomas J. Hooney, New York A. C.; Frank B. Shay, Nonpareil B. C., second. Time—1:05 1-5.

YALE IS DEFEATED BY PENNSYLVANIA

Quakers Hit Two Bulldog Pitchers Hard and Win Game by Score of 8 to 3.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—Penn routed Yale at Franklin Field today, 8 to 3. The Red and Blue batters knocked Kelly out of the box in one and one-third innings and then proceeded to hammer Coxe, his successor, to all corners of the lot.

Penn started the scoring in the first inning. McNichol singled, and moved to second on Shriver's sacrifice. Aldrich booted Sweeney's roller and McNichol scored. Straus walked and Yates singled. Sweeney was caught between the bases, but Straus scored on a wild pitch.

Three Red and Blue tallies were scored in the second. With one down, Myers walked. Huntsinger doubled, and so did McNichol, scoring Myers and Huntsinger. This was enough for Pitcher Kelly of Yale, and Coxe took his place. McNichol moved to third on Coxe's error. Shriver walked and stole. On a pretty squeeze play, McNichol scored. Shriver also attempted to get in but was tagged out at home.

The home-run smashes of Myers and Warwick produced the final Penn runs, in the fourth and fifth innings.

Until the eighth inning Yale was shut out. Then Aldrich singled and moved to second on Peters's out on Coxe's grounder. Shriver, Penn's short stop, made his third poor throw of the game and the ball rolled past Yates, Aldrich scoring and Coxe taking second. Crane was out, but Sawyer singled, scoring Coxe. Faherty's single to the plate, followed by an out and Holmes's single, which went through Bud Myers's legs, produced the third and final Yale tally.

WILLIAMS BEATS AMHERST.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., May 31.—Williams shook the jinx which has followed it all season and downed Amherst, 11 to 6, in the annual Memorial Day diamond battle between the ancient rivals here today. Hard hitting by Captain Boynton and Nichols sent enough runs scampering home to snatch the victory, which was the first registered by the Purple this Spring.

Blair, who started the game in the box for the visitors, tired in the sixth in favor of Clark, who was treated with a lively bombardment which batted Williams four more runs in the eighth. With two men on and none out in the ninth, Burrows replaced Holmes on the hill for the Purple. Maynard, the first opposing hitter to face the new hurler, banged out a three-bagger scoring two men, but Burrows then braced and retired the side on two strikeouts and an easy assist.

Williams put up by far its best game of the season, fielding fast and pounding the ball opportunely. Boynton's clouting was a feature.

HARVARD CRUSHES BROWN.

Crimson Drives Two Twirlers from Mound in 9 to 1 Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 31.—Harvard's sluggers landed on the Brown twirlers and in the presence of 4,000 fans handed the Brunonia a 9 to 1 defeat today. It took the Crimson batsmen just two innings to chase Ralph Knight, star moundsman for the local team, to the timber. During his brief session the visitors garnered six hits, including a three-bagger and a double. Brisk, left-hander, was the next victim of the Cambridge batters, and they showed him as little mercy as they had Knight. Brisk stayed five innings and was good for four hits and two runs.

Fuller, who pitched great ball at Cambridge last Saturday, failed to fool Harvard on his second appearance. On the other hand, Goode, who shot them over for the Crimson, was working steadily and surely. In the seventh inning Brown made three hits in a row, including a home run by Dennis, and only ends, but side of that session, was Goode in trouble. In the fourth inning Brown bunched two hits and with a pass had three men on bases. It looked stormy for a few moments, but a lightning double play started by Conlon and completed by Emmons and Jones nipped the rally in the bud.

HAGGAMAN VICTOR IN HIKE TO ISLAND

Charles Haggaman, a young Pastime A. C. walker, realized his ambition yesterday when he carried off premier prize in the ninth annual City Hall-to-Coney Island handicap walking race conducted under the auspices of the Walkers' Club of America, over a course conservatively estimated at ten and one-quarter miles. Haggaman, who is in his first year of walking competition, showed a style and pace that would have done credit to a competitor of greater experience. He started with a handicap allowance of sixteen minutes, and after a bitter struggle over the greater part of the journey with Joseph Gerschanken, Pennant A. C., the Brazilian Cross wearer emerged victorious by the scant margin of fifteen yards.

Haggaman's actual time was 1:28:50. Gerschanken, in second position, was clocked in 1:42:35. More than 200 yards back of Gerschanken came M. Greenberg, Pastime A. C., leading a straggling field of weary pedestrians.

Field of 85 Starters.

A field of eighty-five pedestrians got away with varying handicap marks at the starting line in front of City Hall, and all but one of this number completed the distance within the time limit of two and one-half hours. From the time they left City Hall and on their hike over the South Driveway of Brooklyn Bridge, up Washington and Fulton Streets, through Flatbush Avenue to and around Prospect Park to Ocean Parkway and then on down the cycle path in Surf Avenue, Coney Island, the athletes encountered ideal footing conditions, while a slight breeze tempered the sun's rays just enough to prevent suffering from heat.

William Plant of the Morningside A. C., national outdoor walking champion and a potential point winner for Uncle Sam in the heel-and-toe events in the Olympic games at Antwerp, carried off the fast-time prize and in doing so equaled the course record.

At the finish Plant was holding down eleventh position without any visible signs of distress after his hard pace. The title holder crossed the finish line amid a din of cheers, while the camera men clicked merrily on their film machines. Plant's actual time was 1:26:50, equaling the course record set by Wm J. Kolker, New York A. C. pedestrian in the 1917 race. Eddie Renz, New York A. C., who won the fast-time prize last year, and who only recently returned from Europe, was among the first to congratulate Plant. Renz trailed home in twentieth position in 1:39:45.

Weeks Leads "Old Boys."

Conspicuous in the motley gathering of prize-seekers at the start, were a number of "old boys," walkers past the two-score mark in life, who make this race an annual test of endurance and a practical demonstration of the benefits of athletic activities. The Walkers' Club officials award prizes to the old-timers who finish furthest up in the order of finish. A. D. Weeks, of the Hollywood Inn, Long Island, a be-whiskered veteran admitting to fifty-two years, showed the way to the "old boys," finishing fourth from the 20-minute mark, in 1:44:46 actual time. In eighth position came D. Dunne, another "old boy" who was closely followed by D. Lynch, another veteran.

Haggaman, as a novice, really won two prizes, but under the rules of the race a competitor is not permitted to accept a double prize. Haggaman selected the victor's emblem, and the first novice prize went to E. Forslund, Long Island City Athletics, who finished sixth.

Plant, for recording the fastest time, scored a leg on the Private Herman Kanowitz Memorial Trophy, donated for annual competition by the Morningside A. C., with which club Kanowitz was affiliated before he made the supreme sacrifice in France. Kanowitz, formerly a member of the Seventy-first Regiment, was killed in action about Chateau-Thierry as a member of the 165th Infantry.

Pos.	Name and Club.	Hdcp.	Actual Time.
1—	C. Haggaman, Pastime A. C.	16:00	1:28:50
2—	J. Gerschanek, Pennant A. C.	20:00	1:42:35
3—	M. Greenberg, Pastime A. C.	0:00	1:44:46
6—	E. Forslund, L.

CHEVROLET WINNER OF 500-MILE GRIND

DE PALMA FINISHES FIFTH

Favorite's Car Bursts Into Flames Twice, but He Continues to End —Many Spills, but No Deaths.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 31.—In the most spectacular finish ever witnessed on the Indianapolis Speedway, Gaston Chevrolet, driving a car of American design, rode to victory in the eighth renewal of the 500-mile automobile race today before a record-breaking crowd of 125,000 persons.

Chevrolet's time was 5:40:16.84, an average of 88.16 miles an hour, the second best time in the history of the event.

In addition to winning the $20,000 first prize, Chevrolet also won approximately $5,500 more in lap prize competitions and cash prizes offered by accessory firms.

Rene Thomas thundered across the finish in second place, having covered the distance in 5:43:02.29. His average was 87.45 miles an hour. Tommy Milton pulled up in third place and Jimmy Murphy, winner of the Los Angeles Speedway race, finished fourth.

De Palma's Car Takes Fire.

All of the thrills came in the last thirty miles of the race, when Ralph De Palma, the favorite, with a lead of ten miles to his credit, seemed certain of winning. But with victory within grasp, De Palma's car burst into flames on the north turn of the two and a half mile course. A few minutes later the car driven by Joe Boyer, who led during the first 350 miles, skidded, overturned, and crashed into a brick retaining wall within a few feet of the spot where De Palma's car caught fire. Neither Boyer nor his mechanician was seriously injured.

The accident which snatched victory from De Palma was tragic. The noted Italian was racing at breakneck speed when a sheet of flame licked its way to his gasoline tank. While his mechanician heroically fought the flames De Palma, broken-hearted over his misfortune, ran to the pits, a mile away, for a fresh supply of gasoline, staggering back under the weight of the heavy cans.

Undaunted, De Palma resumed the grind, but after going another mile his car was wrapped in flames for the second time. With the aid of his mechanician De Palma pluckily extinguished them and managed to finish the race in fifth place. He was given a tremendous ovation when he thundered across the finish line.

Misfortune Trails De Palma.

Misfortune trailed De Palma from the start of the race. He had the favored position at the pole, but the bomb of the starter caught him unawares, and he was among the last to get away. Then, on the very first lap, he was driven into the pits with a flat tire.

Boyer jumped into the lead and held it for 220 miles, closely pursued by Jean Chassagne, Gaston Chevrolet and Rene Thomas. When half of the race was over, Boyer made his first stop at the pits and De Palma shot into the lead, which he maintained until his car caught fire.

There were half a dozen accidents, but the drivers and their aids miraculously escaped death. While speeding around the treacherous north turn, Arthur Klein crashed into the side wall, damaging his car so badly that it was withdrawn. Louis Chevrolet, designer of the car which his brother piloted to victory, also was in a smash-up. His car skidded off the course when a steering connection broke. Chevrolet's back was injured in the mishap.

Roscoe Sarles had the misfortune to smash up two cars. He wrecked his own entry as a result of skidding off the track, and while driving as relief for Dennie Hill a steering knuckle broke and he crashed for the second time.

Chevrolet Always Near Front.

Chevrolet drove a consistent race from the start and never was below fourth place. Most of the time he was either in second or third. He trailed De Palma from the 350-mile point and took the lead when De Palma had to stop.

Four winners of former races on the Speedway tried to repeat. Thomas and De Palma, 1914 and 1915 winners, respectively, came in within the money. Jules Goux, who won in 1913, was forced out after completing 345 miles. Howard Wilcox, last year's winner, had engine trouble and quit after completing 185 miles.

Of the twenty-three cars starting the grind only eleven finished. The others were forced out by engine trouble or accidents.

Merchants of Indianapolis donated $30,000 to be distributed as added money, $100 to the winner of each of the $200 laps. Of this money Boyer won $9,800, De Palma $5,800, Gaston Chevrolet $1,500, Rene Thomas $700, and Art Klein and Jean Chassagne $100 each.

Driver.	Time.	Miles Per H'r.	Prize.
Gaston Chevrolet	5:40:16.14	88.16	$20,000
Rene Thomas	5:43:02.29	87.45	10,000
Jewelry Milton	6:46:46.56	86.65	5,000
Jimmy Murphy	5:03:51.37	85.10	3,500
Eddie Hearne	6:14:16.16	80.25	2,500
Jean Chassagne	6:15:16.19	79.94	2,000

PLAINFIELD, N. J., May 31.—Walter Grenda of the Bayview Wheelman, Newark, with 5 minutes handicap, was the winner of the twenty-five mile road race held here today under the auspices of the Queen City Wheelmen. He covered the distance in 1:11:01 2-5.

George Blythe of this city, with three minutes' handicap, finished second. Eugene Aicklein of the New England Wheelmen of New York won the time prize in 1:07:16 from scratch. W. S. Simons of this city was second.

To Travel from Toronto To New York in a Canoe

TORONTO, May 31.—A canoe trip from Toronto to New York, a distance of approximately 633 miles, lies before Preston W. Bryant when he paddles out of Toronto tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock, carrying a letter of introduction and greeting from Mayor Church to Mayor Hylan. Bryant's trip is planned as follows: Lake Ontario, Toronto to Port Dalhousie, 80 miles; Welland Canal, Port Dalhousie to Port Colborne, 27 miles; Lake Erie, Port Colborne to Buffalo, 30 miles; Niagara River, Buffalo to Tonawanda, 12 miles; Erie Canal, Tonawanda to Waterford, 341 miles; Hudson River, Waterford to New York, 153 miles.

SPENCER'S SPURT WINS GRAND PRIZE

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., May 31.—Arthur Spencer, the speedy Toronto cyclist, won the grand prize of Newark, a $2,000 purse race at the Velodrome here this afternoon, defeating Eddie Madden of six-day fame, and Orlando Piani, the champion of Italy. The biggest surprise came, though, when Frank Kramer was shut out on his semi-final of this big race by Piani. The fans got another shock when Champion Ray Eaton and Alf Goullet were beaten in a semi-final by Madden. Eaton and Kramer, however, were looked upon to be finalists in the big race, but both met defeat.

Spencer rode a brilliant race in beating Madden and Piani. Madden made his bid to win a lap and one-half from home. He jumped to the front and pedaled with all the speed at his command. It looked as if he would win the race, as he led Spencer and Piani coming down the home stretch, but Spencer had a little in reserve and just nipped him at the tape with Piani a good third.

Alf Goullet, riding from scratch, won the two-mile handicap after a hard fight with Reggie McNamara. Thomas was third and John Bedell fourth. Goullet and McNamara fought it out all the way on the final lap with Goullet winning.

TITLE FOR STATEN ISLAND.

Cricket Team Downs Bensonhurst in Association Championship.

Amassing the highest cricket score of the season thus far, the eleven of the Staten Island Cricket and Tennis Club scored a one-sided victory over Bensonhurst by 102 runs in the association championship game at Livington, S. I., yesterday. The home team put together 355 runs for the loss of eight wickets, and then declared the innings closed. Bensonhurst then batted twice, being dismissed the first time for 46 and the second time for 91. The batting of R. St. C. Jones, formerly of the Halifax Wanderers, was the outstanding feature of the match. Jones scored a century and placed 108 to his credit before he was dismissed.

Six other Staten Island batsmen contributed double figures, including B. Turville, 62; Capt. Suit, 58; H. Standfast, 49; W. M. Rayburn, 39; N. S. Hart, 30; C. Bowring, 17, and C. A. Dewhurst, 10. On the Bensonhurst side A. Evelyn scored 15 and H. J. Ross 12 in the first innings. H. L. Woodroffe, 32; J. Evelyn, 18; A. Lovell, 12, and Ross, 18, were the doubles in the second innings. The most effective bowling was that of Rayburn, who took five wickets for 23 runs. Dewhurst captured four for 22.

YACHTING SEASON STARTS ON SOUND

MISTRAL LEADS 40-FOOTERS

The yacht racing season of 1920 on Long Island Sound opened yesterday with a surprisingly large number of starters in the initial regatta, that of the Harlem Yacht Club. Forty-six yachts and two sailing canoes contended, and conditions could not have been better as regards both wind and weather.

Starting with a light southerly breeze, it kept freshening and soon had veered to the southwestward, from which point it continued to come fresher and fresher as the day wore on.

The largest craft to compete were four of the N.Y.Y.C. Forties, the Mistral being the winner, while Addison Hanan's Nahma won among the P class sloops and the Oriole was the winner in the class of N.Y.Y.C. Thirties.

The new Victory class, which promises to furnish some of the most interesting and spirited racing of the season, made its first appearance with eleven starters and W. K. Appleton's Carry On was first to finish, but was protested by Paul Hammond, who sailed the Spinster.

There were five starters in two divisions of the handicap class, the Nutmeg and the Aratheusa being the respective winners, while the Algol won from the Allure in the Schoonerette class; the Mingo in Class U., formerly known as Sonders; the Mahaska the North Star and the Chico were the winners, respectively, in the Manhasset Bay, one design, Star and Canoe Club classes, while Leo Preidle, had a practical sail-over in the canoe class when H. A. Coe's Pal O' Mine capsized.

Ideal Racing Conditions.

The courses laid for the yachts, together with the prevailing breeze, gave them a run on the first leg, a beat to windward on the second and a reach home on the third legs of their respective triangles.

The larger craft covered an eleven mile course, while the intermediate classes negotiated a nine mile course, and the little fellows had to go but six miles.

The Regatta Committee, including C. Higbie Young, Chairman; Irving Clever, Douglas Clawson, William Hyde, and George Cornwick, conducted the races without a hitch from on board the power yacht Mary B II.

The course for the larger craft, was from the starting line between the committee boat and the black and red spar buoy five-eighths of a mile north-east from Execution Light, thence to and around the Parsonage Point and Week's Point buoys and back to the committee boat.

The intermediate classes rounded Scotch Caps and the Mott and Prospect Point buoys, while the little fellows had the Delancy Point buoy and bell off Prospect Point as their turning point.

Many See Regatta.

A fair gallery of power boats was on hand, with numerous yachting sharps being aboard the pleasure fleet who hoped to enjoy the double privilege of seeing the first regatta of the season and possibly the Shamrock IV. on her initial trial spin, but they were disappointed, for the green challenger did not put in an appearance.

The committee of the Harlem Yacht Club, as well as the other yachtsmen present, were more than agreeably surprised at the showing made and believe it presages a season of unusual and unexpected activity as regards the number of yachts that may race on Long Island Sound this Summer.

SNAPPER FIRST OF ARROWS.

GREENWICH, Conn., May 31.—In a light breeze, blowing from the southeast, the first races of the season among Arrow Class and Indian Harbor one-design yachts was held today over the club's five-mile course. In the Arrow Class the Snapper, owned by Frank Page, was winner, crossing the finish line 1 minute and 40 seconds ahead of Ralph E. Staven's Hawk. Only two yachts sailed in the Indian Harbor one-design event. John W. Lewis's Hiuheehee, sailed by John W. Lewis, Jr., was 2 minutes in the lead of H. H. Sturgis's June Bug.

The summary:

Yacht Club Opens Its Season.

The Little Neck Bay Yacht Club formally went into commission yesterday with the usual ceremonies. The club has added several sailing and power yachts to the fleet and intends to go into the racing features this season. Included among the membership of the Little Neck Club are a number of the theatrical and professional colony of Bayside.

Bayside Male Golfers Bow Before Mrs. Gavin's Skill

If Mrs. William A. Gavin continues to beat the men golfers in this neighborhood she may go the limit and very rightly apply for entrance into some championship open tournament. Several days ago the former metropolitan women's champion, defeated Dr. A. T. Haight on the Belleclaire Golf and Country Club course, and the feat was hailed as phenomenal. Yesterday she did considerably more. Having entered the men's three-day Memorial Day tourney at the Bayside club, she proceeded to eliminate her rivals one by one, until yesterday afternoon, when she actually won the final round of the event from A. C. Gregson by 5 and 2. Her medal score for the round was 84. Mrs. Gavin played all even with Mr. Gregson without thought of a handicap allowance, and her victory was in Class A, and not in any low division.

SHAMROCK'S TRIAL TO BE HELD TODAY

Challenger for America's Cup Will Be Tested on Sound—23-Meter Yacht Sighted.

Shamrock IV., challenger for the America's Cup, did not get her trial spin yesterday. All hands had a day off on Sunday, and the workmen at Robert Jacob's yard at City Island, where she is being made ready, were observing the holiday in consequence of which the crew, unassisted, could not complete the work to be done.

It was a busy day for the crew and afterguard, however, and by this morning it is expected that she will be in readiness to spread her vast area of canvas and show the anxious natives of City Island, as well as many others, what she can do, or at least, what she looks like under sail.

Every detail in connection with her rigging was carefully inspected by Mr. Nicholson, her designer, who, in a bosun's chair, even ascended to above the spreaders and spent considerable time on the "Fiddle Bridge," something new on yachts and so named by her designer. There are the smaller spreaders, about half way between the deck and the regular spreaders.

23-Meter Boat Sighted.

The entire Shamrock IV. contingent was made happy yesterday upon receipt of news that on the evening of May 29 the 23-meter Shamrock had been sighted in latitude and longitude which Claude Hickman, navigator of the challenger, plotted off on his charts and found to be between 400 and 500 miles from this port. It is expected that she may arrive before June 4, which was the date mentioned by Colonel Neill, who, at that time, said she would be sailing marvelously if she arrived before then.

The Shamrock's houseboat, Killarney, was gaily dressed in international code colors with the Royal Ulster Yacht Club bargee half staffed at the stern, the rear commodore's house flag atop her stumpy mast and the Stars and Stripes flying at the stern.

Col. Neill, William P. Burton, the amateur skipper; Claude Hickman and Charles E. Nicholson, the daring designer, all were busy aiding in the final preparations of the big and strange-looking sloop. Captain Turner, her professional skipper, was here, there and everywhere directing the willing crew.

"Instead of Shamrock IV., she should be named the X.," remarked Mr. Hickman. "She is the unknown quantity," he added, and Designer Nicholson, who stood close by, smiled and nodded assent to the remark.

Sails Stowed Aboard.

Sails were removed from the lockers and lofts, where they have been stowed ashore, carried on deck and carefully inspected, one by one, after which they were stowed below decks on the chance longer to be in readiness for her initial trial this afternoon.

Will she carry her great area of sail? That appears to be the big question. The only answer possible at this time is that she did, in some fairly heavy weather off the British coast before she set sail for this country, and did it without any apparently dangerous strain.

"After the first race on July 15 has been under way for about half an hour, and not until then, will we know with any degree of accuracy how the chosen defender and the challenger compare," said the British designer, adding with a

BAYSIDE, L. I., May 31.—Only nine yachts sailed in the Memorial Day regatta of the Bayside Yacht Club yesterday, the rest of the fleet taking part in the open race of the Harlem Yacht Club. E. Inslee, the old lower bay sailor, proved that his Taurus is still a speedy craft by taking the Star Class. Among the Bees, the winner was Rounder, the property of E. Smith.

NEW YORK LOSES ON CREASE

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—Playing against the eleven of the Germantown Cricket Club on the grounds of the latter at Manheim today, the all-New York team, which won the Halifax Cup last year, met defeat by a margin of 30 runs on totals of 97 to 127. The New Yorkers were first at bat and E. G. Hull, 33, and L. R. Miller, 26, excelled with the willow. C. Meyer was not out with 13 to his credit and F. C. Taylor contributed 11. The top score for Germantown came from the bat of M. A. Samuels, first man up, who put together 37 before he was disposed of. W. Clothier, with 28, was the next highest, and E. M. Mann came next with 21.

KUMAGAE CONQUERS HUNTER IN TENNIS

Five of the tennis stars entered in the Eastern New York championship at the Amackassin Club, Yonkers, yesterday reached out into the round before the semi-finals, leaving only three brackets still to be filled in the singles. The leaders of the field today are Ichiya Kumagae, holder of the Amackassin challenge cup; Leonard Beekman, the strongest of the home representatives; Alex Iler, Elliott H. Binzen and R. S. Stoddart.

Still unbeaten in the earlier rounds are Vincent Richards, Fred C. Anderson, Gerald Emerson and Herbert L. Bowman, among others. The women's singles are scheduled to begin today, with more than thirty entries, and the men's doubles start tomorrow.

There were more upsets to mark the celebration of Memorial Day on the Yonkers courts. Carl Jolliffe staged the first by defeating Ingo Hartmann in straight sets and by decisive scores, and later young Gerald Emerson took the measure of the veteran, Herbert H. Manchester, in a hard three-set match. There was some surprise also at the defeat of William M. Fischer by Alex Iler, the former having indicated unusual strength in his elimination of Frank Anderson on the previous day. Allen Behr gave Elliott Binzen a closer battle than had been looked for, almost pulling out a decision in straight sets, while Stoddart's defeat of Groley added another victim of high rank to the Yale man's growing list.

Hunter Starts Strongly.

The meeting of Kumagae and Francis T. Hunter was the feature of the morning's play, and the latter, who won the Eastern New York title last year, gave the Japanese wizard a great battle for the first set. Trusting entirely to terrific hitting, the playing-through champion literally overwhelmed his rival with speed at the outset, and with a lead of 5—3 on games was once within a single point of the set. Then Kumagae suddenly awoke to a realization of his danger, and began to play unbeatable defensive tennis, absolutely refusing to make errors. He not only got every ball back, but hit hard as well, so that Hunter himself soon saw his control slipping from him.

After a sensational display of brilliant court tactics the little left-hander completed a run of four straight games for the set, 7—5. He never let up for an instant after that, but continued to force the issue, taking no chances of a revival of skill on the part of the dangerous Hunter. The second session, however, was by no means so one-sided as the score of 6—1 would seem to indicate, for the New Rochelle star fought desperately for the points as long as his strength held out. Kumagae was playing super-tennis by this time, and neither speed nor steadiness could have stopped him.

The cup-holder kept up his impressive form in an afternoon match against W. S. Anderson, who had come through by winning over M. T. Ackerland in straight sets. He failed to make much headway against Kumagae's fast driving, and collected only three games in two sets.

Beekman in Form.

Of the rest of the contenders, Leonard Beekman showed the best tennis of the day. The former Princeton Captain has been working on his ground strokes during the last Winter, and his forehand drive has acquired some real speed and accuracy, turning it into an aggressive weapon of attack. He swept through two matches yesterday without the loss of a set, first disposing of Fred Planisani at 6—2, 6—3, and then eliminating Carl Jolliffe with a love-set and a 7—5 win. The latter did not entirely do himself justice after his surprisingly decisive victory over Hartmann, his ground strokes failing to reach the high standard set by Beekman and making it impossible for him to use his strong volleying game to the best advantage.

In his earlier match, however, Jolliffe showed scarcely a weakness, and the most desperate efforts of the steady left-hander failed to account for a total of more than five games in two sets.

Her also had one of his good streaks yesterday, and after his elimination of C. G. French it was not entirely unexpected that he should overcome the steady driving game of W. M. Fischer as well. The winner had his service working beautifully and took every opportunity to hit the ball hard off the ground, with the result that he earned a sufficient percentage of points to offset the errors that necessarily played a part in his game.

Binzen Wins Rubber.

Binzen was erratic against Behr, and the steadiness of the latter accounted for the opening set by the one-sided score of 6—2. It required a long deuce set for the North Side champion to acquire the match, and he was several times perilously close to defeat. Having weathered this crisis, however, he gradually gained control of his best shots, and the rubber made it a Binzen victory at 6—2.

Stoddard's tennis was again of a very high grade, when he took a three-set match from Leon Croley. They divided the first two sets, but in the rubber the Ell star showed unmistakable stroke superiority, as well as better staying qualities, and he won without dropping another game. Binzen's defeat of Manchester was accomplished by reckless hitting, both of the winning sets being close, with the veteran taking one at 6—3 largely on the younger player's errors.

The summary:

THIRD ROUND—W. S. Anderson defeated M. T. Ackerland, 6—3, 6—1; Ichiya Kumagae defeated Francis T. Hunter, 7—5, 6—1; Fred C. Anderson defeated S. G. Kelley, 6—4, 6—2; Leonard Beekman defeated Fred Planisani, 6—2, 6—3; Carl Jolliffe defeated Ingo F. Hartmann, 6—2, 6—3; Alex Iler defeated L. G. French, 6—3, 6—4; Allen Behr defeated George A. Walker, jr., 6—4, 6—0; Elliott H. Binzen defeated George Garbe, 6—1, 6—3; Leon Croley defeated E. E. Reese, 6—2, 6—1; Gerald Emerson defeated Herbert H. Manchester, 7—5, 2—6, 6—4.

FOURTH ROUND—Ichiya Kumagae defeated W. S. Anderson, 6—2, 6—1; Leonard Beekman defeated Carl Jolliffe, 6—2, 6—4; Alex Iler defeated W. M. Fischer, 6—3, 6—4; E. H. Binzen defeated Allen Behr, 6—2, 6—4, 6—2; R. S. Stoddart defeated Leon Croley, 6—3, 4—6, 6—0.

REACH FINAL IN SOCCER.

England and Scotland to Play for International Title.

England and Scotland will be the finalists in the annual international soccer series as a result of the two semi-final matches staged as a double-header by the New York Footballers' Protective Association at Todd Field, Brooklyn, yesterday. Yale Golfers Defeat Harvard.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 31.—The Yale golf team defeated Harvard on the Rhode Island Country Club links here this afternoon, 6 matches to 3. Yale got all three points in the foursome matches and three of the six in the individual play. The Yale freshman team beat the Harvard freshmen 11 to 7.

Dentists to Swap Forceps Into Drivers and Putters

The dentists have decided to combine pulling teeth with pulling tee shots off into the rough. In Boston a Dental Golfers' Association has been formed along similar lines to other trade associations of stationers, newspapermen, real estate operators and jewelers, and they have announced far and wide that their first annual fixture will be played at the Woodland Golf Club, home of Francis Ouimet, on June 9. After this day of practice the Back Bay toothdredgers will feel safe in going up against their colleagues from other cities who will assemble in Boston later for a convention. The second tourney will be held on Aug. 28, and will be open to all members of the United States Dental Golfers' Association who claim to know the difference between their niblicks and their forceps.

AMAN MARVEL GETS HIGH PLACE IN SHOW

Held for the first time at Manhattan Beach, the nineteenth annual show of the Long Island Kennel Club drew many admirers of thoroughbred dogs to Coney Island yesterday. There was a benching of 411 specimens in the different breeds and a keen competition in nearly all the classes. Fox terriers were particularly strong, both in smooths and wires, and it was a great distinction for Mrs. A. D. Tappan's champion Aman Marvel to win the trophy as the best of the breed and also the President's trophy for the best at the show. The Vice President's cup, for the best of the opposite sex, was awarded to the Ir

MR. ROOT AND THE LEAGUE.

Under Article XIV. of the Covenant of the League of Nations the Council "shall formulate and submit to the "members of the League for adoption plans for the establishment of "a Permanent Court of International "Justice," "competent to hear and "determine any dispute of an international character which the parties may submit to it." The Court "may also give an advisory opinion "upon any dispute or question referred to it by the Council or the "Assembly."

At a meeting of the Council in February a committee of twelve illustrious jurists was appointed to organize this Court. Mr. ELIHU ROOT, the American member, sails for London today to attend the first meeting of the Organizing Committee.

It is a matter of just national pride that the United States is to be represented by its greatest lawyer and first authority on international law, by one of the noblest intellects of the world, by the thinker and the statesman who has pondered deeply and fruitfully the duties and the rights of nations; as a Senator in Congress, as Secretary of War, as Secretary of State, has dealt with some of the gravest international controversies; whose work for the development of international law, for international arbitration, for the peaceful settlement of political questions and questions of right between nations, has been uniformly vigorous, solid, sagacious. Moreover, his speeches and addresses on international subjects have had a profound effect upon many minds. They have been and are an unfailing source and armory for those who share in the generous hope that in time public war will become a curiosity of history, like private war.

Mr. ROOT has no personal ambitions to gratify. Nothing can add to his renown. Long years of wearing labor entitle him to a little ease and repose at last. In his far-reaching thought of the future peace of the world he undertakes new labor. When it is remembered that he regards Article XIV. as not going far enough, it will be seen that he has no pride of opinion—though who would be better justified in having it?—and that he is unselfishly eager to seek the advancement, by even too short a step, of the impartial determination of international disputes.

When cold reason succeeds to the hullabaloo and heat of partisanship, the United States will take its powerful and necessary place in the League of Nations. Meanwhile it is a satisfaction to see the foremost American mind helping to plan the judicial machinery of the League.

MEMORIAL DAY IN FRANCE.

Very beautiful and affecting was the observance of Memorial Day in France by a grateful nation, Marshal and poilu, women and children, in cemeteries and burial grounds from the sea to Switzerland, mourning the soldiers from America who died on the field of battle in the cause of France and who now lie in her soil. The heart of the French people was in the performance of a duty to which they will dedicate themselves while the memory of the great war endures; and that means always.

The American soldiers whose flag was advanced with the Tricolor from Château-Thierry to Sedan saved France in her extremity, and French constancy is as splendid as French valor. France does not forget the sacrifices of her friends and is as true as steel to them. "These tombs," said the heroic PETAIN on the slope of Mount Valerien, "will be forever "watched over with the same pious "care as that which our country "gives her own children." It must be a consolation to American women whose thoughts were of their dead in France on Memorial Day that their French sisters brought flowers to lay upon the graves of American soldiers, and that not a spot where an American had been buried apart was neglected. No matter how lonely the grave, a service was conducted and wreaths were placed.

The list of towns where the French, men, women and children, assembled at the cemeteries to observe the American Memorial Day with pious fervor and with a devotion that could not be exceeded is long. The names are like a roll call of the battlefields and camps of the war. Patriotic organizations took part; renowned soldiers who led the armies of France made addresses, JOFFRE, FOCH, PETAIN, MANGIN; the civil authorities were represented; and on all sides, on public buildings and from every staff, the American flag was shown at half-mast. Nothing could be more affecting than the presence of children bearing flowers and singing in chorus, as they did in Alsace, to the memory of the American dead. On the tomb of Lafayette children laid a wreath inscribed, "In remembrance of the "American soldiers, friends of the "children of France."

France was superb in the shock of battle, and the quality of her gratitude is as finely shown when she observes, in honor of American soldier dead, the day of mourning and resignation so dear to the American people. There were many memorable things said at the ceremonies in France on Sunday, perhaps nothing more true and appealing than the last words of Ambassador WALLACE'S address at Mount Valerien:

"'Tis they [the hero dead] who gave us the torch of civilization as their spirits passed on high, and we must keep it bright, else neither shall we live in peace nor they sleep in peace, in the Argonne, in Picardy, or on Flanders fields.

And striking, because the sentiment was so sound, was General MANGIN'S view of the friendship between France and America, that it was like that "which one forms in childhood—"friendship which cannot be superseded and that one retains through-"out the trials of life, forever indestructible and cemented on the "battlefields of France."

THE HIGH COST OF GOVERNMENT.

The Republican Advisory Committee on Policies and Platform naturally dwells upon Democratic responsibility for the high cost of living. But the Democrats long ago yielded their responsibility to the Republicans, who are saying something too little of their own work. Democrats and Republicans must now share responsibility for the issuance of Treasury certificates of indebtedness, because their issue merely reflects the necessities of the situation. If the Republicans had levied taxes enough, of the right sort, there would be no deficiency calling for the issue of certificates against a deficiency of revenue. Also, if the Republicans had reduced the expenses of government to the Treasury's income on even the Democratic tax yield, there would have been no disturbing demand for Treasury certificates. If the Republicans had not bungled and delayed budget legislation they might have more to their credit.

In fact, the Republican record on all these subjects is worse than the Democratic by as much as the Republican task has been easier. The outlook for Republican improvement is worse by as much as the Advisory Committee is critical rather than constructive. It is beside the mark to criticise the Democrats for inflation. That is not under party control, and the Federal Reserve will not be Republican any more than it was Democratic. The Federal Reserve announced an increase of discount rates in New York and Chicago, without knowledge of the committee's views. The Reserve had previously taken similar action more than once, due to the necessity of financing the Treasury at the same time that it must be refusing accommodation to borrowers who ordinarily would get credit. Admitting past errors, conceding the sound doctrine of the Republican committee, its publication may be searched in vain for helpful specific recommendations. It is a reproach that the Treasury certificates should be discounted at a rate below that accorded to borrowers for trade. That encourages the Treasury in its borrowings, and thus takes pressure off Congress. The quarrel with the committee is less with its diagnosis than with its treatment. It knows what is the matter better than it knows what to do about it. The high cost of government is a leading factor of the high cost of living, and the Republicans will make a poor job of reducing either unless they reduce them together.

ANALYZING THE TAINT.

Members of Congress are holding up hands in horror at revelations of the use of money in the primaries; yet they do not point out wherein the evil lies. No charge has yet been made on authority, and doubtless none could be sustained, that any of the campaigners has made a dishonest use of funds. Against General WOOD the chief complaint is that one of his brokers parted with something over half a million dollars. That, it is assumed, is more than any candidate can receive without being unduly obliged. General WOOD does not think so; but it is manifest that Governor LOWDEN does. When he realized what sums would be needful under the present system of conducting primaries he refused to accept them; he put up nearly half a million himself. And now he is accused of setting out to "buy" the Presidency! Senator JOHNSON'S offense appears a trifle less serious in mere figures; but those who are in search of gooseflesh can acquire it by reflecting that a considerable part of his fund was derived from personages in his home State whom, as recently as 1916, he denounced as corrupt and brigands, declaring that "if ever he found himself in the same camp he would "know that he was wrong."

Yet note the predicament in which the horrified Congressmen have placed themselves. In whooping the bonus bill through they proposed an expenditure, not of half a million or a million, but of over a billion and a half, and for the selfsame end which was contemplated by the Presidential candidates, namely, securing votes. In doing this they placed themselves in a curious dilemma. If they expected the bill to be killed in the Senate, they were not only buying votes but buying them with bogus money. If they expected it to become law, they knew that their election expenses must be paid by the people, and in a manner that would involve not only a heavy sacrifice from all but the probability of a general crisis in business.

QUEER SOUTHERN REPUBLICANS.

On the theory, apparently, of washing their dirtiest linen first, the Republican National Committee is going to take up at once the question of contesting delegations from the Southern States. They are a quadrennial nuisance—or scandal. These delegates turn up every four years with the regularity and the offensiveness of locusts. They variously describe themselves as "regular" or "contesting," "lily white" or "black and tan." To decide what they represent is almost impossible on any judicial principle known to man. They really represent a sordid scramble for votes in the convention. Practical Republican politicians speak of them privately, and sometimes publicly, in the most contemptuous terms. Ordinary questions put by one manager to another are: "How many niggers have you got?" and "Do you think they will stay bought?"

Chairman HAYS, whose forte is amiability and whose foible is harmonizing contradictories, announces that this Southern Republican mess will be gone into in public. There will be, he declares, no secret deals, no "steam-roller" settlement of the controversy. But a little superheated steam, of the kind that Congressman SPINOLA of amusing memory used to speak of so eloquently, would seem to be called for. If not that, some other powerful disinfectant is needed to cleanse this open sore of Southern Republicanism. The offensive nature of it has been partially laid bare by the investigators at Washington. More may be disclosed when the inquiry is resumed. The cause of this political infection is known to all. The Republican organization in the South does not exist to provide electoral votes. Its chief end is to absorb patronage, when there is a Republican President, and to provide delegates to the National Convention. And this always means a tremendous amount of pulling and hauling, scheming and spying, and often pretty open buying and selling. It would appear from the prevailing rates—that is, from the sums of money sent by rival Republicans to the South in order to cover the expense of "legitimate publicity"—that these queer Southern delegates don't come very high. But the pursuit of them is intense. The number of experts in Southern Republican delegates whose nervous state has compelled them to spend some months this year at resorts in the South would make a long list. The results of their travels, if not the benefit to their health, will appear in the coming wrangles at Chicago over the Southern delegates. We may be sure that they are not making the journey North for their health.

ON THE WARPATH.

D'ANNUNZIO is loose again and has occupied two or three villages near Fiume outside of the segregated district assigned to him by the tacit understanding of the Italian and Jugoslav Governments; and on the Adriatic he is credited with the intention of going still further. His troops in Fiume hold mass meetings and shout "On to Rome!" while in the capital itself Italians from Dalmatia engage in encounters with the police.

What is the occasion for all this? Why, once more there is a revival of the hope, so often disappointed, that the Adriatic question may soon be settled. "Whenever negotiations have "been undertaken for the purpose of "settling the question," says Mr. NITTI, "alarming rumors have spread "and agitation has been intensified, in "order, I believe, to prevent an ad-"justment of the situation." For a long time D'ANNUNZIO kept quiet. He knew that the Nitti Ministry was going to fall, he had some reason to hope that the question of Fiume might be the occasion of its fall, and he thought that in that case he could count on the replacement of a Premier who prefers peaceable settlements by some firebrand who would tell the Arditi to take all of the Adriatic coast that they could get. But the fall of the Ministry was occasioned by an unimportant question connected with the Post Office; and not long afterward Mr. NITTI came back. With him came back the principle of peace instead of war, so D'ANNUNZIO drags out the old war drum from under the stairs and beats the long roll.

Unfortunately, he has it in his power to make a good deal of trouble. If he goes further the Jugoslavs will be confronted with a serious dilemma; they can retire before his legionaries, give up more towns, and thereby put themselves on a more unfavorable basis for the trading by which alone a peaceful settlement can be accomplished; or they can resist him, shoot down his men, and thereby transform the disowned mutineer into the hero of the Italian people, whose reverses must be wiped out by a national war. Long ago the hero complained that his army was growing bored because nobody would fight it. The matter was graver than boredom; by being fought and beaten he can most rapidly attain his object. Moreover, as Mr. TAUBITSCH observes, D'ANNUNZIO in Fiume is blockading a good part of Central Europe. Factories are idle and children are going hungry because he holds the port and will not get out.

Now the Jugoslavs say that if he occupies Sussak, across the river from Fiume, they will fight. Their feelings are intelligible enough, yet one must agree with the Journal des Débats that "the conflict must be prevented at all costs." The cost is compromise; concession on both sides. The negotiators on both sides ought to remember the gravity of the situation which exists so long as D'ANNUNZIO is in Fiume; the possibility of a long and bloody war being set off by the act of an irresponsible victim of the artistic temperament in politics should lead both parties to be somewhat more ready than in the past to come to an accommodation.

DR. GEORGE MORRISON.

There have been more famous—or notorious—newspaper correspondents than Dr. MORRISON, who has just died, but never one more soundly informed or more trustworthy in his special field. For years his Peking dispatches to The London Times were an original source of accurate knowledge. Dealing often with diplomatic matters, they beat the professional diplomats out of sight. It used to be a common way of attempting to "draw" Mr. ARTHUR BALFOUR in the House of Commons to ask him if he had read what Dr. MORRISON was saying about future developments in China. Mr. BALFOUR would say in his languid manner that he never read foreign news in the press, and that the Foreign Office had no reason to suppose that Dr. MORRISON was correct. But it would be shown that he was, in about a week, by the official reports which would by that time catch up with him. His appointment as general political adviser to the Chinese Government was a tribute to him as remarkable in its way as that paid to Sir ROBERT HART in being retained so long as financial expert in China.

Dr. MORRISON represented The London Times at Portsmouth, when the treaty of peace between Russia and Japan was in course of negotiation. G. W. SMALLEY was nominally chief to MORRISON, and treated him rather cavalierly. Just one day before the treaty was signed, SMALLEY telegraphed a column and a half to London magisterially announcing that there would be no agreement, and that the war would be resumed. Dr. MORRISON, however, had previously ascertained that Japan was certain to accept even an unsatisfactory treaty, and had so told SMALLEY. The latter wrote afterward to the management of The London Times that Dr. MORRISON had been insubordinate and had actually sworn at him. When The Times people learned the whole story, they thought the profanity quite excusable.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

If We Only Could Hear the Colonel!

Of the many reasons for wishing that the dead THEODORE ROOSEVELT were still alive, not the largest, of course, but real and good, is the reason that, if he were, he would be sure to read, and immediately to make the subject of comment characteristically vigorous, an article on "The Mystery of the Soaring Hawk," contributed to the June Atlantic by GEORGE E. CLOUGH.

Concerning the author of the article the editor of the magazine tells its readers only that he is a resident of Manitoba, which is not, in itself, much of a guarantee of Mr. CLOUGH'S qualification, first, for declaring fallacious all previous solutions of the problem presented by a bird that not only preserves altitude, but increases it, without seeming to move its wings, and, second, for presenting as final a wholly new explanation of this truly remarkable achievement. That the new explanation, however, is intelligent and something more than plausible is undeniable, and Mr. CLOUGH has no trouble at all in refuting all its predecessors.

He says, and all physicists will agree, that the ability to soar is not due to the hawk's possession of hollow bones; that neither the sailing of a boat nor the rising of a kite against the wind offers an analogy, and that only the believers in "perpetual motion" can trust the impetus gained from a downward dive to carry a bird above the point whence the dive started. The theory that soaring is made possible by ascending air currents, skillfully utilized, the hawk himself refutes by usually performing his evolutions when the air is still, and the other near-scientific hypothesis—that of vibrating feathers in a motionless wing—the anatomist ruthlessly dismisses on the ground that the hawk has no muscles with which to move wing feathers while wings are still.

This clears the field for argument, and, in Mr. CLOUGH'S opinion, makes necessary the fundamental assumption that the hawk and all other birds that soar do it by using the only utensils they have for moving their bodies through the air—their wings as wings and their big breast muscles as motors.

An Aerial Change of Gait.

It is to be regretted that, in offering his solution of the soaring problem, Mr. CLOUGH has attained brevity at some expense of lucidity—which is a mistake when writing for a magazine. With a little study, however, his theory can be understood by anybody. It rests on the rule or principle that, just as oars move a boat through the water because the water resists their own backward movement in it, so a wing does not itself descend when power is applied to it. Instead, it raises the bird, itself remaining at practically the same altitude throughout its seeming downward sweep.

Keeping this in mind, one is ready to receive, and likely to accept, Mr. CLOUGH'S conclusion that the hawk soars, not on unmoved wings, but on wings that make, alternately, just such motions as each makes in ordinary flight. In other words, the bird can and does "change his gait," much as a horse does, and Mr. CLOUGH offers good reasons why only the very closest observation, and observation based on his theory, can detect what the soaring hawk does and how.

One cannot but wonder that he did not give his theory the further support there is to be found for it in the rowing with the alternate instead of the synchronous dipping of two oars, to which boatmen often resort. When they do, boat and man act and react almost exactly as he says the soaring hawk does.

A Belated Resort to Machines.

Buried deep in the financial page of The Boston Transcript is a suggestive little article on the truly curious fact that, the manufacturers of automobiles excepted, the makers of washing machines for domestic use are just now the largest buyers and consumers of copper. The fact itself seems to have reached The Transcript's attention through The Chicago Post, which contained an interview on the subject by WILLIAM A. PAINE, whose interest in washing machines is not what would be called academic, and it is not incomprehensible that he likes to have notice taken of their rapid advance of late in popular favor.

The underlying cause is the scarcity of servants and the high wages demanded by the few who are available. This has created a widespread search for all sorts of machinery to make housework easy or easier, so that it can be done either by the housewife herself or by a smaller number of servants. Thus has arisen a new and large demand for a mechanical substitute for the immemorial laundress—for a machine that under moderately intelligent supervision will perform what, of all domestic tasks, always has been the most trying to feminine health and strength.

For reasons which psychologists with profit might discuss more than they have, women have been slow to let machinery into their houses. Perhaps the disinclination of men to buy the machinery for them has played a part in delaying a reform that long has been both desirable and practicable, but the women themselves, always and even now, have queer doubts about the propriety of changing methods of carrying on the home that have gained in the centuries a sort of sacredness in their eyes.

The servant famine—for the end of which there is no hope—has weakened, and soon will destroy, the dislike for machinery in the house that most women still have. They should not be scolded for having it—their duty and business as a sex is to be conservative, to make innovations slowly, to cling as as long as possible to old ways.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the midst of the stress and hurry of modern times it is well to pause for a few moments to ponder over a passing event.

Last Sunday afternoon, under the most histrionic circumstances, a life passed away at his own hands. Ernest Goetz, a German, wandered to this country in 1876, became attached to Bellevue Hospital in August, 1881, and served successively as a coal weigher and morgue helper, in which latter capacity he had the pleasure of assisting the most distinguished member of the medical profession of this country, Professor William H. Welch, the Dean of Johns Hopkins University. On Oct. 1, 1904, when the Pathological Department of Bellevue Hospital was created, he became attached to the laboratory as a helper, receiving for his services a yearly stipend of $240. Goetz retired Dec. 31, 1918, receiving a pension of $362 a year, less than a dollar a day.

The essence of integrity and probity, rumor has it that his presence was at times undesirable as a coal weigher. A rare, honest and devoted character has passed from our midst under civic conditions which should not be tolerated. He was a cripple and suffered from poor eyesight, and at my instance was operated on for glaucoma by Dr. Knapp about four years ago. Retiring at the age of 68, it was a pitiful sight to see him hobbling around. In these days of high cost of living, is it to be wondered or is it strange that he committed suicide? Forty-five cents was found on his person.

The newspapers have commented upon his having charge of various laboratory animals used for vivisection, and that the cause of his suicide was due to his deep sympathy for the white mice used in the Bellevue Hospital laboratories in cancer research in the interest of science. There have been no white mice in Bellevue Hospital since the outbreak of the war and the laboratory is not used for vivisection in the correct sense of the word. Crippled and blind, what more natural than that he should have chosen his old stamping ground as the scene of his death.

I am writing to set forth the true facts and to correct an erroneous impression created by the newspaper articles. Would that the world had more of this sterling type of manhood, the personification of honesty and devotion to the department to which he was attached for so many years. The city should indeed deplore the loss of such a servant.

Across the bay the Torch of Freedom burns:
While stands her ageless figure, we shall stand
Eternal guard above the sacred urns
Of those who perished under God's command.

Beneath the poppies in the fields of France,
Beneath the lowly daisies in our own,
The lads caught in the clutch of circumstance
Have reared for us an altar and a throne.

We shall not prove apostate to their trust,
We shall not lower now the Great Ideal;
We shall not heap dishonor on their dust
With lies about the "practical" and real—
While stands her ageless figure, we shall stand

JOHN W. DAVIS FOR PRESIDENT.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I desire to commend your able indorsement of John W. Davis for President. Your course is a wise one for the party and the country. Having known Mr. Davis intimately for over twenty-five years, we are familiar with his excellent qualities as a man of unusual ability and integrity, as well as with his public career, marked as it is with such distinguished ability and success.

You have not overdrawn the greatness nor the fitness of Mr. Davis for this great office. He is fortunate in that both his parents were good people. His father was a distinguished lawyer, a great thinker, and of high ideals; his mother was a brilliant and educated woman. Thus Mr. Davis not only inherited a good mind and a good body, but he made good use of his opportunities, and his ability as a lawyer, statesman, business man and thinker is only equaled by his high sense of honor and justice. His mind is not only comprehensive, but analytical; his thinking is clear, his vision is broad, and his judgment is of the best.

All who know Mr. Davis intimately not only honor him but love him. His every bearing marks him as a gentleman of great ability and distinction; yet the most humble citizen can easily approach him. He has never been a politician seeking place, and does not advertise. He became a candidate for Congress only at the last hour, under the overwhelming pressure of his friends, who knew his great ability to serve his party and the country.

As the party in 1912 sought the man "of the hour," why should it not do so again in 1920? Clear was the call of the party at Baltimore for Woodrow Wilson; equally clear it seems to me today is the call of the party and the call of the nation for Ambassador John W. Davis for President. Mr. Davis will do the great office honor and serve the nation well at a time when the world needs the greatest men in such positions.

OLANDUS WEST.

A Man for Independents.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am one of 500,000 voters, Democrats and Republicans, who are desirous of voting for Herbert Hoover for President of the United States. We base our wish on his character and abilities shown by what he has done, not on what he has said. It seems that we are not to be allowed to express our decided preference. We are therefore much indebted to you for starting a movement that may give us a chance to vote for the next best man, Mr. Davis of West Virginia. Either would do much to rescue the public business of the country from its present lamentable condition. Could or would any other man effect as much?

CHARLES F. JOHNSON.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On behalf of myself and friends I desire to express my deep appreciation of the reference made in your editorial article of recent date to John W. Davis and your suggesting him as most excellent Presidential timber.

Such a man is sorely needed at this time to lead the American people as custodian of their thought, without reference to party affiliation. He is entirely free from entanglements, often developing into obligation, usually accompanying a seeker of office. It is quite seldom a man of such poise enters public life. He has never sought political office. His service as a member of the West Virginia House of Delegates, and after as a member of Congress, was the result of spontaneous demand emanating from his fellow-citizens. As Ambassador to the Court of St. James's he has not only acquitted himself most nobly, but he has shown extraordinary ability and tact in discerning the responsibilities of that important position. His grasp upon international affairs is wholly unexcelled.

The American people at this time are exceedingly anxious to select a President who possesses the requisite qualities for the embodiment of their wishes. The character of the American spirit, as demonstrated under the leadership of President Wilson during the World War, proves its benign influence and exhilarating qualities, peculiarly fitting it for the leadership of the moral and commercial progress of the world. Should Mr. Davis be chosen as President, I am sure the beautiful character of the American spirit will be preserved and quickly restored to the high esteem in which it was held by all of the family of nations during the World War and the conference at Versailles.

CHARLES E. W. SMITH.

"Too Good to be True?"

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have been reading communications addressed to you, as well as your own editorial comment, suggesting the nomination of John W. Davis for President by the Democratic Convention, to be held next month, and I am free to say that, in my opinion, such a nomination would add most materially to the prospects of Democratic resurrection at the election to be held in November next.

The Chicago Evening Post has described Mr. Davis in these words: "He is just an efficient, cultured American." But I am a little at a loss to understand how far that will be accepted as an accusation or a commendation by those now flatulently proclaiming the qualifications that a Democratic candidate for the Presidency must necessarily possess in order to conclusively prove his Democracy.

How far the qualities conceded to belong to Mr. Davis will appeal to the Prohibitionists, Populists, Socialists, I. W. W.'s, Bolsheviki, anarchists and other "single-track" minds of our electorate of course I cannot foretell; but it will be admitted, I think, that large elements of these disorderly people have, barnacelike, fastened themselves upon the Democratic Party, and, to a greater or lesser degree, have had their hands upon its steering gear.

While I am still hopeful that wisdom will finally prevail at the Democratic Convention, nevertheless I have some doubt; and I am furthermore possessed of the idea that Mr. Davis is "too good to be true." WILLIAM B. ELLISON.

New York, May 28, 1920.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It was gratifying to read your editorial article setting forth in a temperate, dignified way the qualifications of John W. Davis for President in your issue of Sunday, May 23.

It has been gratifying to note the response evoked.

I have no doubt that many of the conservative, thoughtful men and women of the country have felt that none of the candidates so far presented by either party measures up to the standard that present conditions require.

The next President should have all of the high and fine qualities attributed to Mr. Davis, and should furthermore be able to rise and stand firmly above those partisan bickerings and dickerings which have tended to dwarf some who might otherwise have been worthy and which befog, delay and thwart the true intent and purpose of the nation.

Never before has it been more important that we have a President who can see clearly through these things and lead us to that high position in world affairs which will maintain our prestige and dignity and uphold our traditions in the new era now dawning.

A "True American" Candidate.

From The Louisville Times.

In about four columns of very attractive eight-point type, THE NEW YORK TIMES presents to the consideration of the San Francisco Convention the name of John W. Davis of West Virginia. THE TIMES remarks that it is independent of all parties and not inclined to give advice to Democratic or Republican Conventions, but it confesses its duty to say a few words about the Presidential availability of the American Ambassador to Great Britain.

To those who know Ambassador Davis these four columns, or the report of them, will bring a train of important reflections. It is true that few men in public life have greater ability or availability. Mr. Davis is one of the finest legal minds in America; his record as Congressman and as Solicitor General reveals extraordinary ability; his public presence is excellent; his learning and diction of the first rank; his birth and breeding all that could be desired by any one who wants candidates to be true Americans.

"CONCURRENT POWER."

Must Allow for Certain State Rights, Says Samuel Untermyer.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Now that the time is at hand when the political parties must determine their attitude toward prohibition as defined by the Volstead act, and it is within the range of probabilities that the Supreme Court will fail to decide the interesting questions pending before that Court before it goes into vacation on June 9, it is important to the public understanding of that important issue of State rights that all possible light be shed upon it.

Waving aside for the moment all of the many other questions involved in the various suits before the Court, the chief controversy is presented by the suit brought by the State of Rhode Island. It centres around the meaning of the words "concurrent power" contained in the Eighteenth Amendment, giving to the Federal and State Governments concurrent power to enact legislation to give effect to the Constitutional prohibition against "the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage."

No such division of power between the Federal and State Governments has ever before been attempted. It surely cannot mean, as contended by the Government, that the entire power to legislate for enforcement should rest in the Federal Government or that the authority of the States should be subsidiary to or subject to that of the Federal Government or should be exercised only by sufferance or where the Federal Government failed to act.

I directed particular attention to the confusion raised by this clause in an argument before the Senate Committee when the Volstead act was under consideration by the Senate, and recall a colloquy at that time with Senator Walsh of Montana of that committee, in which I asked the committee for its construction of the phrase, but without receiving a satisfactory reply. The question has never yet, in my opinion, been answered in any of the arguments presented by the Government to the courts. It is now awaiting an answer by the Supreme Court. It invites all sorts of future friction between the State and Federal Governments unless answered, and in a way that will preserve the sovereign rights of the States that were manifestly intended to be safeguarded by this peculiar and unprecedented phraseology.

At the time the amendment was pending in Congress all the rumors were to the effect that it had not the slightest chance of passage for submission to the States against the State rights advocates in either house without this reserved veto power in the States in so far as concerned the definition of the term "intoxicating liquors" and the method of enforcing the amendment against the manufacture and sale of such liquors within the boundaries of their States and for intrastate use.

My guess is that the Court will decide that the words "concurrent power" mean (1) that Congress may freely legislate under the amendment for all the purposes of intrastate commerce without regard to the wishes of the States, (2) that in all cases in which the States concur in the Volstead act or in any other legislation by Congress, either by express statute or by failing to legislate, the act will be enforceable not only in interstate commerce with and between those States, but also within those States, but (3) that within the borders of the States that refuse to concur in the Volstead act, and that have themselves legislated within the limits of the meaning of the amendment as to what constitutes "intoxicating liquors," the Volstead act will not govern where it conflicts with the State law, and that as to the manufacture and sale of malt liquors and light wines that can be proved to be non-intoxicating the State law will prevail in the manufacture and traffic in those beverages within the boundaries of those States.

That appears to me the rational view and the only view that will carry out the intention of Congress in framing the amendment and of the States that ratified it.

And now we shall see!

If this be a correct forecast of the decision it will, while giving effect to the amendment, at the same time preserve the rights of the States as to the enforcement of the amendment within their own boundaries and will eliminate the liquor question from the campaign.

Unless this be the law we shall have confusion worse and worse confounded as time goes on. I do not mean to suggest that the saloon will return. I trust and believe that that nursery of crime is an evil of the past. But in the great industrial centres of foreign populations, where pure, light, harmless beers have been part of the people's food in the home, the Volstead act will, I fear, be generally disregarded, and we shall have a political army of useless Federal officers either winking at its violation, not infrequently accompanied by corruption, or vainly trying to secure the enforcement of a law that runs counter to local public sentiment—a feat that has never yet been accomplished.

COLUMBIA ALUMNI HERE FOR CLASS DAY

SENIOR EXERCISES TODAY

The 166th commencement of Columbia University tomorrow is expected to be the most largely attended the institution has ever known. Hundreds of former students from all parts of the country have begun coming to New York for the event and for the auxiliary meetings arranged for the alumni.

The Alumni Committee is housing the old graduates in the new dormitories and the Faculty Club has been turned over to them as headquarters. The headquarters of the Class of 1870, which is celebrating its fiftieth anniversary, is in the Dean's office.

Today is class day. The senior exercises will attract parents, friends and relatives of the graduates and will be the central event of the group of commencement activities which precede the formal graduation exercises tomorrow.

John Bassett Moore, former Counselor to the State Department and Hamilton Fish Professor of International Law and Diplomacy, will deliver the oration at the Phi Beta Kappa exercises this evening in Havemeyer Hall. His subject will be "Executive Responsibilities and Irresponsibilities." Miss Amy Lowell will read the Phi Beta Kappa poem.

The commencement exercises will be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock in the gymnasium. The program for the rest of the day will include alumni luncheons, the alumni costume parade at 2:30 o'clock, the Columbia-Pennsylvania baseball game at 3:30 and the alumni "sing" on the library steps at 9 in the evening.

The Class Day exercises will begin in the Grove at 2 o'clock. Seniors from Columbia College will gather at Earl Hall at 1:30 and march in a body to the Grove. Here is the program for the exercises: President's address, Samuel Weinstein; Class History, Leon Hanel; address, President Nicholas Murray Butler; announcement of the Rolker and Brainard prizes, Secretary Frank D. Fackenthal; announcement of the Phi Beta Kappa elections, Professor R. L. Schuyler; address, Dean Herbert E. Hawkes; presentation, Lambert F. Dickinson; Class Prophecy, Arthur D. Schwartz; Valedictory, Earl M. Simonson; Ivy oration, Max B. Cohen.

Two of the three prizes to be awarded this afternoon will go to Samuel Weinstein, President of the senior class, member of the Student Board and of the football, basket ball and baseball teams. The third prize will go to Charles E. Shaw, star half back of the football team and President of the Student Board.

Samuel Weinstein will receive the Brainard and the Rolker prizes. The Rolker prize, gift of Mrs. C. M. Rolker, in memory of her son C. M. Rolker, Jr., class of 1907, is awarded annually "to the member of the graduating class who in the estimation of his classmates has proven himself the most worthy of special distinction." The Alumni prize, won by Charles E. Shaw, is awarded each year from the funds of the Columbia College Alumni Association "to the most faithful and deserving student of the graduating class." Initiation of the new members of Phi Beta Kappa will follow the Class Day Program and then the Columbia and Barnard Chapters will conduct a joint meeting and informal reception in Hamilton Hall. The Phi Beta Kappa dinner will be held at 6.30 o'clock.

Other events which will make Class Day today one of the busiest of Commencement week will include meetings of the local clubs of the Alumni Federation, Teachers College reception, Alumni Trustee Nominating Convention, and the Columbia Seniors' dance in Earl Hall.

Class Day exercises at Teachers College were held yesterday afternoon following the Teachers College Ivy Planting in Whittier Hall and the College Senior Sing on the steps of the Household Arts Tower. The annual Senior dance given by the Seniors of Barnard College was held last night in Students' Hall.

UNVEIL FARRAGUT WINDOW.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, May 31.—With appropriate ceremonies and in the presence of a large audience which included many officers of high rank in the navy, a memorial window in the Naval Academy chapel to Admiral David Farragut, the hero of Mobile Bay, was unveiled this morning. The window was presented by the Graduates Association of the Naval Academy, the movement for the purpose having taken form some years ago. The completion of the window was delayed by the war.

The ceremonies of the unveiling were the only exercises connected with the opening of "June week" at the Naval Academy, and were most appropriate, as Memorial Day was observed today.

The invocation was delivered by the Rev. Sidney K. Evans, formerly chaplain of the Naval Academy, and Commander C. T. Jewell, who has been active in arranging for the installation of the window, told of the work of arranging for it. Rear Admiral J. C. Watson (retired) and Rear Admiral Colby M. Chester (retired) were the speakers, and Admiral Archibald H. Scales, Superintendent of the Naval Academy, accepted the window for the institution.

The window was unveiled by Miss Camilla Seward of Bath, Maine, a grandniece of Admiral Farragut, and the dedicatory prayer was delivered by Chaplin B. R. Patrick, of the academy.

GRACE LA RUE WED TO HALE HAMILTON

JUST SUED FOR $200,000

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 31.—Grace La Rue, the actress, and Hale Hamilton, her co-star and author of the play, "Dear Me," which closed its Chicago season on Saturday night, were quietly married on Saturday afternoon in the Chicago Marriage Court between the matinée and evening performances.

The marriage was announced at a "farewell supper" given to members of the company at the Parkway Hotel by Miss La Rue and Mr. Hamilton after the final performance on Saturday night. Every one present was sworn to secrecy and it was not until this evening that the story of the marriage became known.

Miss La Rue last week was made defendant in a $200,000 suit charging alienation of affections, which was instituted by Mrs. Myrtle Tannehill Hamilton in New York. She was also named when a divorce was granted Mrs. Hamilton last January. In both suits Mrs. Hamilton charged that by "giving him money and following him about" Miss La Rue had won Hamilton's affections.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton are spending their honeymoon at the Parkway Hotel in Chicago, but will leave for New York in a few days.

The past history of both the bride and bridegroom is plentifully sprinkled with divorces. Miss La Rue was freed last Spring from her marital alliance with Byron D. Chandler, a young man who had acquired celebrity along the formerly "gay" White Way as "The Millionaire Kid." He testified in court that he had spent most of his grandfather's legacy of $150,000 starring his wife in "Molly May" and "Betty," and that his married life had been "unhappy almost from the start." Chandler had previously been divorced from his first wife.

Hale Hamilton was twice an unsuccessful defendant in a divorce action. His first wife was Jane Oaker, an actress, one of the leading members of the cast of "Lightin'." She divorced him some years ago. Miss Tannehill and he were married by Magistrate Barlow in 1912 when she was playing the heroine in "Broadway Jones." Hamilton's greatest success was scored in "Get Rich Quick Wallingford." He later took the play around the world. He is also well known as a motion picture star.

Grace La Rue first appeared on Broadway in "The Tourist" in 1900. For several years she played in vaudeville, gradually improving her voice and art. She was a member of the "Follies" in 1907 and of one of the recent "Hitchy Koo" companies.

Miss Frances E. Stevens Engaged.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Frances Elizabeth Stevens, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Stevens of Worcester, Mass., and Robert P. A. Taylor, a son of Mrs. Frederick Winslow Taylor of Boxby, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia. Miss Stevens was graduated from Miss Bennett's School at Millbrook, N. Y., and is well known in this city. Mr. Taylor was graduated from Cornell in 1915 and is a member of the Philadelphia Cricket Club. The wedding will take place next Autumn at Worcester.

Whitman-Ingraham Engagement.

Frank E. Whitman of 411 West 114th Street announces the engagement of his daughter, Miss Mary Hills Whitman, to Edgar Blakley Ingraham. Mr. Ingraham served as a Lieutenant in the Ordnance Department overseas.

George S. Dearborn's Funeral.

Funeral services for George S. Dearborn, President of the Hawaiian-American Steamship Company, who died Saturday, were held yesterday afternoon at the Christ Episcopal Church in Rye. The Rev. Richard T. Renshaw conducted the services, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Douglas McKenzie, President of the Connecticut Theological Seminary. Men prominent in the building and operating of steamships attended from many parts of the country. All flags in Rye had been at half-mast since Mr. Dearborn's death. The honorary pallbearers were W. Averell Harriman, Lester H. Monks, Montford S. Wilson, H. S. Sewall, G. H. Barnes, William H. Conroy, Richard T. Wainwright, Laurence Pool, Thomas T. Sherman and Lawrence Millet.

General Mott Hooton.

GARDINER, Me., May 31.—Brigadier General Mott Hooton, U.S.A., retired, died at his home here yesterday morning at the age of 82. His active army career ended in 1902. General Hooton volunteered for the Union army in 1861 in the First Pennsylvania Infantry. He was seriously wounded at the second battle of Bull Run, but returned to the front and was brevetted a major. After the civil war he entered the regular army.

Theodore Phillipp, Editor.

CHICAGO, May 31.—Theodore Phillipp, for years associate editor of The Abend Post, died Sunday at his residence, 5,001 North Ashland Avenue. Mr. Phillipp was 62 years old. He was at one time New York representative of the Hamburg-American Steamship Line.

SOCIAL NOTES.

New York.

Princess Hatzfeld, who arrived here some weeks ago from London, is now at Del Monte, Cal., where she has joined her sister, Mrs. Richard McCreery of Menlo Park, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Sprague are in Annapolis to attend the graduation of their son, Robert Sprague, and later will go to The Maples, their Summer home at Sharon, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Marsden J. Perry will close their New York home this week and open Bleak House, their Summer home at Newport.

Mrs. Herbert N. Worth of 375 Park Avenue, is sailing on La France on June 21 to open her house in Venice.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Livingston Lee and Miss Margaret L. Lee are in Lenox for the season.

General Horace Porter plans to open his house at Greenwich, Conn., today for the Summer.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Osgood Field, who are leaving for Lake Mohegan, will go later to Lenox.

James Livingston Frothorn, who is to marry Miss Beatrice Dwight, tomorrow, is giving a dinner to his ushers at the Union Club tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic J. Stimson of 108 East Seventy-first Street, are at Del Monte, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Schieffelin and family plan to leave today for Tranquillity Farm, Ashville, Me.

Mrs. H. Renjes, who is prominent in society in Honolulu, is at the Hotel Chatham for a visit.

Newbold LeRoy Edgar plans to join Mrs. Edgar in Paris about June 15. Mrs. Edgar, who sailed on Saturday, has just received from King Albert the Medal of Queen Elizabeth for her work for Belgium during the war.

Washington.

Following the decoration services of yesterday morning at cemeteries a considerable portion of Washington society took to its usual diversions, with large luncheon companies at most of the country clubs and a dance at Wardman Park Hotel last evening.

Vice President Marshall and a large number of officers of all branches of the military service attended the annual ball game of the Army and the Marine Corps, which was played at the Washington Club grounds, with the Vice President throwing the first ball at 3 o'clock. This was a benefit game, with the gate money going to the relief of wounded soldiers now at St. Elizabeth's Asylum. Fifty or sixty wounded or convalescent soldiers from the Walter Reed General Army Hospital occupied boxes.

The ball at Wardman Park Hotel, given under fashionable auspices, was for the Near East Relief Fund. Dancing was preceded by a short musicale at which John Barrett presided.

The Baroness Romano, Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kauffmann, Mrs. Edward H. Everett, Mrs. Cabell Stevens, Mrs. Francis Barger Moran and Mrs. Harry Wardman entertained box parties for the musicale.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. McAdoo, with their two small daughters, have gone to Colorado, where they will take a house for the Summer near Colorado Springs.

The Belgian Government has completed arrangements for the purchase of the present Embassy residence, 1,780 Massachusetts Avenue, which the Ambassador, Baron de Cartier, leased last Autumn. This house was built about ten years ago by the late Melville Ingalls of Cincinnati, and after his death leased to the former Ambassador of Brazil and Mme. da Gama.

The Italian Ambassador and Baroness Romano and the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Meredith entertained dinner parties last evening.

Miss Millicent Hancock of Texas, who was graduated from Foxcroft School, Virginia, a few days ago, is the guest of Miss Sidney Webb for a short visit prior to joining her family in New York. Mrs. Charles F. Carusi entertained a party of young people yesterday at the Lock Tavern Club in compliment to Miss Hancock.

DAVID MARTIN DIES, EX-POLITICAL HEAD

HAD HELD MANY OFFICES

He Finally Parted from Quay in a Fight in Which He Refused to Support Penrose for Mayor.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—State Senator David Martin, for many years one of the leaders in the Republican organization of Philadelphia, died suddenly this afternoon at his country home in Holmesburg. The Senator visited City Hall in the morning and was hurried to his home when he complained of illness. He died from heart disease while sitting in an armchair.

Senator Martin was in his 75th year. He was one of the three city leaders in the days when United States Senator M. S. Quay was in power, and was one of the Senator's chief lieutenants in Philadelphia when Quay was Chairman of the Republican National Committee and Benjamin Harrison was elected President. Later Quay and Martin parted in a Philadelphia factional fight in which Martin refused to support Boies Penrose for Mayor, with the result that Quay had Penrose run for the United States Senate. Penrose won.

David Martin has held many public offices. He was Sergeant at Arms of the State House of Representatives, a County Commissioner, Mercantile Appraiser, Collector of Internal Revenue, Secretary of the Commonwealth, State Insurance Commissioner, Registrer of Wills and State Senator.

Positively the Most Beautiful Collection of ANTIQUE HOOKED RUGS In the City

WE do not ordinarily use superlatives, but we could not help it in this instance. We ourselves have never before seen such a collection of Antique Hooked Rugs, not in 77 years.

They were secured by us direct from families in New England, Canada, and Nova Scotia, literally right off the floor, where their antiquity was completed by the feet of mortals and the Hand of Time.

Varied in size, bizarre in design, tranquil in coloring, they are as quaint, as picturesque, and as reminiscent of the past, as Crinolines!

Without Colonial Furniture, a revelation!

GUATEMALA CHIEFS SENTENCED TO DEATH

Former President Is Imprisoned in San Salvador on Order of Head of Revolutionists.

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, May 28.—After a trial by court martial seven prominent participants in the bombardment of the capital in the April revolution have been sentenced to death before a firing squad. They are Claro Chajon, Commanding General of the Army; José Reyes, Department Commandant; Miguel Larrave, Sub-Secretary of War; Manuel Leon Arriaga, Carlos Leon Regilly Galan, Felipe Marques and Gilberto Manchilla.

The prisoners received a legal trial, this being the first time in twenty-two years, or since the incumbency of ex-President Estrada Cabrera, that persons charged with a high crime were granted that privilege. The hearing was public, as required by law, and took place before a great gathering of people in the courtyard of the residence of the ex-President.

When the sentence was pronounced the people cheered.

The prisoners may have recourse to the Superior Court, composed of four, civil and three military Judges, for a suspension of sentence and a new trial before the Supreme Court. The Government announces its purpose to grant the condemned men every legal advantage.

By Executive order the President has expelled from Gautemala the Italian agitator Onofre Auele as a pernicious foreigner.

SAN SALVADOR, May 30.—Manuel Estrada Cabrera, former President of Guatemala, has been imprisoned on orders from Carlos Herrera, leader of the revolution which overturned the Guatemalan Government, according to advices received here. This step was taken after Herrera had conferred with political supporters, who advised him that it was necessary to restrain Cabrera during the coming Presidential campaign.

The revolution in Gautemala in April lasted from the 8th to the 14th, on which day President Estrada Cabrera capitulated to the revolutionary forces under Carlos Herrera. For several days Gautemala city was bombarded by Cabrera's troops, and according to reports many persons within the city were killed.

Why Not Profit From Others' Experience?

IT IS hard to learn to do this, but when so many men of great wealth declare that putting regular earnings out at interest with no loss of principal, if persisted in, leads to independence and riches, why not try it?

50,000 VETERANS IN PARADES HERE

20,000 MARCH IN MANHATTAN

Members of 200 American Legion Posts Follow Civil and Spanish War Heroes.

Governor Smith Sees Procession in Brooklyn—Gold Star Mothers Honored—Demonstration in Bronx.

Perfect weather and the first appearance of A. E. F. veterans in the Memorial Day parades in the five boroughs yesterday brought out more than 50,000 marchers, while five times that many spectators were along the lines or at the commemorative events throughout the city.

The Manhattan parade, by far the largest, had about 20,000 men in line, 900 of them bent, slow-walking heroes of Antietam, Gettysburg or Cold Spring Harbor, and the remainder soldiers who had heard the call in 1898 or 1917, eleven parade divisions swinging over the route along Riverside Drive, from Seventy-second Street to Ninety-second Street, in just under two hours. The veterans of three wars were reviewed at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument, Eighty-ninth Street, by Lieut.-Gen. Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., retired.

The white sunshine and the mixture of spring and summer in the air, as well as the membership of 200 American Legion posts making a début as Memorial Day paraders, produced a crowd that was larger than in recent years and decidedly enthusiastic. Long lines of parade yet under way in the Drive was fringed with spectators, and when the first sounds of the approaching marchers came up the thoroughfare the sidewalks were banked and hundreds were at the windows or on the roofs of the apartment houses.

Civil War Veterans in the Lead.

It was soon after 9 o'clock when the van of the parade, the remnant of that army that marched in Pennsylvania Avenue before President Lincoln in 1865, got off. Grand Marshal George W. Stokes, 80 years old, led the veterans, post after post of the G. A. R. going by, few numbering more than a dozen marchers. Though the posts were mere groups, the crowd was enthusiastic in applause, cheers in many places greeting the halting old soldiers, with their medals, their flowers, their shot-torn flags and the determined way—the military way—they were making the most of the day.

The fragments of the famous Zouaves, in red pantaloons and fez, were cheered along the entire route. Only sixteen of the regiment that went away in 1861 as the 5th Duryea Zouaves, or 165th New York Volunteers, filed by yesterday—one of them blind, sturdily trudging along a Boy Scout on either side.

The Spanish War veterans and men who had served in the China expedition of 1900 had the next place in line, many of them displaying badges of service in that war. Members of the Astor Battery, here and there a Rough Rider, were in the blue-shirted ranks, cordially greeted as they marched along to bands now and then breaking into snatches of "There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

Foreign Veterans Cheered.

A great outburst greeted the arrival of the British, French and Italian veterans parading with their late comrades in arms. Headed by the Royal Air Force band, there came a big detachment of British aces, Air Commodore L. E. O. Charlton, who supervised the flight of the R-34, among them. Exceedingly trim in their horizon blue were poilus with many medals and service stripes, while the Italian group went all the way from carabineers to the feathered Bersaglieri.

When came the American Legion, rank after rank of square-shouldered, fast-stepping men, including practically every A. E. F. divisional insignia and representing every branch of the service. Lieut. Colonel Robert M. Watkins was at the head of the A. E. F. division, and close behind him came President of the Board of Aldermen LaGuardia and Borough President Henry H. Curran, both Majors during the war.

A particularly fine showing was made by the Second Division Post, every man in uniform, decorated doughboys acting as officers, while Captains and Lieutenants trudged in the ranks. All the men in this unit wore the green four-leaves and they went sweeping up the Drive on the second anniversary of the morning they slipped quietly, through mist and mist, into the trenches northeast of Chateau-Thierry. Spurning an offer to ride in a Red Cross automobile, Private Tony Carlino, late of the Machine Gun Company, 9th Infantry, went the route on crutches. The day of the casualties a shrapnel shell burst near Carlino, blowing off his right leg.

Back of the Second contingent came posts from mercantile houses, posts composed exclusively of firemen or policemen, and bringing up the wake of the parade boy cadets and women war workers.

In the Reviewing Stand.

In the reviewing stand, with General Miles, were Admiral Charles D. Sigsbee, former Captain of the Maine; Major-General John A. Johnston, who commanded the "Buffalo" Division; Major Gen. Daniel G. Appleton, formerly of the 7th New York Infantry; Colonel George Burleigh, Colonel J. Francis Daniel, Henry Clews, Father Francis P. Duffy and Countess Marguerite Cunliffe-Owen.

Gold star mothers had special places in the reviewing stand at Prospect Park Circle for Brooklyn's biggest memorial procession, while others were seated along Bedford Avenue in the section planted with trees bearing the names of Brooklyn men of the Twenty-seventh Division who died in uniform. The parade was reviewed by Governor Smith, Mayor Hylan, Borough President Riegelmann and other city and borough officials.

For the first time in three years the parade started at Bedford and Division Avenues, Grand Marshal Silas Brink, of the G. A. R., leading the way through Bedford Avenue to St. John's Place, over Flatbush Avenue to the service men's monument. A record crowd witnessed the parade, the police estimating that 200,000 persons were jammed around the Park Circle.

In the Bronx.

Ten thousand were in the Bronx parade, headed by thirty-two G. A. R. veterans. In the ranks were big detachments of American Legion posts, and delegations from the Spanish War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Police Reserves and the Red Cross. The parade formed at Third Avenue and One Hundred and Thirty-ninth Street, where several wreaths of flowers were placed on the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument, erected to Bronx men who died in the service. The line of march was east on One Hundred and Thirty-ninth Street to Willis Avenue, north to One Hundred and Forty-third Street, to Third Avenue to Courtlandt Avenue, to One Hundred and Fifty-eighth Street, to Mitten Avenue, to One Hundred and Sixty-third Street, into Boston Road and up to McKinley Square. The review was in McKinley Square by Borough President Henry Bruckner and other municipal officials.

After passing the reviewing stand, the G. A. R. men proceeded to the Soldiers' Cemetery, West Farms Road and One Hundred and Eighteenth Street, and decorated the graves of men who had served with them. Members of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars marched back to Graham Square, Third Avenue and One Hundred and Thirty-ninth Street, where special exercises were held under the auspices of a citizens' committee.

3,000 AT SERVICES ON RIVERSIDE DRIVE

About 3,000 persons participated in memorial services held yesterday at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument, Riverside Drive and Eighty-ninth Street. The exercises were in charge of Past Department Commander William F. Kirchner, Chairman of the G. A. R. Memorial Committee, and the speakers were Rev. Dr. G. A. Carstenson, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, and the Rev. Dr. John E. Zeiter, of St. James Methodist Episcopal Church, the Bronx.

Before the speaking, the Cecilian Quartet sang hymns and then turning to patriotic airs induced the spectators to join in the chorus. After telling of the great work performed by the soldiers of 1861-65, something, he thought, made American victory possible in the great war, Dr. Zeiter said:

"Of course we won the war. You will have to go across the Atlantic to find anybody who will say we did not. We won it and we won it so successfully that nobody will ever throw insults this way or try to tread on the toes of Uncle Sam.

"The United States is the most propitious country the sun shines on, but we as Americans need to beware lest we permit ourselves to be led away from those high ideals of truth and righteousness which made us the great.

"This country is almost at the threshold of a revolution and imbedded at the core of this threatened revolution are certain rights and truths which are in danger. There is too much of a tendency not to enforce laws which are on our statute books. Some of the authorities are too prone to wink at infractions of the law. This brings about more or less contempt for the law and on the part of some a tendency to defy the Constitution.

"We have come to the place where a certain class of rabid people think they can say anything and do anything and no matter how insulting their demeanor or defiant their behavior, that they can shout their brazen documents, and carry on their brazen doings in the very face of the Government and get away with it without being punished. We have got to call a halt to some of the things we have been permitting.

"Here on this Memorial Day I want to recall to you once again and remind you that we must get back to that type of living that demands an unadulterated Americanism. We must suppress Bolshevism, whatever name it wears; we must suppress profiteering no matter who are the profiteers. There are in this country orators, newspapers, magazines and groups of people getting away with things tremendously diabolical. We must not allow these things to continue."

While the United States steamer Rochester boomed a salute of twenty-one guns exercises were held in honor of General Ulysses S. Grant were held at Grant's Tomb. The ceremonies, conducted by U. S. Grant Post, G. A. R., drew a crowd of 2,000. Wreaths of American Beauty roses were piled high on the big bronze sarcophagus. The Hon. Lindsay Representative Richard Yates, former Governor of Illinois, whose father, then Governor, commissioned Grant as a volunteer officer at the outbreak of the war, Lincoln's Gettysburg speech was read by Past Commander Louis A. Pilcher. The exercises disclosed that U. S. Grant Post, once one of the largest, had shrunk to 130 members.

A low mass in observance of the day was said in St. Patrick's Cathedral, the celebrant being the Rev. Bernard F. McQuade. At the conclusion of the mass, the Right Rev. Mgr. Michael J. Lavelle, Rector of the Cathedral, recited the liturgical prayers of his church for the civil authorities. The entire service was brief and was not chanted.

Under the auspices of veterans' organizations, the Maine Mounent, at the Columbus Circle entrance to Central Park, was decorated with fifty wreaths. About 1,500 Spanish war veterans were present and speeches were made by Chaplain Joseph A. Conning, soldier in two wars and now pastor of the Church of Our Lady of Good Counsel, and Captain Goeffrey Peterson, U. S. A.

Standing with bared heads in a semi-circle about a flag-draped catafalque, 5,000 persons in Mecham Park, Ninth Avenue and Twenty-eighth Street, attended a solemn field mass of requiem held under the auspices of the Knickerbocker Council, Knights of Columbus. The service, the first of its kind in that district, also was witnessed by others who crowded windows and houstops. Groups of the military, together with 300 young girls from St. Michael's Parochial School, attired in white and wearing Joan of Arc caps, augmented with their voices a chorus from the council's glee club.

Father Frank T. Hanretty, Chaplain of the "Caseys," was celebrant of the mass. The Rev. James Kelly of St. Michael's was deacon, and the orator was Father John J. Corley, who lauded the patriotism of American youth.

The Rev. Dr. George R. Van De Water, rector of the Church of the Disciple, a speaker at the memorial exercises in Flushing, after eulogizing the men who made the supreme sacrifice, denounced the Senate for failing to approve a League of Nations with reservations. Deputy Police Commissioner Leach, addressing a meeting in Astoria, also spoke for the covenant.

The Hero Park Memorial to Staten Island's war dead was dedicated in the presence of 15,000 persons. The memorial is the gift of Dr. and Mrs. Louis A. Dreyfus, of Grymes Hill, St. George. The park covers two acres, on the north side of the Richmond Turnpike running from St. Louis Street to Serpentine Road. A bluestone tablet bearing the name of the Staten Island heroes, where they died and their unit.

The exercises were opened with the playing of the National Anthem by the 18th Coast Artillery Band from Fort Hamilton. William A. Wilcox, former President of the Board of Education, and now Chairman of the Richmond County Community Council, was the chief speaker.

About 160 French veterans under command of Major Dupont of the French High Commission were the guests of the American Legion last night at a showing of Georges Carpentier's "movie," "The Wonder Man," in the ballroom of the Hotel Astor.

Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcass beef in New York City for week ending Saturday, May 29th, 1920, on shipments sold out, ranged from 13.00 cents to 19.00 cents per pound and averaged 15.95 cents per pound.—Advt.

Drop River and Harbor Bill Because Conferees Can't Agree

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Senate and House conferees on the annual River and Harbor Appropriation bill reached a deadlock today and voted to report that further efforts to perfect the measure in conference would be futile.

Members of the Conference Committee said that with a recess impending, the disagreement meant that there would be no river and harbor appropriations this year.

As it passed the House, the bill carried $12,000,000, but the Senate increased its total to $24,000,000. At the meeting today the Senate conferees offered to agree to a total of $15,000,000, but the suggestion was turned down by the House.

PERSHING URGES AID TO WEAK PEOPLES

WASHINGTON, May 31.—A plea that the American people be not swerved by "personal ambition or political expediency" from fulfilling obligations to "less fortunate peoples who confidently look to us for help," marked the Memorial Day address of General John J. Pershing, delivered today in the amphitheatre at Arlington National Cemetery, where the formal exercises in honor of the day centred.

"To the memory of our beloved dead," he said, "we owe a duty to complete the task they sanctified. The white crosses in France, standing as symbols of brotherhood in common purpose against militarism and oppression, eloquently cry out to us.

"Are we as a people to live up to our obligations? Must personal ambition and political expediency swerve us from the true course?

"The appeal that rings in our hearts must not be in vain. Rather let us go forward courageously, and with unselfish devotion to the well-being of our fellows as the vital aim, reawaken the fine spirit which made possible our war achievements. Doing our full duty as patriotic citizens, may we meet our obligations and give encouragement and comfort to less fortunate peoples who confidently look to us for help.

"May this day of solemn meditation bear fruit to justify the sacrifice of those who died."

The General also pleaded for adequate preparedness.

"In this solemn presence," he said, "and on this day, my countrymen, I pray you to take such reasonable measures in times of peace that never again shall it fall to the lot of a commander to suffer the anguish of soul that comes when of necessity our gallant young manhood must unjustly bear the burden of our thoughtlessness and be sent to battle without adequate preparation."

A tribute to the allied dead also was paid by the American commander "to the allied thousands who during four years of bitter struggle gloriously fell in defence of their homes and firesides, and who lie yonder across the seas asleep in quiet places beside our sons—a mighty host united in death as they were in life."

Celebration of the day took in all the cemeteries about the city, where lie many who have held noted places in American life.

For the dead of the navy and the Lusitania special services were conducted by veteran organizations on the central span of the Aqueduct Bridge.

Special services also commemorated the dead of the battleship Maine and two noted explorers, Read Admiral Charles Wilkes, discoverer of the antarctic continent, and Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, discoverer of the North Pole. A monument erected in Arlington Cemetery to Admiral Wilkes was unveiled with fitting ceremony, while the Explorers' Club inaugurated a yearly custom in placing a wreath on the grave there of Admiral Peary.

Even the wounded and maimed soldiers at Walter Reed Hospital participated in the day's remembrances, taking part in decorating the graves of the handful of dead who sleep at Battleground Cemetery, where the tide of the war between the States swept closest to Washington.

A few British dead, some of whom died while serving here during the war, also sleep at Arlington, and they were not forgotten. Lady Geddes, wife of Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador, placed wreaths on their graves.

AT ROOSEVELT'S GRAVE.

Practically all of the population of Oyster Bay turned out yesterday to participate in brief but solemn ceremony at the grave of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt. With thirty G. A. R. veterans and Quentin Roosevelt Post of the American Legion leading, the dead leader's former townsfolk marched nearly two miles from the headquarters of the American Legion out to the grave in Young's Memorial Cemetery.

Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt placed the first wreath on the grave of his father. Then was added that of Alfred Wright, ex-marine, and then the residents of Oyster Bay filed by, laying bouquets and wreaths until the mound was heaped high with flowers. Later the graves of Oyster Bay men who died in the war were decorated in the cemetery at nearby Neck.

About 4,000 men were in line in Jersey City, with more civil war men out than at any observance of recent years. Governor Edward L. Edwards and Jersey City officials reviewed the marchers. Speeches followed in Hudson County Park.

Parading from Jackson Park to Scott Park through the main streets were 5,000 former service men in Elizabeth, N. J., who were reviewed by Mayor Mraliva. Five Elizabeth councils of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics went over the same route in the afternoon and at the conclusion of the second parade 365 of the marchers received medals for war service.

All Paterson, N. J., united in observances, a big parade being held through the principal streets in the morning and patriotic exercises in East Side Park in the afternoon. Speakers at the exercises were Dr. G. G. Hamilton, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church; Rabbi R. Richmond and Father F. H. McGuinness of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church.

Parades and ceremonies also were held in Kearny, N. J., and Harrison, N. J., the former town receiving a silk American flag saved from the British battleship Warrior when that ship sunk in the Battle of Jutland.

A bronze tablet bearing the names of forty-two White Plains men who gave their lives in the war was unveiled. It was placed on the South Side Memorial. The principal address was made by former Justice John Jerome Rooney. Three trees were planted, one by a sailor, another by a soldier and the third by a marine.

Cast Flowers on Sea for Navy Dead.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—Blossoms in memory of the naval dead were cast on the sea by the crew of the Tennessee today as the great battleship steamed slowly outside the heads and came to anchor.

42 SHOT DURING SALUTE.

Four Are Seriously Hurt in Iowa When Squad Fires.

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa, May 31.—Forty-two persons were injured, four seriously, yesterday afternoon at Liscomb, Iowa, when a squad of former soldiers fired a Memorial Day salute. Shot cartridges were used to make a maximum of noise.

Veteran's Car Kills Woman Parader.

PALMER, Mass., May 31.—Mrs. Grace A. Allen, a member of the Woman's Relief Corps, was killed during the Memorial Day parade today when she was struck by an automobile in the parade carrying civil war veterans and driven by Captain Hiram E. W. Clark, aged 85. The Relief Corps was marching ahead of the veterans, who were in automobiles, and it is supposed Captain Clark's foot touched the accelerator instead of the brake. Mrs. Allen was taken to Wing Memorial Hospital, where she died.

Seeress Says New President Will be a Blonde, A Bit Bald, Wears Glasses, Escaped Assassin

BUDAPEST, May. 31.—Is there in America a man who is blonde, slightly bald, wears glasses, is "surrounded by fine children" and who is an aspirant to the Presidency?

If there is, he is the "man of destiny," according to the revelations of Mme. Sybilline Bellaugh, the Hungarian national prophetess, who was asked recently to apply her gifts to the task of determining who the next American President would be.

In addition to the foregoing distinguishing peculiarities, Mme. Sybilline declared that he was "the most popular man in America, and one whose election is demanded by the masses of the people." She added that an attempt was made to assassinate him within the last two years. The next President will be a "good man, successful and popular," she declared.

America will "yield to popular sentiment and turn anti-prohibition," the prophetess asserted.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—President-makers and political seers here, when told of the revelations of the Hungarian national prophetess, were interested. None of the avowed candidates answers to the full description of the prophetess.

Attorney General Palmer comes nearer to it than any of the others. He is blonde, has a bald spot, wears glasses, is surrounded by fine children and is an aspirant for the Presidency and an attempt was made to assassinate him in the last two years.

Ex-Justice Hughes might be classed as the "man of destiny" pictured by Mme. Sybilline, except that no attempt, so far as known, has been made on his life.

The prophecy, politicians said, was very hard to interpret. Republicans said that it would not be verified, while friends of Mr. Palmer said that no truer words were ever spoken.

So far as known here, no fee has been paid to the Hungarian seer. At least it has not been revealed before the Senate committee uncovering extravagant primary expenses.

Politicians of both parties in this city were puzzled last night over the identity of the man who, the Hungarian seeress has prophesied, will be the next President of the United States. Some expressed the belief that Mme. Sybilline's candidate, though a blonde, must be a dark horse.

Numerous candidates, mentioned as possibilities for the Republican and Democratic nominations, were said to qualify as to the slight baldness and more as to wearing glasses. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler was suggested as filling those qualifications, but objection was made that he is not a blonde.

Governor Alfred E. Smith was said to qualify, so far as the "fine children" are concerned, but he is neither blonde nor nearsighted. A city official recalled that an anarchist bomb had been mailed to Mayor Hylan. The assertion was made that he might be called a blonde, certainly wore glasses and might be classed as slightly bald, if stress were placed upon the "slightly." His name was withdrawn when the attention of the suggestor was called to the plural, "children."

General Wood, who retains an unusually luxuriant crop of hair for a man of his age, Governor Lowden, William G. McAdoo, James W. Gerard, A. Mitchell Palmer, Senator Hiram W. Johnson, William J. Bryan and others figuring in the pre-convention calculations of both parties were checked up in turn and found to lack at least one qualification.

ITALY PAYS HONOR TO AMERICAN DEAD

PARIS PRESS FEATURES DAY

Descriptions of Memorial Day Events Overshadow Even Joan of Arc Celebrations.

GENOA, May 30.—Memorial Day exercises were held at the cemetery here today (Sunday) over the graves of American soldiers who died in Italy during the war.

The entire American colony, headed by David F. Wilber, American Consul General, was present. During the day the graves of American fighting men were covered with flowers.

During the formal exercises Consul General Wilber read a letter from Robert Underwood Johnson, United States Ambassador to Italy, in which the latter expressed his regret that he was unable to "visit your beautiful city, so dear to all our countrymen as the birthplace of Columbus and the home of Mazzini, to do honor to those of our blood who on Italian soil made the supreme sacrifice for the freedom of the world."

"The watchword of the hour," the letter continued, "seems to me to be generosity"—not merely generosity to former foes who show they have learned salutary lessons from the war, but particularly generosity toward former allies. We are asked to forgive our enemies, but we must not forget or forgive our friends, nor admit any obstacle to an understanding between any two nations which unites in the greatest manifestation of Christian principles the world has ever seen.

"Surface misunderstandings, differences of opinion and even serious divergences of conviction must not be mistaken for enmity. We must be tolerant of natural expressions of racial temperament. Personal judgment must not expect too much of agreement in detail between those who still retain the chief bond of unity—the love of freedom, not merely for themselves, but for an mankind."

PARIS, May 31.—America's Memorial Day in France yesterday was made virtually a joint Franco-American ceremony by the presence of French military and civil authorities at all services and nearly 500 groups of graves in France.

On many programs French outnumbered Americans, and prominent Frenchmen everywhere took part in the exercises. More space was given reports of the day by Paris newspapers than ever was given to any French national patriotic day, except July 14. It was markedly apparent that the celebration of the canonization of Joan of Arc in this city yesterday was less featured than the American ceremony.

"France showed yesterday," says the Petit Parisien, "that she places her own children and the sons of the great American Republic fallen on her soil in the same category."

There were many independent services during the day, particularly by independent organizations. One of these was a memorial mass celebrated at the French-American welfare centre by the Archbishop of Sydney.

NICE, France, May 30.—Members of the American colony, headed by Consul William D. Hunter, carried masses of red, white and blue flowers to place on the graves of fifty American soldiers in Nice cemetery this afternoon.

French military and civil authorities joined in the ceremony, and the French garrison rendered military honors. After the pastor of the American church had held a memorial service, a representative of the Bishop of Nice blessed the graves.

Ceremonies were held over the graves of twelve American sailors at Villefranche this morning.

Life Term for Finnish Rebel.

HELSINGFORS, May 31.—Edvard Valpas, editor and leader of the Finnish Socialist Party and of the Finnish revolution in 1918, has been sentenced to prison for life. He was tried on the charge of high treason.

PRICE CUTTING STARTS IN LONDON

HOLIDAY TRAVEL FALLS OFF

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 31.—The continued rise in prices received its first setback today when Selfridge's department store announced a general cut of 10 per cent. of the price of all articles except groceries, in which the reduction will be 5 per cent. The announcement has been hailed by a general chorus of satisfaction, and hope is expressed that other large shops will follow this example.

Discussing the reason for making the cut, H. Gordon Selfridge is quoted in The Pall Mall Gazette as saying:

"We have noticed recently that people are beginning to make a far more careful estimate of the value of the pound sterling. The reckless buying, irrespective of prices, that has gone on for the last four years has practically ceased. The tendency to throw money away heedlessly has disappeared, but business is exceedingly good all the same, and the public is buying freely those articles of which it is in need."

The same tendency to economize was noted during the recent Whitsun holidays. There was, for example, a very marked decline in railroad traveling, due, it is generally believed, to the disinclination of the public to continue to pay high fares. Coming, as they did, on the very eve of the decision or demand by the trainmen for a large increase of wages, which must almost inevitably lead to still higher rates, it has led to the question whether the railroads are not already charging as much as the traffic will bear and whether an economic crisis has not almost been reached.

Manufacturers have in the last few weeks been complaining of considerable cancellations of orders, and this may have something to do with Selfridge's cutting of rates. These cancellations are due in great part to the gradual return to normal conditions. They do not mean that there is not still an enormous demand for commodities, but they do mean that it is much easier now to get orders filled than eighteen months ago. Then retailers, finding that they were receiving not more than a quarter or a third of the quantities they had ordered, placed orders with every jobber who would accept them, in hope that by getting a little from each one they would maintain their stocks. Recently, however, the jobbers have been able to live up fully to their contracts, with the result that retailers, becoming overstocked, have been cancelling hurriedly what orders they could.

Nevertheless, wholesalers are confident that, even if the home market at the moment shows symptoms of saturation in some lines, there will be for some years an enormous demand from the Continent, if only that can be financed so as to become effective. Consequently they are skeptical of any market fall in prices, and believe that such shrinkage as will occur will be gradual and long drawn out.

Orders Ex-Kaiserin Carried in Litter

DOORN, Holland, May 31.—There has been a recurrence of the former German Empress's heart affection, due to the emotions of moving from Amerongen. Dr. Haenel, who is in attendance, says there is no imminent danger, but has prescribed the utmost care and has given strict instructions that she be carried up and down stairs in a litter.

NO TERRITORIAL DESIGNS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PRAGUE, May 30.—The Prime Minister of Czechoslovakia, Vlastimil Tysar, who took office with the new Cabinet forty-eight hours ago, has given me his first announcement of policy. He is looking to America for help in building up this new republic. The betterment of conditions among the poorer people and whole-hearted devotion to peace are leading parts of his general policy.

He points out that Czechoslovakia has the requisite essentials to enable it to become a European California. Czechoslovaka, right in the middle of Europe, and naturally fertile with a big range of industries, has 13,000,000 to 14,000,000 population and the potentiality to become one of the most prosperous States in Europe. Its factories, however, at the moment are only operating to 30 or 40 per cent. of their capacity. In anything like full action they will make the country a community with a large annual profit.

After the revolution the Provisional Government and National Assembly carried on the administration. A few weeks ago the first election of the new country returned the first elected National Assembly, which met to begin work two days ago. Seventy out of 900 Deputies are Germans, resentful and powerful, which is one of the difficulties of the new Government. Another difficulty is the necessity of greater production in the factories, and a third difficulty is the dispute with the Poles, which is now approaching a crisis, with regard to Teschin, the strip of territory containing the principal coal mines, and therefore of tremendous advantage to either country. High prices are another burden on the people. Thus the task of the new Government has both domestic and international aspects.

A Ministry of Inauguration.

"The Cabinet at the head of which I am placed is a Ministry of inauguration, its task being to consolidate our political organism. First of all we must bring order and regularity into the parliamentary situation, so as to get a working program. The Ministry will pursue a line of social progress, especially for the working class, without denying justice to other classes.

"We intend to complete the work of agrarian reform already begun. We proceed on the principle that coal seised on the basis of compensation is to be allotted to those agricultural elements which would otherwise remain excluded from it. We propose by steps the nationalization of other branches of economic production. We have one precedent in the working councils of the mining industry and the share conceded to miners in administration and control and profits. We shall, however, in the interests of our commonwealth keep clear of any hazardous experiment or precipitancy.

"One of the first things we will do will be to direct attention to insurance against old age and accidents, which will be extended to agricultural and forestry laborers as well as to domestic servants. This action will be supplemented by insurances for widows and orphans.

"Unemployment is diminishing from month to month and all our people are working with full interests of the republic at heart. We are having but few strikes, but the Government is fully aware of the hardship entailed by the shortage of food, and we have to provide a remedy by a vast plan of food supply. Our harvest promises well this year, and when normal relations are resumed and we can trade freely we shall be dealing with Hungary and Rumania, which will help us. We count, however, on a very large supply of cereals and flour from the United States, with which country we intend to enter into direct relations to the exclusion of costly intermediates.

"We are expecting from the United States and Great Britain support both journalistic and economic. We have suffered in the past from a hostile press near at hand, meant to sever us from the rest of the world, and it was only the war that enabled us to make a breach in it, appeal, therefore, to the press of the English speaking world to tell as plainly as possible the facts about our country.

"We need something further, however, from the United States and Great Britain. They can help us immensely by a supply of raw materials as well as by becoming customers for our industrial products—for example, cotton and wool. We also need from them a benevolent financial policy, which would give us a mighty impetus that would soon furnish proof that Bohemia, as was once said, owns all the requisites for becoming a European California."

Our military policy is best characterized by the fact that our Constitution contains among its fundamental principles the transition of the militia system. When the moment arrives that the signing of the Hungarian Peace Treaty and the evacuation of Hungary will set free forces of that State make our frontiers safe, and when the Teschin menace in regard to Poland is removed, at that moment we will set to work to eliminate the last obstacles to a truly and permanently peaceful policy, which our whole nation so heartily yearns after.

No Imperialist Hankerings.

"We want to work and direct all our available powers to constructive labor. We entertain no imperialist hankerings and are averse to any form of warlike proclivities. We mean to draw our sword only in defense of our homes and our heart ties. The future will convince the world that Czechoslovakia stands as the surest shield of peace for Central Europe.

"We explain the hostile attitude of the Poles partly by their incessant warlike temper, partly by their greediness for territory, after the methods of the old style diplomacy. The Poles clearly see that the region of Teschen, which throughout six centuries had been part of Bohemia, would be lost to the Polish State if a plebiscite were taken. In order to frustrate this unwished-for happening the Poles have resolved upon a series of terrorist crimes, in the hope that a decision more favorable for them might be reached.

"Yet despite the existing state of affairs I am not pessimistic enough to believe in the possibility of war. Apart from the financial condition of Poland the vast majority of the population is weary of continual warfare. Besides, Polish statesmen know only too well how a war would throw them back seriously from establishing a good neighborly understanding with our country.

"The latest indications from the plebiscite area point to the probability of common sense getting the upper hand in Poland and of the Teschen problem, despite its threatening aspect, being solved otherwise than by an armed conflict."

PRAGUE, May 31 (Associated Press).—Removal of the Plebiscite Commission and the appointment of a new international commission was demanded in a resolution adopted at a great mass meeting today by all the political parties.

The Plebiscite Commission was blamed in the resolution for bloodshed and disorder and accused of partiality toward the Poles and of failure to understand the prevailing conditions.

The resolution added that the Czechs did not desire to do so, but that they could defend their rights in the plebiscite zone.

Broader Deportation Powers Against Alien Reds Favored

WASHINGTON, May 31.—After making slight modifications in the House bill, broadening the powers of the Government to deport alien anarchists and prevent their admission into the country, the Senate Immigration Committee today ordered the measure favorably reported.

As amended the bill would bar aliens who are anarchists or who "advise, advocate or teach opposition to all organized Governments," or who are members of organizations which advise, advocate or preach opposition to organized government.

The committee also amended the bill so as to make possible the deportation of aliens who "knowingly circulate" propaganda advocating opposition to organized government.

BERLIN GARRISONS SWEAR LOYALTY

Former Kaiser Represented as Waiting Hopefully Outcome of New Potsdam Movement.

BERLIN, May 31.—Commanders of the garrison of Greater Berlin visited the Minister of Defense today and took the oath that they and their corps were ready to protect the Constitution by force against any attempted coup, whether from the Right or Left.

Minister of Defense Gessler, in an interview published in the Frankfurter Zeitung today, stated that the volunteer corps which might have supported a revolt, should one be organized by the Right party, would cease to exist from today and that any attempt to keep them organized would be punishable by imprisonment up to five years, with hard labor.

Minister Gessler also declared that the Döberitz Brigade, which was formed especially to protect the republic, was ready to fulfill that duty, and any fresh effort to overthrow the Constitution would be suppressed with the utmost energy.

LONDON, May 31.—Rumors of impending revolt are steadily growing in Berlin, and there are indications that the headquarters of the new revolutionary movement are at Potsdam, where Prince August William, son of former Emperor William, is staying. He is regarded as the leader of the military party, says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

Advices from Doorn, where the former Emperor is now living, declare William Hohenzollern is in high hope of a successful coup, and believes he will once more become ruler of the German Empire, the dispatch says.

BRAIN WORKERS' UNION HAS ENROLLED 200,000

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 31.—The Brain Workers' Union, or Confédération des Travailleurs Intellectuels, which was founded in France a few months ago, has already reached a membership of over 200,000. With an enthusiasm that shows the new union meets a long-felt want, artists, journalists, clerks of all grades and trades, school teachers and scientists, individually and as corporations, have been clamoring for inclusion, and the union is now strong enough to begin planning a definite program of its aims and the means for their attainment.

These aims are essentially professional and social, and, including as it does members of all shades of political opinion, the union has no political aspirations. A committee will soon be elected to study the claims of the different kinds of workers in the union and draw up full statistics of the comparative rates of pay and conditions of labor of all brain workers, which will serve as a basis for future action.

The object is to raise the standard of knowledge as the first step to common action. The program that is being prepared includes claims for: First, minimum salaries, according to the needs in each profession; second, obligatory contracts suited to each profession; third, pensions after twenty-five years' service in one house or institution if the members are over 55 years of age; fourth, a minimum indemnity in case of dismissal; fifth payment for all work accepted, whether used or not; sixth, professional priority in engagement.

The means by which the union intends to carry out this program includes, as well as propaganda, direct access to parliamentary commissions, municipal authorities, chambers of commerce, and even ministers; intervention by a central body and the right of arbitration in case of conflict between any group of adherents and their employers, and in the last resort partial or general demonstrations which vaguely threaten strikes.

In all its actions and aspirations the union promises moderation and professes antagonism to no other body in civic life. But its promoters and members feel that in past years and at present their interests have been constantly ground between the upper and nether millstones of capitalism and manual labor, and that it is time they took joint action on their own behalf. They have in their constitution one saving clause; They will impose their will on none of their members, giving support only where support is asked and needed, and leaving absolute liberty to all who join them to govern their own affairs or to wait, if at any time they should wish to do so.

LABOR SPOKESMAN WARNS MERCHANTS

OFFERS SETTLEMENT PLAN

Would Have Shipping Board Take Charge of Situation and Conduct Inquiry.

ASKS "BLOODLESS" TRUCE

Governor's Representative Will Appeal to Longshoremen to Return to Work.

Peter J. Brady, one of the spokesmen for organized labor, in a simultaneous appeal and challenge to the commercial forces in this city, yesterday invited the co-operation of the business interests "in an effort to secure a peaceful and bloodless settlement" of the labor disturbances which are tying up the city's transportation. Mr. Brady said that if such a settlement were not made, a condition "little short of industrial chaos" would be set up, as a result of what the unionists style "the merchants' open shop campaign."

"The organized trades of the city will not stand idly by and see the unions of the transport workers crushed," said Mr. Brady, adding that every industry would be affected by their sympathetic action, some directly, others indirectly. He suggested an investigation and settlement by the United States Shipping Board, co-operating with State and city officials.

While Mr. Brady was offering his barbed olive branch further efforts to settle the longshore strike were being made by Governor Smith. Following a conference with T. V. O'Connor, President of the International Longshoremen's Association, it was announced that the Governor would send a representative to a meeting of the longshoremen tomorrow night, when a vote on a proposal to return to work will be taken.

Mr. Brady's Open Letter.

Mr. Brady, who spoke for organized labor generally and not for the transportation trades, submitted his settlement proposal in an open letter to the Merchants' Association, in which he said:

"As a citizen of New York, having at heart the best interests of the city of New York, I am presuming to address you this open letter, asking that before you definitely commit yourselves to a course which cannot help but result in injury to the city, you counsel with others as much interested in its welfare as you are.

"I do not address you as members of the Merchants' Association, for that would be resented by your officers who have elected to commit

SHOW SOVIET RIGOR IN DRAFTING LABOR

'SEVERITY' TO SKILLED MEN

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The State Department today made public the text of resolutions adopted at the Ninth Congress of the Russian Communist Party, as communicated by wireless from Moscow, on the militarization by the Bolsheviki of Russian economic and industrial life and the mobilization of labor by conscription.

Commenting on the character of the Russian measures as thus set forth, a high official of the Government emphasized the importance of the resolutions, which are authentic, as demonstrating the methods of Bolshevist direct action relative to labor.

The resolutions, as obtained officially from an intercepted Moscow wireless message, read:

"Having approved the principles laid down by the Central Committee of the Russian Communist Party in regard to the mobilization of the industrial proletariat, labor conscription, economic militarisation and the utilization of troops for economic requirements, the Congress decided the following:

"The organizations of the party must assist in every way the trade unions and labor departments in registering skilled workers, for the purpose of employing them in productive labor, on the same principles and with the same severity as are adopted with regard to officers mobilized for the requirements of the army. Every skilled worker must return to his special work. Skilled workers may remain at other Soviet posts only with the permission of central and local authorities.

Labor Mobilized Like Army.

"Mass mobilization for labor conscription must from the very beginning be placed on a correct footing. In every case of mobilization the number of mobilized persons must be in accordance with the number of implements required, the amount of work to be done and the place of concentration.

"It is also of the utmost importance that labor detachments formed of mobilized persons should be provided with technically competent and politically reliable instructors. Also, every labor detachment must include a nucleus of Communist workers, mobilized during the party mobilization. In other words, in forming these detachments we must adopt the same policy as when forming the Red army.

"One of the most important tasks of the party is to render assistance in the greatest possible degree to the union of railwaymen, as the transport can be reorganized only by means of their efforts. At the same time it is necessary to adopt extraordinary measures toward * * * and the militarization * * * which are absolutely indispensable owing to the complete ruin of the transport. No effort should be spared to arrest the process of disorganization and thus to prevent the peril of the Soviet republic.

Discipline by Trade Unions.

"Therefore the congress considers that the chief political department attached to the railways should be regarded as a temporary organization of the Communist Party and Soviet authority, and should pursue the two following aims:

"1. By means of employing experienced Communists and the best representatives of the working classes to improve transport immediately, and at the same time to strengthen the union of railway men by means of drawing into it the best workmen who will be dispatched by the Chief Political Department attached to the railway, to various railway lines.

"2. To assist the trade union in establishing severe discipline in its organization and thus enable the trade union of railwaymen to work independently for the improvement of railway transport. After the completion of this task the Chief Political Department and its district organizations must be included within the shortest time possible. * * *

Five Killed When Car Hits Auto.

AKRON, Ohio, May 31.—Five persons were killed early today when a Canton interurban car crashed into an automobile at Hoover, east of here. The dead are: Eva Hepfer, Albert Rafferty, Lucinda Barkes and two unidentified persons, all of whom were occupants of the automobile.

EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION ASKS NEWSPRINT AID

BOSTON, May 31.—The newsprint shortage was discussed today by the National Editorial Association, in annual convention here. A resolution was unanimously adopted and forwarded to Chairman Porter of the House Foreign Relations Committee at Washington urging the passage of Senate Joint Resolution 152, which is designed to afford immediate relief in the emergency and especially to benefit country newspapers.

Edward Albright of Gallatin, Tenn., in his presidential address, said: "The ubiquitous profiteer is abroad in the print paper field just as he is in many other lines of trade, and an acute situation demands drastic action."

"My opinion is," he added, "that Congress by prompt legislative enactment should restrict the issue of every newspaper in the United States to a maximum of so many pages per day and in such an act define a maximum page size. Large users of print paper with their own mills or contracts should keep out of the spot market. Congress also should make a substantial appropriation for a determined effort to find a substitute for wood pulp."

Mr. Albright asked consideration by the convention of the McKinley bill recently introduced in Congress and designed to provide a source of newsprint to newspapers of 12,000 circulation.

President F. T. Dodge of the International Paper Company predicted even higher prices for newsprint paper, due to the threatened rise in freight rates and the demands of labor for higher wages. He suggested some amendment to the postal law requiring an added rate on newspapers above a certain weight and size, and appealed to the larger newspapers to keep out of the spot market.

"Canada is permitted to keep raw material from us," Mr. Dodge said, "and so long as we are thus deprived the International Paper Company will not put another dollar with my consent into American mills."

For The Bride

THEY had just returned from a long honeymoon, ready to begin their life in their new home. As they entered the living room she was delighted and amazed to be greeted by exquisite music, played by the hands of a great master! What a surprise it was—this wonderful gift from her adoring father, who had hardly been able to resist giving away the secret of the wonderful pleasure that awaited them on their return. A pleasure that they would enjoy throughout the years to come.

The AMPICO

AND what a delight it is going to be to them! They both love music and with this wonderful instrument they are going to have it in perfection whenever they wish. Such master pianists as Godowsky, Levitzki, Ornstein, Moiseiwitsch, Rubinstein and the great Rachmaninoff will play for them all the music they love best!

GREAT Classic Masterpieces, selections from Grand Opera, their favorite heart songs, popular hits of the day, gems from light opera, delectable ragtime for dancing—they are to hear them all as often as they wish in the quiet and comfort of their own HOME. Is not the prospect delightful? The Ampico is indeed

Give the Bride-to-be a Different Gift

FOR some reason or other few people seem to show much originality in wedding gifts. So your choice of a smart piece or two of Belber Luggage will be something of a novelty—and doubly welcome on its practical side.

Your selection may well be a Belber Wardrobe Trunk and a Belber Fitted Bag—either, or both.

Then through the travels of her honeymoon, she can be sure that all her exquisite trousseau is kept fresh and dainty in her Wardrobe Trunk—everything from tailored suits and chiffon frocks, her hats and lingerie, down to her dancing pumps. Each in its own place—each accessible—and nothing in the way.

FOREST FIRES RAGE IN NEW BRUNSWICK

More Canadian Towns Threatened in That Province and Nova Scotia.

ST. QUENTIN WIPED OUT

L'Etang, N. B., and Londonderry, N. S., Suffer Severely—Several Villages in Imminent Peril.

ST. JOHN, N. B., May 31.—Only the Roman Catholic Church and the home of its pastor are standing today in the village of St. Quentin, which was virtually wiped out by forest fires of the past three days.

All of the thousand-odd inhabitants, except the parish priest, are homeless, and are camping out of doors or housed in nearby settlements or lumber camps.

Relief of the homeless was started by the Government at once. Provincial Premier W. E. Foster of New Brunswick directed Arthur T. Le Blanc of Campbellton, a Member of Parliament, to procure relief supplies and forward them to the sufferers.

Forest fires are raging throughout the Province of New Brunswick, advices to officials here reporting fires in practically every county. At L'Etang, in Charlotte County, a loss of $40,000 to $50,000 is reported, with a hotel, a sardine factory and a wharf among the structures destroyed.

LONDONDERRY, N. S., May 31.—The property loss suffered by this town when it was caught in the path of a forest fire yesterday included forty-eight buildings. Forty out of 200 families in the town are homeless.

New Waterford, a mining town near Sydney, was saved from destruction by volunteer fire fighters from nearby collieries early today.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 31.—The villages of Preston and Dartmouth are threatened by a forest fire, burning between the Preston and Waverley Road, Halifax County, according to reports received today. The fire is within three miles of both places.

EDITH MASON RETURNS.

Edith Mason, the American soprano who sang in Paris and Monte Carlo, returned yesterday on the Lorraine of the French Line, accompanied by her husband, Giorgio Polacco, the operatic conductor. She came back to fill an engagement at Ravinia Park, just outside of Chicago, where a Summer opera season is given each year.

"While at the Opera Comique I appeared in a new opera by Marceau Rosseau called 'Taras Bulba,'" she said. "It was written around a Russian story of the same title written by Gogol. The opera is one of the most wonderful I have ever heard and made a profound impression at the French capitol. I also appeared in 'La Demoiselle Elue,' by Debussy."

Regarding himself, Mr. Polacco said he would not be with the Chicago Opera Company again this season but would not disclose his plans.

DILLINGHAM TO STAGE TEN MUSICAL PLAYS

Charles B. Dillingham's plans for the early part of the season include the presentation of Fred Stone at the Globe Theatre in a new musical comedy, Joseph Cawthorn in a musical play, a new Hippodrome spectacle, and the continuance of "Apple Blossoms" and "Jack o' Lantern" on tour. In the meantime "The Night Boat" will be continued throughout the Summer at the Liberty, and Mr. Dillingham's Globe Theatre will have a Summer show next Monday night in George White's "Scandals of 1920."

The Hippodrome show, again to be staged by R. H. Burnside, will be seen in August, and Mr. Stone, in "Tip-Top," will come to the Globe in September or October. "Tip-Top" is by Anne Caldwell and Mr. Burnside, with music by Ivan Caryll. "The Half Moon," in which Joseph Cawthorn will star, is the work of William Le Baron, with music by Victor Jacobi. "Apple Blossoms," with the original cast, will resume in Chicago in August, and "Jack o' Lantern," in which Fred Stone closed his season in Providence last week, will go on the road with Doyle and Dixon heading the cast.

With Messrs. Erlanger and Ziegfeld, Mr. Dillingham will also present Raymond Hitchcock in the Fall in "Hitchy-Koo, 1920," by Glen MacDonough and Jerome Kern. In all, Mr. Dillingham is planning the production of about ten musical plays next season.

SCOTTI BACK FROM TOUR.

His Opera Company of 100 Pleased in South and Southwest.

Antonio Scotti and his operatic organization of over 100 persons returned yesterday from a four weeks' tour of the South and Southwest, including eight leading cities from here to Texas, every one of which has asked for a return engagement next year. Mr. Scotti said that the tour was successful, "both artistically and financially," and that the press and public in every city visited told him the company was the best yet seen or heard in their part of the country.

Mr. Scotti, after a few weeks' rest at Far Rockaway, will go to Ravinia Park, Chicago, to open the Summer open-air opera season there, and later he will prepare for his own company's Fall tour, which will take him, with Mmes. Easton and Scotney, Mr. Harrold and others, through Canada to the Pacific Coast. His longer tour, he said, will be for two months, opening in Toronto on Sept. 6.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The auction of seats for the Lambs Gambol will take place at the Hippodrome at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The performance is scheduled for Sunday night.

BRITISH MINISTERS HEAR RED ENVOYS

COMMONS TO QUIZ CABINET

French Experts on Finance and Economics Will Confer with Krassin in London.

LONDON, May 31, (Associated Press.)—The official meeting between the trade representatives of Soviet Russia and members of the British Cabinet occupied Downing Street this afternoon, but beyond a cryptic announcement issued at the conclusion of the conference that "a preliminary discussion took place with regard to the reopening of trading between Russia and Western Europe," there was nothing forthcoming on the scope or significance of the conversations.

This may be vouchsafed tomorrow, when the members of the House of Commons, who reassemble, are expected to quiz the Government on the ultimate purpose and progress of the negotiations of Gregory Krassin, Russian Soviet Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Officially there was not a word given out justifying the suggestions that there was an intention to utilise these discussions of trade affairs for the introduction of peace feelers, and in well-informed Russian quarters this evening the belief persists that it is not likely that the subject will be broadened.

Minister Krassin and his colleagues maintain silence, which it is understood was imposed as a condition of their receiving permission to enter England.

The conference lasted an hour and a quarter, after which the following official statement was issued:

"A conference took place at No. 10 Downing Street this afternoon between the Prime Minister, Mr. Bonar Law, Lord Curzon, Sir Robert Horne and Mr. Harmsworth (Cecil B. Harmsworth, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs) on the one hand, and MM. Krassin and Klisko on the other. A preliminary discussion took place in regard to the reopening of trade relations between Russia and Western Europe."

Immediately after the conference Premier Lloyd George left for his country home.

The Herald, organ of labor, and pro-Bolshevist in its editorial expressions, denies reports that Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet representative at Copenhagen, is at odds with M. Krassin. The newspaper bases its statement upon an interview secured by its Copenhagen correspondent with M. Litvinoff. It is said their relations are most cordial and that M. Krassin is determined not to make any important decision before communicating with M. Litvinoff. Before agreeing to come to England M. Krassin made it clear that he regarded communication with his colleague essential, and was assured that facilities would be given to him for sending cipher messages to the Danish capital.

Trade with Russia will not be resumed, asserts the Herald, without the settlement of political questions and the establishment of all conditions of peace, including raising the blockade, sweeping the mine fields, opening ports and telegraphs and issuing passports.

The Ukrainian diplomatic mission here has addressed a protest to Premier Lloyd George, to be forwarded to the Supreme Economic Council, claiming for Ukrainia a proportional share of the gold which the mission understands Gregory Krassin, Russian Soviet Minister of Trade and Commerce, proposes to use in the purchase of supplies for Soviet Russia.

The protest says it is true that the Moscow Government has at its disposal gold belonging to the Russian State Bank and also the Russian gold reserve captured in the Kremlin. It points out that Ukrainia has accepted liability for its proportionate share of the debts of the former Russian Empire up to the time of the revolution and the declaration of the Ukrainian Republic. Consequently, the protest says, this responsibility attends to the Russian gold reserve, and Ukrainia, like all the other border States of the former empire, has a claim to a proportionate share of the reserves of the former Imperial Bank of Russia.

It is stated that the Soviet Government has already spent much of this gold, the protest continues, and that the share now belonging to the Soviet Government must be a relatively small part of the original amount seized. Ukrainia protests against the disposal of its share.

FRANCE HOLDS ALOOF FROM LONDON PARLEY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 31.—Premier Lloyd George has invited the French Government to have M. Cambon, French Ambassador at London, present at the conversations between members of the British Cabinet and Krassin, the Russian envoy. Premier Millerand has refused.

The reason for the French refusal is that Paris regards it as quite sufficient for the transaction of trading arrangements to have the Allied Economic Council, on which France is represented, deal with Krassin. If there are other dealings with him, Paris regards them as political, and considers that to take part in them would be a violation of the French vow to have no political dealings with the Soviet Government or its representatives. Paris is leaving that responsibility to Lloyd George.

The matter of the meeting between Lloyd George and Krassin occupies a great deal of attention in the French press, and the Government newspapers emphasize that the British Premier is not acting in the name of the Allies. "Pertinax" of The Echo de Paris, who often speaks for the Government, scolds Lloyd George roundly.

"And so," he writes, "Lloyd George, Lord Curzon and Bonar Law are going to talk or negotiate with Krassin, the former agent of the German Schuckert enterprises, Commissary of the People, Envoy of the Republic of Soviets. For eighteen months the British Prime Minister has been wishing to get in touch with Moscow. It is useless to recall the tacks which he had made to reach his goal. But let us mention once more the double thought which guides him—to flatter the Socialists who think they are united with the Bolshevist clique and the merchants who in foreign policy know no other wisdom than to buy at the lowest possible price and sell at the highest possible price, to confirm without the use of military force the Asiatic Empire of England menaced for several months.

"The French Government intends to leave to Lloyd George complete responsibility for his conduct. The Cabinet of London desired that Paul Cambon represent France at the Bolshevist conferences in Downing Street. Very wisely M. Millerand refrained from giving to our Ambassador instructions to meet this desire. We have never been clear concerning the real meaning which the English Ministry attached to decisions of the Supreme Council relative to the exchange of products with the Russian representatives. Now we stand on those decisions, however.

"Only our commercial delegates will confer with Krassin and his acolytes, and furthermore they will consider only the exchange of merchandise and will never agree that revolutionary Russia opens the gold reserves of the former State Bank and of Rumania, which in our judgment guarantee the loans made by so many of our compatriots.

"Thus circumscribed can the famous commercial negotiations lead to any success? We doubt it. Thus far the efforts made by the Scandinavian countries have led to nothing tangible.

"The Russians themselves admit they can send us only flax and hops. They offer vast concessions if part gain from exploitation is given them. But what risks are incurred? There are first financial risks and then political risks. In view of the bad faith of the Bolsheviki, if they become debtors what strings will they not tie to their payments?

"The Temps tonight accuses Lloyd George of no other motive than to bog off the Bolsheviki from attacking English interests in the Caucasus by promising to restrain the Poles in their offensive against the Soviet armies. The Temps begins by saying that the negotiations at Copenhagen showed two things: First, that Russia had nothing to export except the gold which ought to be a guarantee of no Russian creditors, and securities and jewelry taken from private citizens, and second, that goods sent into Russia would not be at the disposition of the co-operatives, which have no independent existence, but at the disposition of the Soviet authorities.

"And besides," goes on the Temps, "the principal purpose of Krassin is not the economic resuscitation of Russia but the securing for Moscow of two things. It seeks to organize a world revolution, first, on the interior reconstruction of the Russian railroads, and, second, on an exterior bureau of propaganda with secret funds.

"Such in essence are the results of the experience at Copenhagen. Today the Bolshevist Commissary is in London. Not content with meeting there the commercial representatives of the Allies he is waiting to be received by Lloyd George and several other members of the British Cabinet. Between his sojourn in Copenhagen and his arrival in London what has happened?

"Has Russia all at once become gorged with goods to export? Evidently not. Travelers coming from there speak only of starving cities, and factories which do not run, and peasants who hide their wheat.

"Is it that the Russian co-operatives have become independent of the Soviets? On the contrary the Soviets have taken all authority from the co-operatives.

"Is it that the gold of Russia has ceased to be the guarantee of Russian creditors? No. Is it that the theft of securities and jewels has ceased to be reprehensible acts? The British Government continues to put in jail those who do on a small scale what the Soviets do on a large scale.

"Is it that the Soviets have ceased to sow propaganda? No. Because they are now making propaganda in Armenia and have sent to Baku a delegate with dictatorial powers.

"What is it, then, that has happened between the second week of April and the last week of May? Two military events. The Polish Army has beaten the Bolshevist armies in Ukrainia. Consequently, the Bolsheviki have need of England to paralyze Poland. The Bolshevist army has chased the English out of Enzeli, in Persia. Consequently, England has need to take political means to halt the Bolshevist push, which it cannot halt by military means.

"Consulted by England, the French Government has let it be known that it refuses to take part in any political negotiations with representatives of the Soviets. It is a very wise attitude, and, besides, the Supreme Council of the Allies has never taken any other decision. But the French public, in accord with a large part of British opinion, should, nevertheless, be watchful.

"Our policy, abundantly justified by the check of all contrary expedients, remains constant and hides nothing. It consists in never ceding to the Bolsheviki and in opposing them with the force of patriotism, against which gold and the Third Army are powerless. This principle guides us in foreign affairs as much as at home.

"Polish patriotism is the rampart of Eastern Europe. Certainly in its own interests we hope it will not exceed its mission. But when Poland affirms that she will not exceed her right and when she has so much reason to feel herself menaced, to weaken here would be to permit a veritable crime against civilization.

"In Asia equally there is only one means to halt Russian Bolshevism: it is national sentiment. Why does Turkish expansion, which shows itself so clearly south of the Caucasus and which appears destined to balance Russian expansion, work today in the same direction as the Bolsheviki? Why do Persian patriots, accustomed to oppose Russia, welcome as a kind of deliverance the landing of Bolshevist Russians at Enzeli? It is because the Turkish Nationalists accuse England of having established a British protectorate at Constantinople and Teheran and because they see in Russia the natural adversary of this English domination.

"All that would change if England would alter her policy, if she would begin supporting as formerly the independence of the Mussulman States. We say this with the sincere conviction of serving British interests, which are never separated from the interests of France. It is not by signing an agreement with the Bolshevist Commissary Krassin that Lloyd George will free Persia and the frontiers of India, but only by tearing up the Anglo-Persian treaty."

This editorial in the semi-official Temps is important as showing how far apart are the English and French policies. It reflects on the one hand French encouragement of Poland, which is now an open secret, and on the other hand the chagrin of French statesmen at the territorial and political successes of England in the Near East.

TEACHERS HEAR GOVERNOR.

Executive Opposes State Test of Loyalty at Pay Rise Celebration.

The Interborough Association of Women Teachers celebrated their rise in pay with a victory dinner in the ball room of the Hotel Commodore last evening. The principal speaker was Governor Smith, who was applauded when he declared there had been no politics in the passage of bills affecting the teachers as the benefits had not been exclusively to any group of people, but had been to the whole State, for education was the keystone upon which rests the State.

"If we can stand $150,000,000 for a canal and $100,000,000 for good roads, we certainly ought to be able to spend money for education, without which neither canal nor roads would be worth a quarter," he said. The Governor said he thought there was nothing to fear from the radical element of the country, but that such an element did exist. He used this point as a text to show the need of educating the youth rightly.

Governor Smith scorned any attempt through any agent of the state to question the teachers as to their loyalty. He said that was "ridiculous." If there were any disloyal teachers, he added, there was plenty of law in the land to deal with them. He asked the teachers to live up to the trust the Legislature had placed in them.

POLICE RESERVES PRAISED.

Mayor Hylan and representatives of the regular police praised the police reserves last night at a dinner of the Officers' Association of the Police Reserves at the Waldorf. About 200 regular and reserve officers attended.

There were enthusiastic cheers for Inspector John F. Dwyer, who is in charge of the reserve force. Inspector Dwyer told the reserve officers not to believe that the police force was corrupt because some members of it had been indicted. "It is easy to get an indictment against a police officer," he said. "Day after day the enemies of the police are feeding out innuendoes through the press. When the matter comes before the Grand Jury their minds are made up because of the things that have been published and, of course, they usually indict anyone the District Attorney brings charges against." The other speakers were James P. Holland of the State Federation of Labor, Deputy Commissioner Frederick A. Wallis and Colonel John P. Lee, head of the reserves.

TO REOPEN RUBBER PLANT.

Troops Will Guard Workers Today, Following Bristol Riot.

BRISTOL, R. I., May 31.—Officials of the National India Rubber Company announced tonight that they would reopen the plant tomorrow to the clerical force, members of which were assaulted on Friday in a riotous demonstration in which three persons were shot and several otherwise injured.

The office workers will return under the protection of 500 members of the reorganized Rhode Island National Guard, who are here under command of Adjutant General Abbot, by order of Governor Beeckman.

"The Seal of Distinction"

Facts and Figures

THE Skins of 50 Ermine—or 30 Mink—or 20 Ringtail Opossum are required to make a piece of fur 36 inches long and 50 inches wide—the equivalent of one yard of Shelton Looms Woven Fur.

Shelton Looms Woven Furs offer the advantage of the beauty of the natural fur combined with wearing qualities heretofore unknown. They repel the bitterest cold.

The cost of the raw fur is only a small factor in the cost of the finished garment. Dyeing, matching and finishing—requiring the high-priced labor of skilled operators—adds immeasurably to the cost of the finished garment. All this expense is saved when Shelton Looms Woven Furs are used.

Every garment made of Shelton Looms Materials should bear the Shelton Looms Label

$50,000,000 BELGIAN NEW BONDS READY

Loan Bearing 7½% Interest Will Be Offered to Public Here Tomorrow at 97¼.

TO RETIRE PART YEARLY

Annual $2,000,000 Redemption Plan Is Based on Drawings, First Lot Netting 24.89%.

Formal announcement was made yesterday that the Belgian Government has completed arrangements with a group of American bankers to offer in this market $50,000 in twenty-five year 7½ per cent. bonds. The bonds will be offered on subscription tomorrow by J. P. Morgan & Co., and the Guaranty Trust Company and their banking associates, at 97¼ and interest. The proceeds of the loan will be used to liquidate the $50,000,000 acceptance credit arranged for Belgium which matures June 30.

In addition to the high interest yield, the bonds are to contain an extra attraction in the form of annual redemptions of not less than $2,000,000 each at the rate of 115 per cent. of par and interest. The redemption will be arranged by drawing; and the Belgian Government has contracted to pay the sinking fund trustees in New York, on or before March 10 each year, beginning with 1921, not less than $2,300,000 in United States funds. Through the operation of this sinking fund the entire issue will be retired by the maturity date, June 1, 1945, at 115 per cent. and interest.

The Belgian Government has also agreed that in the event of its issuance of any future loan secured by lien on any specific revenue or asset of the kingdom, this present loan shall be secured ratably with it.

The yield on the bonds offered at the purchase price of 97¼ and accrued interest ranges from 24.89 per cent. on the bonds which will be called on the first date of June 1, 1921, to 7.05 per cent. on the bonds, which will mature on the final date of June 1, 1945.

Interest on the new bonds will be payable on June 1 and December 1 of each year, principal, premium and interest being payable in United States gold coin at the offices of either J. P. Morgan & Co., or the Guaranty Trust Company, without deduction for any Belgian taxes, present or future. The bonds will be issued in denominations of $1,000 and $500.

MAY TRANSACTIONS.

Transactions in stocks on the New York Stock Exchange for the month of May aggregate 16,370,813¼ shares, a decrease of 11,605,232½ shares as compared with the previous month, and a decrease of 17,895,760¼ shares as compared with the corresponding month last year, when every full business was a million shares a day. Last month there were only three million-share days, contrasting with twenty in the same month last year. The heaviest day's trading of the month was 1,253,332 shares, on the 20th, and the lightest was 470,715 shares, which was also the smallest total since February 14 of last year. For the Saturday half holiday the maximum total was 419,302 shares, and the minimum 269,407 shares, on the 15th.

The following table gives the total transactions in stocks for May and the five months of this year, as compared with the same periods back to 1889:-

TAX SUIT GOES AGAINST CITY

Referee Sustains North Salem's $1,042,000 Levy on Reservoir Site.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 31.—After three years of litigation the suit brought by the City of New York against the town of North Salem in Westchester County in relation to assessments by the town against the city has been reported in favor of North Salem by the referee. The case is one of several similar ones and is the first to be reported.

In the North Salem suit New York City was assessed $1,042,000 for about 1,400 acres of land, part of which constituted the Titicus Reservoir, near Purdy's Station, and also the Titicus Dam. The city claimed an over-valuation of $400,000 and also raised the question of the right to value land under water.

Referee Martin J. Tierney of New Rochelle decided that the land was properly assessed and sustained the action of the town assessors. Other suits pending by the City of New York are against the towns of Lewisboro, Bedford, Mount Pleasant, Yorktown, Somers and Cortlandt.

Proposes Loan to Silver Producers.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The Secretary of the Treasury would be authorized under a bill introduced today by Senator Henderson, Democrat, of Nevada, to make loans to silver producers so that they can continue operations and not be compelled to throw silver on the market, in view of lower market prices for that metal. Loans of 87½ cents on each ounce of silver would be permitted at 4% per cent. interest. The measure was referred to the Finance Committee.

World Law Society Elects Reading.

PORTSMOUTH, England, May 31.—The Earl of Reading was unanimously elected today President of the International Law Association for the ensuing year. Dr. Jitta of Holland, who had been President since 1914, was elected President of the conference. The Argentine Consul, Señor Moreno, in behalf of his Government, invited the conference to meet at Buenos Aires in 1922. The invitation was gratefully accepted.

Foreign Exchanges.

LONDON, May 31.—Bar Silver, 57⅝d per ounce. Money, 5¼ per cent. Discount rates: Short bills, 6⅜ per cent. Three months' bills, 6⅜@6 13-16 per cent. Bar gold, 106s 3d. Gold premium at Lisbon, 140.00.

PARIS, May 31.—Prices declined on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 59 francs 60 centimes. Exchange on London, 49 francs 85 centimes. Five per cent. loan, 87 francs 90 centimes. The dollar was quoted at 12 francs 80 centimes.

THE public has been alert to the attractiveness of recent offerings of new railroad issues. Most of these offerings have been quickly oversubscribed, and the bonds are now selling higher than the original offering price.

Meanwhile, investors are overlooking the fact that the yield of old underlying railroad obligations at present prices is even more attractive than that of the newer offerings.

We will be glad to indicate to investors some opportunities of this kind on request.

BANKERS TRUST COMPANY, NEW YORK, TRUSTEE

The following information is summarized from a letter of Mr. Alanson P. Lathrop, President of the Company:

The American Light & Traction Company was organized in 1901, and owns over 99% of the capital stocks of fourteen operating companies engaged principally in the production and sale of gas and electricity for light, heat and power.

The business fields embrace a present estimated population of 2,400,000, and include some of the most important manufacturing and industrial cities in the country, notably Detroit and Grand Rapids, Michigan; Milwaukee and Madison, Wisconsin; St. Paul, Minn.; San Antonio, Texas; St. Joseph, Missouri; and Binghamton, New York.

These Notes will constitute the sole funded debt of the American Light & Traction Company, the equity being represented by Preferred and Common Stocks having a market value, based on present quotations, in excess of $40,000,000.

The detachable Warrants entitle the holder thereof to purchase, during the periods stated above, Common Stock of the Company at prices ranging from $142 to $152 per share. The range in quotations for the Common Stock during the past ten years has been from $125 to $450 per share.

Cash dividends have been paid on the Common Stock during the past seventeen years, the rate since 1911 having been 10% per annum, and in addition stock dividends of 10% per annum have been paid since 1909.

The net income of the American Light & Traction Company for the twelve months ended March 31, 1920, amounted to $4,201,139, as compared with annual interest requirements on the Five Year 6% Gold Notes of $360,000. During this period the consolidated gross earnings of the Company and the operating companies were $22,686,216, and net earnings $5,826,016, as compared with interest and other deductions of the operating companies and annual interest on these Notes amounting to $1,984,877.

The operating companies have been in existence from twenty to sixty years and have shown an uninterrupted growth regardless of general business conditions. The management of the Company is in the hands of the same men who have conducted its operations since its inception.

CONFEREES AGREE ON SALE OF SHIPS

MAY SELL PART TO ALIENS

Americans to Pay in 15 Years and Foreigners in 10—Board May Lease Vessels Meanwhile.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Sale of the Government owned merchant ships as soon as practicable, with provisions authorizing the Shipping Board to sell certain classes of ships to aliens, if considered advisable, were tentatively agreed on today by the House and Senate conferees on merchant marine legislation.

Pending sale of the ships, the board would be permitted under the compromise measure to operate the vessels itself or charter them to private interests.

Chairman Jones of the Senate managers announced that a final agreement upon the legislation tomorrow was hoped for.

The House conferees today accepted the Senate amendment defining a general policy for the board. This provision specifies that it is necessary for the national defense, and for the proper growth of its foreign and domestic commerce, that the United States shall have a merchant marine "of the best equipped and most suitable types of vessels, sufficient to carry the greater portion of its commerce and serve as a naval or military auxiliary in time of war or national emergency, ultimately to be owned and operated privately by citizens of the United States," and that it shall be the board's policy to develop and maintain such a merchant marine.

In connection with the sale of ships to Americans, House provisions allowing fifteen years in place of twenty fixed by the Senate bill for the completion of payments were retained, while ten years was agreed upon as the period in which foreigners must pay.

Senate provisions authorizing the board to establish new trade routes and encourage and develop ports and transportation facilities in connection with water commerce also were left in the bill.

Buying an Income

THE yields of high-grade railroad bonds, by five-year periods, since 1880, brings out in strong contrast the high yield which may be secured from investments made at this time.

1880	5.18%	1900	3.95%
1885	4.41%	1905	3.83%
1890	4.72%	1910	4.13%
1895	4.47%	1915	4.43%

Government bonds now sell to yield up to 6% or better. State and municipal bonds cover about the same range. Foreign governments and municipals yield from 7.50% to more than 10%; short term railroad, public utility, and industrial bonds yield from 6.45% to 8.45%; railroad bonds from 6.50% to 8%; public utility bonds from 6.70% to 8%; preferred stocks from 7.20% to 8%; while a first mortgage loan on the highest class of improved business property may be had to yield 6%.

YOU KNOW WHEN YOU GET YOUR MONEY

WHETHER WE COLLECT YOUR BAD DEBTS OR NOT.

THAT'S what a Credit Insurance Policy in the "London" means if you comply with the terms of your policy.

It is not a "hope" or a "promise" that some day you may get your money from the debtor. It is a "guarantee," and you do not have to wait.

When one of your covered accounts is not paid at maturity, it is construed to mean a "loss" under the policy. Any excess of your normal loss the "London" pays within forty-five days, and each succeeding covered loss within forty-five days after it occurs.

Why wait for more bad debts? Asking us for particulars does not obligate you.

PASS BILL TO ALLOW FARM COMBINATIONS

House Votes, 233 to 58, to Permit Collective Bargaining, Notwithstanding Anti-Trust Laws.

LIMIT PROFIT TO 8 PER CENT.

Secretary of Agriculture Is Put in Control Over Such Organizations to Prevent Illegal Practices.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—By a vote of 233 to 58 the House today passed and sent to the Senate the bill permitting farmers, planters, ranchmen, dairymen or fruit growers to combine for the collective marketing and sale of their own products notwithstanding anti-trust laws.

The measure was drafted by Chairman Volstead of the House Judiciary Committee as a substitute for the Capper-Hersman bill and similar measures to legalize collective bargaining by agricultural producers.

Debate developed sharp division of opinion, supporters of the bill declaring it would give farmers and other producers an opportunity to negotiate a fair price for their products. Opponents of the measure asserted that it would increase the cost of living and that it was class legislation.

Limitations included in the bill, said by its supporters to be designed to exclude from its benefits all but actual farmers, provide that the combinations that may be organized must not pay more than 8 per cent. dividend annually on capital stock, and that every member must have one vote irrespective of his invested capital.

Control of the combinations organized under the bill would be placed in the Secretary of Agriculture, who may, after hearing, order the combinations to stop practices which are held to restrain trade or to lessen competition. The Secretary would also be empowered to sue in Federal Court for enforcement of his orders should the combinations refuse to comply with them.

FAVOR CORPORATION TO RUN NITRATE PLANTS

WASHINGTON, May 31.—By unanimous vote the Senate Agriculture Committee today ordered a favorable report on the Wadsworth bill, authorizing the acquisition and operation by the War Department of the nitrate fixation plants at Sheffield and Muscle Shoals, Alabama, through a corporation to be organized under the direction of the Secretary of War.

The Government would be empowered by the bill to "purchase, acquire, operate, and develop" the Sheffield and Muscle Shoals plants and also all real estate and machinery located there, as well as the fixed nitrogen research laboratory at Washington, the Waco limestone quarry in Alabama and the electric power unit at the Warrior River station of the Alabama Power Company.

The corporation under which the plants would be operated would be known as the United States Fixed Nitrogen Corporation and would have a Board of Directors of not fewer than three nor more than eleven members, to be appointed by the Secretary of War. It would have authority to sell to the United States any nitrogen products it might manufacture for military or other purposes and to sell surplus products to producers or users of fertilizers.

The committee also adopted an amendment proposed by Senator Smith, Democrat, of South Carolina, authorizing the War Department to sell one-half of the 300,000 tons of nitrogen which it has in storage.

Urges Leaf Tobacco Price Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—A resolution requesting the Federal Trade Commission to investigate loose leaf tobacco prices was reported out today by the House Interstate Commerce Committee. Representative Fields, Democrat, Kentucky, author of the resolution, declared that since the 1919 crop was harvested the price had dropped to a point below actual cost of production.

Long Time Bonds

The amount and variety of long time bonds available at present low prices is limited, owing to the fact that most of the new issues are of short or medium duration. Corporations are unwilling to pay present burdensome rates of interest on new issues except for a relatively short period.

Those desiring long term investments must depend largely upon old seasoned issues, and many experienced investors are now buying this class of security.

We can supply a limited amount of long time bonds at prices yielding around 7%, and we recommend the purchase of such bonds at the present time. We shall be glad to send details and circulars to those interested.

7% NET First Mortgage Loans
On Atlanta Real Estate

There is no safer investment than in "mother earth"—especially in Georgia.

Georgia laws protect the lender on mortgage loans to a greater degree than in any other state.

We never lend more than 50% of a conservative value of the security—and we have never lost (in 29 years) a penny for any client.

WANTS HOUSING AID BY RESERVE BANKS

FAVORS SHORT TIME LOANS

M. Morgenthau, Jr., Declares Home Building Should Be Included Among Basic Necessities.

M. Morgenthau, Jr., a real estate dealer, has addressed an open letter to Governor W. P. G. Harding of the Federal Reserve Board, pointing out the omission of housing from his list of the basic necessities of life which should receive preference in loans, and urging him to issue a revised statement to the Federal Reserve Banks. In his letter Mr. Morgenthau says:

"In your statement dated May 24 you are quoted as saying: 'The board is insisting that all banks use a discriminating judgment in making loans, giving preference to those which are necessary for the production and distribution of the basic necessities of life, such as clothing, food and fuel. In the exercise of this discrimination it is necessary to have the restraining influence of a rate. It certainly is strange that you do not include housing among the basic necessities of life.'

"Unless something is done and done quickly to encourage a revival of the building industry, in so far as it pertains to housing, we shall soon face a situation beside which the present cry against the high cost of living will be insignificant. Under these circumstances it seems evident that it is the patriotic duty of the Federal Reserve Board to make a study of this situation and to assist in preventing such a crisis.

"I realize fully that the Federal Reserve Banks cannot undertake to finance the construction of homes with permanent mortgages. Their funds must be kept liquid, while it is the function of the savings banks, insurance companies and other institutions which have funds for permanent investment to take care of these permanent loans. On the other hand, there is no reason why the Federal Reserve Banks should not be encouraged to make the temporary loans which these builders require during construction and which afterward will be re-financed with permanent loans by these savings banks and other institutions. They should also lend liberally to builders who are constructing homes on contract and who require temporary credit to carry out these operations.

"May I not urge the importance of a statement to the banking fraternity calling attention to the critical condition of the housing situation and the imperative need for additional construction, together with a statement that you did not intentionally omit housing from your list of the basic necessities of life. It may also be advisable for you to state clearly that housing construction is dependent on bank credits, and that you consider loans to those engaged in the industry which is supplying this necessity essential loans and worthy of every encouragement at this time."

CONFERENCE IN CANADA WITH THE WEST INDIES

Seek Closer Trade and Political Ties—Duke of Devonshire Welcomes Delegates.

OTTAWA, May 31.—Sounding the keynote of imperial solidarity, the Duke of Devonshire, Governor-General of Canada, today opened the conference here between representatives of the Dominion and the British West Indies.

In welcoming the West Indians he eulogized the co-operative spirit of the various parts of the British Empire during the war and declared that now the paramount issue for them was to make its future secure. One of the prime necessities to this end, he said, was to make the Empire self-supporting.

"In this conference," he declared, "the principal subjects of discussion will be the relations between the West Indies and the Dominion of Canada, and I hope it will not be too much to ask that the imperial aspects be kept steadily in mind. Perhaps the after effects of the results of this conference may be extended and other steps be taken in cementing all portions of the Empire by closer ties."

Sir Robert Borden, Dominion Prime Minister, characterized the opportunities for trade between Canada and the West Indies as so obvious that "we should be derelict in our duty if we did not take advantage of them."

"The war showed something of the Empire's spirit in British colonies, and the opportunity to make more effective that spirit of co-operation now is more favorable than ever before, he said.

Lieut. Col. Amery, British Parliamentary Under Secretary for the Colonies, declared that the Government of the United Kingdom wished for the complete success of the conference, hoping it would mark a further advance of the movement for Empire development.

E. St. John Branch, Attorney General of Jamaica, replied to the addresses of welcome, speaking for all the British West Indian colonies. He said Jamaica was prepared as far as she was financially able to enter into the great scheme which we all have at heart."

The conference then proceeded in executive session with Sir George Foster, Canadian Minister of Trade and Commerce, presiding.

From the West Indies the delegates include: W. E. Jackson and S. S. Spurling, Bermuda; Harcourt Malcolm, the Bahamas; E. St. John Branch, Collector General Johnson, and A. H. Phillips, Jamaica; J. M. Reid, Demerara; Charles Ferguson, Grenada; W. L. Phillips, Barbadoes; Donald McDonald, Leeward Islands.

Gov. Allen Tells Senators Nation Should Follow Example of Kansas.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Establishment of a Federal Court of Industrial Relations similar to that in Kansas was recommended before the Senate Labor Committee today by Governor Allen of that State. The committee is considering legislation to carry out recommendations of President Wilson's Second Industrial Conference.

"I would recommend legislation that would take into consideration the fact that the peace and welfare of the public must come first," said Governor Allen. "I would urge the creation of a court having all the powers of any court below the Supreme Court, whose appeals should be to that tribunal, the Judges to be appointed by the President."

The Governor said this court should have jurisdiction relating only to interstate commerce and there should be no provision that would in any way interfere with the rights of States to adopt similar measures dealing with intrastate commerce.

Statements recently made before the committee by Herbert Hoover that the Kansas act was virtually a duplication of the Australian law were denied by Governor Allen, who said the Kansas statute was to prevent strikes, while the Australian law was to enforce arbitration agreements.

Mr. Hoover will appear before the committee tomorrow.

ANNOUNCEMENT

CHANGED conditions in Commerce and Industry demand larger banking units.

"Old Bullion," in recognition of this need, is joining forces with the Citizens National Bank, its honored friend and neighbor of many years' standing.

United under the name of the Chemical National Bank, the enlarged institution dedicates itself anew to the service of its depositors and friends throughout the length and breadth of the land and invites their attention to the greater facilities made possible by the consolidation.

We are seeking new business on our record.

INDUSTRIAL SERVICE.

SMALL BEGINNINGS in the industrial life of the nation marked the period of 1812 when The Bank of America was established. In those early days the bank gave financial co-operation adequate to meet the needs of the time, and for a period of 108 years it has developed its industrial service in keeping with the constantly growing demands of American enterprise.

Today, we have one of the oldest and most thorough Industrial Departments in New York, prepared to render audits, appraisals, industrial surveys, and to assist with all industrial problems.

May we send you our booklet "The Industrial Survey"?

64,483 APPLICATIONS FOR PHONES ARE HELD

Has Installed 35,418 in Four Months, Greatest in That Time in History.

MATERIALS ARE LACKING

New Installations Require Thousands of Miles of Wire and Employ Many Operators.

The New York Telephone Company announced yesterday that it has 64,483 applications for telephones which are unfilled. Since the first of the year it has installed, it says, 35,418, the greatest number for a four months' period in its history. These installations involved the running of thousands of miles of wire and the manufacture and installation of many new switchboards, as well as the construction of new buildings and the enlargement of existing structures and the training of thousands of new operators.

A statement by J. C. McCulloch, Vice President of the company, draws attention to the shortage of raw materials and fabricated products and refers to the need for replacing reserve facilities used during the war. The statement says the force of operators has been increased from 8,600 on Jan. 1, 1919, to over 14,000 on May 15, 1920, while 100,000 miles of wire have been added to the system and 138 new sections of switchboard have been put in. It is asserted that operators answer calls in one-half the time it took at the start of the year.

Dwelling on the difficulty of getting materials, the statement says the Bell system uses 58,000 miles of fine wire and 60,000 miles of coarser sizes a week, tells of the difficulties in obtaining and transporting this and other material and continues:

"We have been handling a greatly increased volume of telephone traffic. Service in the city since the first of the year has ranged around the 4,500,000 call mark daily. The net increase in daily traffic during the year 1919 is equal to the total daily telephone traffic of a city of the size of Philadelphia. The demand for new service has increased and it continues to be necessary to accept, subject to delay, applications for new service and complete them by giving precedence to those of an emergent nature, such as service for doctors, nurses, hospitals, cases of serious illness, fire and police, after which service that is required as a business necessity will receive attention, and then service that is a matter of convenience will be cared for whenever possible. This classification provides for giving service as soon as possible to those who need it most. Twenty-nine thousand five hundred and thirty-five of the unfilled applications for service on Feb. 4 were for residence service as about 16,000 for business service. Of the unfilled applications today 40,904 are for residence service and 23,940 are for business service.

"We are trying to expand a telephone system that is as large as those of Boston, Chicago and San Francisco combined, and we are trying to expand that system at a rate that means the installation of enough equipment to serve a million people—a program which calls for the expenditure this year in New York City alone of over $32,000,000."

SAYS HIS DRIVER STOLE CAR.

Louis H. Pounds, ex-Borough President of Brooklyn, appeared in the Flatbush Court yesterday morning as complainant against his chauffeur, Harry Jones, 24 years old of 315 Empire Boulevard, who was accused of stealing Mr. Pounds's car. Jones was held in $500 bail for examination today.

Mr. Pounds hired Jones on Saturday and said he would probably need him on Sunday, but telephoned to the garage that he would not use his car on that day. When his son, Louis, Jr., went to the garage to get his own car, he found that his father's car was missing.

Father and son started out in the latter's car to search for the missing machine. At Bedford Avenue and Empire Boulevard they say that they saw Jones with two others in the lost car. Jones drove away and the chase was ended when Motorcycle Patrolman Harry Shetter caught him at Washington Avenue and Lincoln Road.

HAIL WALT WHITMAN AS RED.

Poet's 101st Birthday Observed by Community Church Members.

The one hundred and first anniversary of Walt Whitman's birth was observed last night in the Community Church parish house, Thirty-fourth Street and Park Avenue. The poet was lauded as the apostle of motherhood, universal democracy, true Americanism and modern radicalism.

"Would Whitman have tolerated the deportation of Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman?" cried one of the speakers, G. B. Munson. "Nay, rather would he have woven his magic poetry about the head of that one American equal in greatness to Abraham Lincoln, that persecuted hero, the convict, Eugene V. Debs." Others who spoke were the Rev. John H. Randall, associate minister of the Community Church; Harold Hersey, Louise M. Kueffner, Basanta K. Roy, formerly secretary to Tagore, poet of India; James W. Fawcett and the Rev. Mabel Irwin. Richard Hale sang Whitman's "Last Invocation" and the "Marseillaise."

CLAIM YOUR ARMY BAGGAGE.

Government Will Salvage Lost Pieces Stored on Governors Island.

A call to ex-service men to reclaim lost baggage before the Government salvages the many pieces at Governors Island was issued yesterday by army authorities and the Knights of Columbus, who have located more than 70,000 pieces of baggage and shipped them to men who thought they were lost.

There are 148,000 barracks bags, 6,000 trunks and boxes and thousands of miscellaneous pieces yet unclaimed in the Lost Baggage Department on Governors Island. The Knights of Columbus have taken an inventory and are ready to offer service to claimants appearing to New York headquarters, 105 West Fortieth Street. Relatives of deceased service men may claim their effects.

KILLED IN SILESIA CLASH.

Victim Said to be a German-American—Much Excitement Reported.

LONDON, May 31.—A serious incident is reported from Beuthen, Silesia, where during a quarrel in a street with a French soldier, another man, said to be a German-American was killed, says a Berlin dispatch to the Central News.

$10,931,950 SENT HERE AS INCOME TAX SHARE

First Payment Will Be Put Into General Fund of the City to Reduce Taxation.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 31.—Fiscal officers of Greater New York received word today that a check for $10,931,956.24 was on its way from the State Income Tax Bureau as the greater city's first portion of the recent income tax collection. Although the law gives Controller Eugene M. Travis until July 1 to make this payment, yet he has made it a month in advance of the time required. The money is to be paid into the general fund of the city for the reduction of taxation.

The income tax bureau has collected about $83,000,000 thus far and half of it was paid over to the State Treasury, the balance being distributed to the various counties.

More money will be paid over to the city and to the other counties of the state at quarterly intervals. Many exemptions from paying income taxes until July 1 were granted and this money will be in the hands of the Income Tax Bureau by that time.

"This payment," said State Controller Travis, "is so large because of the 100 per cent. valuation which the City of New York has put upon its real property, as the income tax revenue is paid out by the State on that basis. New Yorkers who have probably stood up and kicked fiercely about their heavy local assessments are now somewhat recompensed by the larger flow of funds which they receive from this new source."

Nightingale Medal for 50 Nurses.

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 31.—Fifty nurses, representing fifteen countries, are recipients of the Florence Nightingale Medal for heorism on the battle field, awarded by the Geneva Red Cross. Six American, eight British and eight French nurses received the decoration, which was granted posthumously to Edith Cavell, the British nurse who was executed at Brussels by the Germans in 1915.

ORDER KEPT BY SOLDIERS

Production Costs Estimated to Have Exceeded Sale Prices by 14,393,000,000 Rubles.

LONDON, May 31.—The official organ of the Russian Bolshevist Government reports an estimated deficit for 1920 on the operations of nationalized industries of 23,756,700,000 rubles, according to a Berlin dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

The total includes 5,650,000,000 rubles spent on official salaries and on organization of the industries, 14,393,000,000 rubles lost owing to production cost exceeding sale prices and 1,210,000,000 rubles spent on political measures which were found necessary to keep the workmen quiet.

The political measures, the dispatch says, consisted chiefly in stationing soldiers and gendarmes in the most turbulent factories.

PORT LOSSES DENIED.

A. R. Smith Says Foreign Commerce Has Not Dropped Off in Six Years.

Reports that New York had lost a large part of her foreign commerce in the last six years were denied yesterday by Alexander R. Smith of the Port of New York Annual, who submitted figures from customs officials showing the exports and imports of New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore since 1914.

Mr. Smith said that, while New York does not do its duty by shipping, there was nothing to indicate any marked decline in its commerce this year.

Regarding statements that New York had lost more than one-fourth of her foreign commerce, Mr. Smith said:

"New York has not lost any of her foreign commerce during the last six years: more than two-thirds of the foreign commerce of the nation did not pass through this port in 1914; on the contrary, less than 45 per cent. entered and left the Port of New York. I went to the Custom House last week and obtained figures showing the value of the imports and exports of this port for the nine months ended with March, 1920—the latest figures then available—which showed that during that period 46 per cent. of the nation's foreign commerce passed through the Port of New York, and during the month of March, 1920, New York's proportion was 51 per cent. of the whole."

NEW AEROPLANE RECORD.

Six-Passenger Car Flies 120 Miles in 59 Minutes 34 Seconds.

ATLANTIC CITY, May 31.—What is said to be the American record for a six-passenger airplane was made this afternoon by the Larsen all-metal, a monoplane, flying against time to Philadelphia and return without stop, as the final outdoor event in the third Pan-American Aeronautic Congress. The machine was piloted by Leo Mons, with A. R. Hawley, former President of the Aero Club; Lawrence Sperry of New York, Henry W. Burton of Cleveland, Joseph H. Shinn of Atlantic City, and Miss Marion Wright of Baltimore as passengers. It left here at 4:16 this afternoon and rose to 10,000 feet. Above Philadelphia it dropped to 5,000 feet and headed back to this city. It crossed the finishing line at 5:22, having covered 120 miles in 59:34. The time was taken by officials of the club, headed by William H. Logue, Jr., of Baltimore.

Another machine of the same type, but equipped with a 160 horse power engine, and piloted by Bert Acosta, and carrying William H. Poppin of the Chilean Consulate, Lieutenant M. C. Hendricks, U.S.Army, Atlantic City; Miss Edith Larsen, New York; Lieutenant H. A. Fryckberg, Philadelphia; Miss Elisabeth Correy, Uniontown, Pa., and Augustus Post, secretary of the Aero Club, in an efficiency test, covered the same route in 1:28:44, flying time.

WILL DISCUSS PRICE TREND.

Credit Men Also to Hear Governors Sproul and Allen.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 31—Whether there will be any marked changes in present prices will be among the topics discussed at the Silver Jubilee Convention of the National Association of Credit Men, which opens here tomorrow. More than 4,000 representative business men and several women interested in credits already are assembled here.

Ray G. Elliott, of Chicago, Chairman of the Committee on Federal Taxation, said his Committee would outline some proposed changes and reforms. William A. Prendergast, former Controller of New York, will deliver an historical review of the progress of the association on Wednesday.

Governor William C. Sproul, of Pennsylvania, will discuss "The Nation's Business." Governor Allen of Kansas, will be another speaker.

HAMILTON ESTATE IS SOLD.

James W. Gerard Buys "Nevis," at Irvington, for a Client.

IRVINGTON, N. Y., May 31.—Former Ambassador James W. Gerard, acting for a client, has purchased "Nevis," the famous Alexander Hamilton estate on Broadway here. There was a report that the former Ambassador had bought the place for himself and was to move into it early next month, but this was denied by Mr. Gerard tonight, who said:

"It is not for me. I bought it for a client. It's just a piece of legal business."

Mr. Gerard said he was not in a position to mention the name of the buyer, nor the amount of the purchase. "Nevis" is located on the bank of the Hudson River and consists of sixty-eight acres of land. It has a beautiful old white colonial house, containing about thirty rooms.

THE DORCHESTER

131 Riverside Drive, Corner of 85th St.

A 12-story building wonderfully located; only 11 out of 48 apartments are being sold. An opportunity is offered to tenant-owners to purchase 4 remaining apartments in suites of 6, 7, 8 and 9 rooms.

An investment of $14,000 to $21,000 should practically assure free rent the first year, with excellent dividends the following years. The price and rentals of the property are low, and the entire proposition has been thoroughly investigated and approved by legal and real estate experts as to the question of values, rents, tax exemptions, etc.

DISSOLUTION NOTICES.

SUPREME COURT, NEW YORK COUNTY.—In the matter of the application of the Lansing Steamship Company, Inc., a corporation, for voluntary dissolution.

Due service of a copy of the within proposed order is admitted, and notice of resettlement is hereby waived.

Dated, New York, 26th day of April, 1920.

By CHARLES P. ROBINSON,
Deputy Attorney.

At a Special Term, Part I. of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, held in the County of New York, at the County Court House, in the City of New York, Borough of Manhattan, on the 7th day of April, 1920. Present: Hon. Edward J. Gavegan, Justice.

On reading and filing the notice of resettlement, dated the 26th day of April, 1920, and due proof of service thereof, and the affidavit of Arnold R. Boyd in support thereof, verified on the 22d day of April, 1920, it is Ordered that the order heretofore entered on the 7th day of April, 1920, be resettled so as to read as follows:

At a Special Term, Part I. of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, held in the County of New York, at the County Court House, in the City of New York, Borough of Manhattan, on the 7th day of April, 1920. Present: Hon. Edward J. Gavegan, Justice.

In the matter of the application of the Lansing Steamship Company, Inc., a corporation, for voluntary dissolution.

On reading and filing the petition of A. H. Hanscom, J. R. Meany, M. F. Long and C. K. Crosby, a majority of the directors of the Lansing Steamship Company, Inc., a corporation created under the laws of this State, and having its principal office located in the City of New York, and the schedule thereto annexed, duly verified by the petitioners on the 18th day of February, 1920, from which petition it appears that the case is one of those specified in section 170 of the General Corporation Law, and it further appearing to the satisfaction of the court from said petition that the said corporation has ceased to operate and do business and has no liabilities, and on reading and filing the notice of this application, dated the 20th day of February, 1920, with proof of due service thereof and of said petition and schedule and a copy of said order on the Attorney-General,

And after hearing Barber, Watson & Gibboney of counsel for the petitioners, and after hearing a representative of the Attorney-General;

Now, on motion of Barber, Watson & Gibboney, attorneys for the petitioners, it is Ordered that all persons interested in said corporation show cause before James F. Curnen, Esq., who is hereby appointed referee for that purpose, at his office, No. 119 Nassau Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 15th day of June, 1920, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon, why the said corporation should not be dissolved; and it is further

Ordered that a copy of this order be published at least once in each of the three weeks immediately preceding said 15th day of Jun. 1920, in New York Law Journal and The New York Times, newspapers published in the County of New York, and Enter, E. J. G., J. S. C.

State of New York, County of New York, ss.:

Arnold R. Boyd, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he is an attorney at law employed in the offices of Barber, Watson & Gibboney, attorneys for the petitioners herein, and that on the 7th day of April, 1920, an order for publication for voluntary dissolution of the above corporation was entered requiring all persons interested in the corporation to show cause before the referee designated in the order why the corporation should not be dissolved. Said order was made returnable on the 9th day of May, 1920, which was less than six weeks after the granting of the order; that section 175 of the General Corporation Law of the State of New York requires that upon a petition for dissolution of a corporation the court must make an order requiring all persons interested in the corporation to show cause before it or before the referee designated in the order, at a time and place therein specified, not less than six weeks after granting of the order, why the corporation should not be dissolved.

Deponent prays, therefore, that said order entered on the 7th day of April, 1920, And made returnable on the 9th day of May, 1920, be resettled and be made returnable on the 15th day of June, 1920.

ARNOLD R. BOYD.

Sworn to before me this 24th day of April, 1920.

THOMAS RIEGO HART, Jr. [Seal.]
Notary.

STATE OF NEW YORK, OFFICE OF THE Secretary of State, ss.:

This Certificate, issued in duplicate, hereby certifies that the YU ESS MANUFACTURING CORPORATION, a domestic stock corporation, has filed in this office on this 30th day of May, 1920, papers for the voluntary dissolution of such corporation under Section 221 of the General Corporation Law, and that it appears therefrom that such corporation has complied with said section in order to be dissolved.

Witness my hand and the seal of office of the Secretary of State, at the City of Albany, this twentieth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty.

C. W. TAFT,
Second Deputy Secretary of State.

Train at Home for a $50 to $250 a Week Job
TRAFFIC MANAGEMENT
Important positions at high salaries await the ambitious men who will train in Traffic Management. The demand for traffic experts is far greater than the supply. You can train at home, in your spare time, for one of these important, high-salaried jobs. The LaSalle home-study training course in Traffic Management is endorsed by railroad officials and big concerns everywhere. Send the coupon today for full information regarding this course and the many unlimited opportunities which exist in the traffic field. We will also send you details of the low cost and the convenient plan of payment. Our book, "Ten Years' Promotion in One," tells how LaSalle trained men have gained in one year promotion which men without this training have not realized in ten. Write today or phone or call for a Personal Talk.

SWIMMERS RESCUE 4 GIRLS AND 3 MEN

UNDERTOW IMPERILS TWO

Jersey Bathers Twice Succored—Justice Jenks's Daughter Has Narrow Escape.

Several boating accidents and daring rescues in waters near New York City were reported yesterday. The arrival, unsummoned, of Police Launch No. 8 in the Hudson River just below Spuyten Duyvil resulted in saving the lives of two young women and two men who were struggling in the water there after the swell from a passing steamer had upset their skiff.

Because of the dangerous current the drowning of all four seemed probable, when the launch appeared headed up the river. Shouts from the shore warned the police of those in peril and the launch speeded towards them. Policeman Albert Sorensen plunged into the river, seized a young woman and swam with her until she was lifted to safety by Policeman John Corcoran. Sorensen then rescued the two men, while the second girl was picked up by a party in a passing boat. Those rescued by Policeman Sorensen were Theresa Tax, 17 years old, 1,198 Tinton Avenue, the Bronx; Adolph Lohe, 18, 678 St. Ann's Avenue, and Theodore Tonister, 678 St. Ann's Avenue. The other girl was Helen Brown, 506 Brook Avenue, the Bronx. All four were taken to Fordham Hospital.

Miss Ruth Jenks, a daughter of Presiding Justice Almet S. Jenks of the Appellat Division, Second Department, returned to her home in this city last night after a narrow escape from drowning at Lake Gilles, near Glen Eyre, Pa. Miss Jenks was one of a party of sixteen given by Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Toothe of Madison, N. J., at the Blooming Grove Hunting and Fishing Club, in honor of their youngest son, Charles Toothe, and his fiancée, Miss Selina Bearns of Brooklyn. She missed a stroke with her paddle and pitched out of a canoe into fifty feet of water. Neither she nor her companion, Charles P. Rogers of Madison, N. J., could swim.

James Toothe, who was in another canoe near at hand with Miss Lucille Wardner of 28 Gardner Place, Brooklyn, rescued her. Rogers meanwhile reached the capsized canoe and managed to reach shore by propelling the craft with his feet.

Miss Myrelle Adelson of 95 West 119th Street and her companion, Leon A. Friedman of 900 Riverside Drive, had a narrow escape from drowning at Bradley's Beach, N. J., yesterday at noon. They were rescued by Joe Ruddy, captain of the New York Athletic Swimming Team, and Stephen Ruddy, a nephew, and Jerry Smith, to whom he was giving swimming lessons from a boat.

Miss Adelson was caught in a strong undertow about 300 yards from shore. Friedman hurried to her assistance. He battled against the heavy waves, but when he realized he was making no headway, he shouted for help. Stephen Ruddy went to the aid of the young woman and Smith assisted Friedman in keeping afloat until they could be lifted into the boat. When within 100 feet of the beach the craft capsized. All were thrown into the water. Joe Ruddy brought Miss Adelson and Friedman ashore, while his two companions righted the boat and brought it in. Dr. Schwartz of Ocean Avenue, Miss Adelson's host, who watched the rescue from the beach, and Dr. William Rose of Red Bank, N. J., attended the rescued pair, who soon were restored.

P.P.C. Printing Facts

When giving dimensions to a printer or engraver it makes a great difference in what order you mention your measurement. Always indicate the width first and the height second. A 6 x 9 book is six inches wide and nine inches high. But a 9 x 6 book is nine inches wide and six inches high. The latter is a more costly book to bind than the former. The 6 x 9 book is called "upright"; the 9 x 6 book, "oblong."

Quality that is not seen

Thorough quality in Cutler Desks does not end in their beautiful finish. Cutler quality is built into the whole desk. The unseen details are built with the same conscientious care as are the details which are to be seen.

There is the same quality in the construction of the combination locking device as in the broad, handsome back panel which makes a Cutler Desk equally good looking in the center of the room or against the wall.

Because the Cutler dealer is always sure of his ground when talking of Cutler quality, he usually can give you all the advantages you get in a quality store. Ask for his name and for descriptive literature.

BUY WITH KNOWLEDGE

AN experienced haberdasher says "Lastlong Union Suits are making a hit with particular men because they know these suits are made of the best featherweight, flat knit, cotton fabric produced in the U. S. A.—loose fitting, absorbent and elastic."

"And featherweight, flat knit, means something—for this Size 40 athletic suit weighs but six ounces."

MERCANTILE TRUST COMPANY

"He is survived by his wife and 4 children"

—From a newspaper obituary

SUPPOSE this were your wife and children!

Would not the thought of your family struggling with complicated business details fill you with misgivings?

We need not remind you of the average family's business experience. It is proverbial that not one family in a hundred is competent to step in and manage its own business affairs, after death has taken the head of the family.

Unless your family is a conspicuous exception to this rule, you will do well to arrange at once for the businesslike handling of your property, in the event of your unexpected death.

For Death, as we are reminded every day, has a way of taking men when they least suspect his presence, and involving their families in hopeless financial tangles.

You can guard against this ever-present danger by appointing the Mercantile Trust Company executors and trustees under your will.

This practical arrangement secures for your family, in addition to the constant supervision of our trust officers, the experience and judgment of our permanent TRUST COMMITTEE, which meets periodically to scrutinize all securities held in trust.

For the property which descends to your heirs you insure the sound management by which it was built up and kept intact during your own lifetime.

To establish a Mercantile Trusteeship for your family is very simple. The fee, moreover, is small and fixed by law. We shall be glad to explain any details.
